Spencer Inlet of the Great Australian Bight between the Eyre and Yorke peninsulas of South Australia, it contains many small islands including Gambier, Thistle, Sir Joseph Banks, and Neptune.

Suez North-western arm of the Red Sea between Africa and the Sinai Peninsula, it is 195 miles in length and its most northerly point at Suez marks the beginning of the Suez Canal.

Suez Canal The first fact to determine about the Suez Canal is its length, a subject that is one of the most frequently asked quiz questions. It is officially 100.6 miles long, but many reputable sources will have it listed anywhere between 100 and 105 miles; this difference is mainly due to alterations to accommodate larger vessels. The canal was built by Ferdinand de Lesseps (1805–94) and opened in 1869; its extremities are Port Said at the northern end and Suez to the south; it links two broad areas of sea, the Mediterranean and the Red Sea (via the Gulf of Suez), and is therefore technically, like many canals, a strait. It has no locks.

Volga–Don Shipping Canal Runs from Kalach on the Tsimlyansk Reservoir on the Don 62.2 miles to Krasnoarmeysk on the Volga; it was completed in 1952 and joins the Black Sea to the Caspian Sea.

Welland Canal Completed in 1932 and now part of the St Lawrence Seaway, it is 27.6 miles in length and is situated in southern Ontario between Lake Erie to the south and Lake Ontario to the north; it was built as an alternative route through the River Niagara because of the impassable falls.

White Sea–Baltic Canal Longest ship canal in the world (141 miles), between Povenets and Belomorsk in Russia; it has 19 locks and was opened in 1933 as the Stalin Canal.

Yosemite Falls Situated in Yosemite National Park, central California, USA. The Upper Yosemite Fall drops 1,430 ft and the Lower Falls 320 ft with the cascades between making a total drop of 2,425 ft.

Definitions of Waterways

bay a wide semicircular indentation of a shoreline, especially between two headlands or peninsulas.

canal an artificial waterway constructed for navigational aid, irrigation, or hydro-electric power.

lake a body of water, either freshwater or salt, completely surrounded by land.

ocean very large stretch of sea, especially one of the 4 main oceans of the world, i.e. Pacific, Atlantic, Indian, Arctic. The Antarctic Ocean is made up of the southern extremities of the Atlantic, Pacific and Indian Oceans.

river see definition in relevant section.

sea a mass of salt water that may be part of one of the Earth's oceans or part of a larger sea area.

strait a narrow channel of the sea, bordered by land and linking two larger sea areas. It is often confusing to think of a strait as connecting waters, as opposed to land, because it is usually the land boundaries of the strait that are better known. To give a typical example, most people realise that the Bass Strait lies between mainland Australia and Tasmania, but few will know that the strait links the Tasman Sea area of the Pacific and the Indian Ocean.

Sea Areas

Weather forecasts are broadcast on a regular basis for the Shipping Forecast Areas around the British coast and neighbouring countries. It should be noted that the areas on the map are the boundaries set by Britain and are not universally accepted by other countries who have their own boundary limits and names. German Bight was previously called Heligoland until 1956 and FitzRoy (named after the Met office founder and HMS Beagle captain, Admiral Robert FitzRoy) was called Finisterre until 2002.

NB: Of the 54 Commonwealth members, 16 have Queen Elizabeth II as head of state, 33 are republics and five have their own monarchies. Pakistan left the Commonwealth in 1972 but rejoined in 1989, but was suspended on 18 October 1999. Zimbabwe was suspended on 20 March 2002. In December 2003 the suspension was extended indefinitely and the Zimbabwean government responded by announcing the country was leaving the Commonwealth for good. Fiji's membership has been suspended since 8 December 2006. The areas given are land areas.

NB: The Serbian population estimate does not include the disputed area of Kosovo.

HISTORY

Chronicles of World History

- AD 1 The accepted year of Jesus' birth as calculated by Dionysius Exiguus in AD 525. (The more probable date is now considered to be 4 or possibly 6 BC.)
- The King of the Trinovantes tribe, in Southern England, Addedomarus, dies and is succeeded by Dubnovellaunus.
- 2 Lucius Caesar (the 1st grandson of Augustus) dies.
- 3 The future Roman Emperor Galba is born.
- 4 Gaius Caesar (2nd grandson of Augustus) dies leaving Tiberius, the Emperor's newly adopted grandson, as heir.
- 5 Romans defeat the Lombard tribes on the lower Elbe.
- 6 Chinese initiate 'Civil Service' examinations for prospective politicians.
- 7 Ovid works on his masterpiece, Metamorphoses.
- 8 Ovid is exiled to Tomis (now Constanta, in present-day Romania) by the Emperor Augustus for reasons unknown.
- 9 Germans under Arminius wipe out 3 Roman legions in the Teutoburg Forest. Titus Livius (Livy), from Padua, completes his 142-volume History of Rome.
- 10 Cunobelinus (Cymbeline) rules over most of southern England from his HQ at Camulodunum (Colchester).
- 12 Gaius Caesar (later nicknamed Caligula, meaning 'little boots') is born.
- 13 Tiberius is appointed his successor by Augustus.
- 14 Death of Augustus. His adopted son Agrippa Postumus is immediately executed, and Tiberius becomes emperor.
- 15 The law of 'Maiestas', making it a crime to harm the interests of Rome, and therefore of the Emperor, is brought back by Tiberius to ensure that his sovereign power is not undermined.
- 16 An attempt to overthrow Tiberius is thwarted when a slave of Agrippa Postumus, named Clemens, is killed.
- 17 The poet Ovid dies in exile. Livy dies in Patavium (Padua).
- 18 In China, the usurper Emperor Wang Mang's forces fail to subdue the rebel band known as the Red Eyebrows at Shandong.
- 19 Tiberius' nephew Germanicus is poisoned in Syria, possibly by Gnaeus Calpurnius Piso, the governor of Syria.
- 20 Piso commits suicide during his trial.
- 21 A revolt by the Gallic tribes, the Treveri and the Aedui, is put down by Gaius Silius.
- 22 Wang Mang is defeated and killed, during a revolt by followers of the Han regime.
- 23 Drusus, the son of Tiberius, is poisoned by Lucius Aelius Sejanus, commander of the Praetorian Guard.
- 24 Tacfarinas, king of the Numidians, is killed by the Romans after a 7-year revolt.
- 25 Tiberius retires to Capri on the advice of the increasingly dominating Sejanus. Buddha is represented in human form for the first time at Gandhara.
- 26 Pontius Pilate becomes the 5th Roman procurator of Judaea and Samaria.
- 27 Tiberius leaves Rome and settles on Capri.
- 29 Agrippina, widow of Germanicus, is arrested on the orders of Tiberius.
- 30 Jesus of Nazareth is crucified at Golgotha. Dionysius Exiguus, the inventor of the Christian calendar, wrongly dated the birth of Jesus according to the Roman system, i.e. 754 years after the founding of Rome.
- 31 Sejanus is executed by Tiberius when the extent of his plotting emerges.
- 32 In Rome, interest rates rocket as a result of a currency shortage. The Emperor Otho is born.
- 35 Tiberius makes Caligula and Tiberius Gemellus heirs to his private estate.
- 36 The future Emperor Nerva is born.
- 37 Tiberius dies at Misenum and is succeeded by Gaius Caesar (Caligula). The Emperor Nero is born.
- 38 Drusilla, beloved sister and consort of Caligula, dies, and is deified.
- 39 Caligula puts down a conspiracy by the governor of higher Germany, Gaetulicus.
- 40 King Ptolemy of Mauretania is assassinated by order of Caligula.
- 41 Caligula declares himself a god and is assassinated shortly afterwards. Claudius succeeds him.

- 55 Britannicus, son of Claudius, dies, possibly poisoned by Nero.
- 57 Paul is arrested at Caesarea and held for trial.
- 58 Paul writes an epistle to the Romans.
- 59 Nero has his mother, Agrippina, killed.
- 60 Mark, a disciple of Jesus, chronicles the life of his master, from baptism by his cousin, John, to his eventual death.
- 61 During a rebellion led by Queen Boudicca of the Iceni, the Trinovantes and Iceni tribes sack Roman Colchester, St Albans and London. Boudicca commits suicide after defeat by Suetonius Paulinus.
- 62 Paul is put under 'house arrest' in Rome.
- 63 The Armenian throne is returned to Tiridates after the peace of Rhandaia.
- 64 Paul of Tarsus is executed, as is Peter the apostle. Fire destroys over half of the city of Rome.
- 65 Nero's pregnant wife dies after being kicked by him.
- 66 The courtier Gaius Petronius is accused of treason and has to commit suicide.
- 67 The Jews rise up against the Romans.
- 68 Nero commits suicide to end the Julio-Claudian line of Roman Emperors. He is succeeded by Servius Sulpicius Galba.
- 69 The year of 4 Roman emperors, Galba, Vitellius, Otho and Vespasian.
- 70 Vespasian's son, Titus, sacks Jerusalem, destroying most of the 3rd Temple; only the 'Wailing Wall' is left standing.
- 71 The 'Arch of Titus', in celebration of the sacking of Jerusalem, is erected in Rome.
- 73 Chinese forces under General Ban Chao gain control over the 'Oasis' states. After a two-year siege, the fortress of Masada in Judea falls to the Romans.
- 74 Vespasian institutes 'Latin Rights' which give inhabitants of towns identical civil rights to 'Citizens' except for holding public office.
- 75 Vespasian completes his Temple of Peace in Rome.
- 76 Johanan Ben Zakkai re-establishes the Sanhedrin, the Jewish religious court.
- 77 Gnaeus Julius Agricola arrives in Britain to complete the conquest.

- 78 Vima Kadphises, the Kushan king, who rules India from Benares, sends a delegation to Rome to arrange a surprise attack on the Parthians.
- 79 Vesuvius erupts, destroying Pompeii and the neighbouring towns of Herculaneum and Stabiae. Pliny the Elder is one of the victims. Vespasian dies, and his son Titus succeeds him.
- 80 The apostle Luke begins to write his gospel. The Colosseum is opened in Rome.
- 81 Titus dies of the plague and is succeeded by his brother, Titus Flavius Domitianus (Domitian). Domitian consecrates the triumphal arch to celebrate Titus's victory over the Jews.
- 82 Spanish poet Marcus Valerius Martialis (Martial) begins his Epigrams.
- 83 Agricola defeats the Caledonians at Mount Graupius.
- 84 Agricola is called back to Rome.
- 85 Domitian appoints himself censor for life, thereby giving himself complete control of the composition of the Senate.
- 86 The future Emperor Antoninus is born.
- 87 The Romans suffer a serious setback in the Dacian War.
- 88 The revolt of Saturninus, governor of Upper Germany, leads to Domitian declaring that only one legion is to be quartered in each Roman camp, to prevent any local commander from gaining excessive influence over troops.
- 89 Domitian is forced to sign a peace treaty with the Dacian king, Decebalus.
- 90 Domitian begins the persecution and execution of opponents.
- 91 Chinese general Ban Chao defeats the Indian Kushans.
- 92 The lazyges, a nomadic tribe, invade Dacia. Domitian leads his soldiers in person and succeeds in repelling them.
- 94 General Ban Chao completes his conquest of the Tarim basin.
- 95 Malaria appears in rural areas around Rome.
- 96 Emperor Domitian is stabbed to death by plotters led by his wife, Domitia. Senator Marcus Cocceius Nerva succeeds him.
- 97 Emperor Nerva recalls General Marcus Ulpius Trajanus (Trajan) from Upper Germany and adopts him.
- 98 Emperor Nerva dies, and is succeeded by Trajan.
- 99 Julius Frontinus, a former governor of Britain, surveys and describes the aqueducts of Rome in his capacity as superintendent of Rome's water supply.
- 100 The Sun and Moon pyramids are begun at Teotihuacán in Mexico.

NB. The chronology above is a brief cross-section of British and world events of the last two thousand years. Some of the data will inevitably be duplicated in other sections but it is useful to be reminded of the order of events relative to other happenings of the day.

In a book that endeavours to seek the truth it seems incongruous to chronicle prehistorical events which by definition must be open to some doubt, even with all the latest DNA and radiocarbon dating techniques. The approach adopted is to give a brief overview of the order of events that are likely to be of interest to the reader and to chronicle other events, although still open to interpretation, of a more definite nature.

Every schoolchild learns to classify prehistory into Stone Age, Bronze Age and Iron Age but it is very difficult to be pedantic and say when one age started and another ended. In fact, of course the Stone and Bronze ages never really ended anyway. The Paleolithic Period or Old Stone Age is deemed to have commenced over two million years ago with evidence of the use of rudimentary chipped stone tools, probably by a distant relative of modern man. Fossil remains of this precursor of Homo sapiens were found at Olduvai Gorge, Tanzania, in 1964 and variously assigned the names Homo habilis, Australopithecus africanus, or Australopithecus robustus, although the latter two names are often applied to an even older relative of modern man thought to have existed millions of years earlier. Fossil remains of Peking Man and Java Man suggested another forerunner of modern man, Homo erectus, dated from over a million years ago until 300,000 years ago. From about 300,000 bc other species of early man evolved and were given the general name of Homo sapiens. In 1856 the remains of a species of Homo sapiens was discovered in the Neander Valley in Germany and dated between 200,000 bc and 30,000 bc. The species of Homo sapiens that archaeologists and prehistorians call 'Modern Man' appears to date from circa 38,000 bc. The period from the identification of 'Modern Man' to the end of the Old Stone Age was characterised by the production of Paleolithic cave drawings, the oldest of which, the Chauvet paintings of southeast France, were discovered in 1994 and dated circa 29,000 bc, making them circa 15,000 years older than the Lascaux paintings, Dordogne. This period also saw the beginning of organised tool-making industries beginning with the Aurignacian Culture and developing via the Gravettian (Périgordian), Solutrean, and Magdalenian Culures to the Azilian industry which specialised in microlith tools for catching fish, birds and small mammals as the big game of the last ice age disappeared.

The next classification of prehistory is the Neolithic Period or New Stone Age, characterised by stone tools shaped by polishing or grinding. This period of our history corresponds to the geological Holocene Epoch circa 8,000 bc, the most recent interval of the Earth's geological history. This period also corresponds to the end of the last ice age. In circa 10,400 bc a major climatic warming occurred, the Bolling interstadial, which lasted for approximately 400 years and this was followed by the Allerod interstadial between circa 9,800 bc and circa 9,000 bc. This intermittent global warming became constant in circa 8,000 bc and can be classified as the end of the last ice age, which began around the same time as the emergence of 'Modern Man', and the beginning of the New Stone Age. The first free-standing stone buildings were built during the Neolithic Period, the oldest of which is Ggantija, a temple on the edge of the Xaghra plateau in the middle of the Maltese island of Gozo, circa 3,600 bc. The most recent archaeological find attributed to the Neolithic Period was the ice-man 'Otzi', discovered in the Otzal Alps on the Austrian–Italian border at an altitude of 3,210 metres, in 1991. Modern technology has established 'Otzi's size, looks, apparel and enabled a reconstruction in the Museum of Archaeology in Bolzano, Italy, the country that claimed him. The consensus opinion is that 'Otzi' lived circa 3,300 bc. It is very difficult to approximate the beginning of the Bronze Age as there was a long period of quasi-copper-based tools being produced. This period is referred to as the Chalcolithic (Copper-Stone) Age and even this period was precursed by the use of pure copper in Anatolia by 6,500 bc. The speculative classification of a Bronze Age perhaps can be dated to circa 3,000 bc, when it is established that the Greeks first added tin to copper, although this practice only became widespread a thousand years later. The last technological and cultural period in our classification is the Iron Age, which once again is very difficult to give a definite date of identification as there was a long period of overlapping with the Bronze Age. There is evidence of sparse use of iron in the Middle East as early as 3,000 bc, but it did not replace bronze as a superior metal until circa 1,200 bc.

Modern History

- Agent Orange Notorious herbicide used by the US military machine in Vietnam in the 1960s and 1970s; its active ingredient 245-T was also used in weedkillers and caused devastation.
- A6 Murder Michael Gregsten and Valerie Storie were shot in their car in a lay-by off the A6 between Luton and Bedford in August 1961. Storie, who survived the shooting, picked out James Hanratty at an identity parade, which led to his hanging in April 1962. Journalist Paul Foot has campaigned on behalf of Hanratty pointing out that Peter Alphon confessed to the murder.
- Balfour Declaration A milestone on the way to establishing the state of Israel. Arthur Balfour the former Conservative PM, served as foreign secretary in 1916–19, and in November 1917 wrote to Lord Rothschild, leader of the British Jewish community, to the effect that Britain favoured a national home for the Jewish people provided that it did not prejudice the civil and religious rights of existing non-Jewish communities in Palestine.
- Barlow Clowes Fraudulent investment company, details of which came to light in 1988. Elizabeth Barlow disappeared but Peter Clowes was sentenced to 10 years imprisonment in 1992. The government at first refused to pay compensation, but the Ombudsman found maladministration by the Department of Trade and Industry so £150 m was provided.
- Beveridge Report Report laying down the framework for the development of the Welfare State. Published in 1942 and accepted by the coalition government in 1944, it became operational in 1948.
- Big Bang Transformation of the London Stock Exchange in October 1986 which reflected the advent of global stock and bond trading networks and of round-the-clock trading. It also abolished the different categories of stockbrokers and jobbers.
- Birmingham Six Patrick Hill, Richard McIlkenny, John Walker, William Power, Gerard Hunter and Hugh Callaghan wrongly imprisoned for IRA activities following the bombing of 2 public houses in Birmingham in November 1974. Their convictions were quashed in the Appeal Court in March 1991.

caviare to the general	of no interest to the average man	Derives from Shakespeare's Hamlet (1601), Act 2 Scene 2; the 'general' cited is the general public and the phrase refers to the notion that such a novel delicacy was not for the edification of the common man.
chav	streetwise youngster who loves designer labels	Expression which became fashionable in southern England in 2004 and is thought to be a corruption of 'chavi', the Romany word for a child. The chav society have their own sign language of derogatory terms and are usually seen sporting hooded tops and baseball caps. (Other terms associated with youth culture and fashion, but deriving from the USA, include bling or bling-bling, breakbeat and phat.)
cold enough to freeze the balls off a brass monkey	extremely cold	A brass monkey was the name given to the tray on which cannon balls were stacked aboard Royal Navy warships of the early 19th century. In severe cold weather the brass would contract and the balls would topple off the top of the pile.
disgusted, Tunbridge Wells	reference to a critical correspondent without specifying name	The reference to Tunbridge Wells has no significance other than that it was originally the name of a character played by Wallas Eaton in the radio comedy series Take it From Here from 1953.
doolally	out of one's mind	Named after Deolali, a town near Bombay with a sanatorium where many British soldiers were detained before being shipped home. The term became military slang for a crazy person circa 1925.
dressed up like a dog's dinner	describes something that is messy	Derives from the description in 2 Kings where Jezebel adorned herself before being defenestrated and eaten by dogs. This phrase often has the word 'breakfast' substituted for 'dinner'.
eat crow	to be forced to do something humiliating	Term dates back to the War of 1812 where a New England soldier entered British lines and shot a crow. An unarmed British officer feigned interest in the American's firearm and, when allowed to examine it, turned the gun on the soldier and forced him to take a bite of the crow.
eat humble pie	to be humiliated	Expression derives from tradition of offering the unappealing parts of a hunted deer, the numbles (entrails, later corrupted to umbles) to those of inferior rank or standing feather in one's cap	an achievement to be proud of	Dates from the Battle of Crécy (1346) when Edward, the Black Prince, was awarded the crest of three ostrich feathers of King John of Bohemia; these became the symbol of every subsequent Prince of Wales.
fifth column	an organised body working for the enemy within a country at war	Originally coined by Emilio Mola Vidal, a Nationalist general during the Spanish Civil War (1936–9). As four of his army columns moved on Madrid, the general referred to his militant supporters within the capital as his 'fifth column', intent on undermining the loyalist government from within.
flash in the pan	short-lived success before ultimate failure	Derives from the propensity of the old flintlock pistols to misfire. A hammer strikes a flint, producing a spark which explodes the charge. The powder in the chamber, named the pan, often flashed but failed to ignite the charge.
fourth estate	the press	General usage of the term dates back to 1828 when Thomas Macaulay wrote of the House of Commons, 'The gallery in which the reporters sit has become the fourth estate of the realm'. The established three estates were the House of Lords, divided into the Lords Spiritual and the Lords Temporal, and the House of Commons.
full monty, the	the whole thing	There have been suggestions that the expression derives from the somewhat large breakfasts enjoyed by Field Marshal Montgomery, but it is more likely to be a reference to the famous men's tailor Montague Burton whose standard outfit was a two-piece suit, but who offered as an optional extra a waistcoat and a second pair of trousers. Paying the extra was going for the full Monty. The feature film of the 1990s gave the word a very different meaning, making an allusion to the fact that a group of male strippers would 'go all the way' if the price were right.

An early 16th-century phrase arising from the tradition that it was unlucky to place the left foot on the ground before the right when getting out of bed.

Dates from circa 1825, in the days when tradesmen owned their tools and gave the sack or bag in which they carried them to the employer to mind for them. When dismissed from his job, the employee's sack would be returned to him by the employer.

The most probable source is from RAF slang where to go for a Burton meant to have 'bought it', an allusion to buying a beer from the famous Burton-on-Trent brewery. Another possible derivation, also RAF slang, is from the fact that a Blackpool billiard hall over a Montague Burton tailor shop was used as a Morse code instruction centre. The phrase was used to describe failure on the course.

James Gordon Bennett II (1841–1918), editor-in-chief of the New York Herald, was the man who sent Henry Morton Stanley in search of David Livingstone in Africa. He was also an adventurer and one of his many reported exploits was an incident where he flew an aeroplane through an open barn. The surprised onlookers were supposed to have said 'That was Gordon Bennett!'

This supposedly Devonshire dialect word for a tourist, particularly one from north of the Watford Gap, was popularised in the 1962 film The System, which was set in the Devon resort of Torquay, although its exact origin is disputed. One idea is that it derives from the resemblance between the famous clown named 'Grock' and a red-faced tourist with a knotted handkerchief on his head. The other, more probable derivation is simply from a cartoon strip of the time in the Dandy comic entitled 'Danny and his Grockle', the grockle being a dragon-like creature.

From the Chinese kung and ho, meaning 'work together'.

In early cricket, a bowler taking three wickets with three successive balls was entitled to a new hat at the expense of the club.

Thomas Hobson (1544–1631) was a coachman and hirer of horses in Cambridge. The phrase derives from Hobson's insistence that the customer could hire any horse they liked, as long as it was the one nearest the door!

Derives from Shakespeare's Hamlet (1601), Act 3 Scene 3. A petard was an explosive device used to break through walls.

Phrase coined by Jim Godbolt in 1951 in reference to the upper-class contingent attracted to a jazz club at 100 Oxford Street, London, where Humphrey Lyttelton played trumpet. The term itself derives from a character in Damon Runyon's 'Tight Shoes' (1936).

Welsh word that has various meanings but in the patriotic sense has come to mean to approach a task with vigour and energy: 'Put some hwy! into it'.

From Lewis Carroll's Through the Looking Glass and What Alice Found There (1871), in which The White Queen offers Alice 'Jam to-morrow and jam yesterday – but never jam today'. Socialist circles often used it to ridicule the capitalist system as offering the same empty promise.

In 1602 it is said that Cormac MacCarthy was to surrender Blarney Castle, near Cork, as a declaration of his loyalty to Elizabeth I, but his prevarication gave cause for the Queen to exclaim 'Odds bodikins, more Blarney talk.'

Phrase coined in the 1950s to describe dramas centred on the unsatisfactory nature of the UK's class system and working-class life. John Osborne was a leading exponent of such plays and when Shelagh Delaney's novel A Taste of Honey was made into a feature film in 1961, the term became a stock phrase to describe any drama form dealing with domestic reality. Contrast Aga saga.

Phrase derives from about 1740, when a game of marbles commenced with the knuckle being placed on the ground in order to shoot.

Phrase coined by Simon Walters, the political correspondent of The Sun, in 1988, and used to describe football hooligans and other drunken, unruly young males.

Phrase used from about 1761, deriving from defaulters on the London Stock Exchange who were seen to waddle out of Exchange Alley like the proverbial lame duck.

Irish phrase referring to an agricultural labourer's tendency to use his left foot when making the initial thrust of his spade into the ground, the assumption being that most Irish labourers are Catholics.

Phrase derives from the mid-18th century when a crowd would be shown a pig at a country fair and the vendor would then place the animal in a bag before sale, only for the unsuspecting purchaser to find it had been substituted by a less valuable cat!

Ecclesiastes 9:4 expresses this philosophical idiom and the sentiment is fairly evident. While a person lives they have hope of salvation and can know death but when dead they know nothing.

Phrase deriving from the character in Lewis Carroll's Alice's Adventures in Wonderland (1865), who was decidedly eccentric in his mannerisms. The related phrase 'mad as a March hare' dates from the early 16th century; Carroll based his character of the March Hare on this phrase.

Legal term first used by Lord Bowen in 1903 when summing-up in a case of negligence, his exact words being: 'We must ask ourselves what the man on the Clapham omnibus would think.'

The ps and qs in question relate to pints and quarts and refer to an innkeeper's custom of chalking up a customer's tally on the slate.

Mrs Grundy	a censorious person	The name derives from Thomas Morton's play Speed the Plough (1798) in which a character would often show disapproval by saying 'What will Mrs Grundy say?' In the 19th century Mrs Ormiston Chant was an actual campaigner against vulgarity in the music hall and in the 20th century her equivalent was Mrs Mary Whitehouse.
Morton's Fork	the dictate that no man is spared taxes on the premise that the rich have obvious wealth while the ostensibly poor must therefore save weak and insipid	John Morton (1420–1500) was Archbishop of Canterbury (1486–1500) but it was in his position as Lord Chancellor from 1487 that the phrase derives. In order to raise revenue during the reign of Henry VII, Morton propounded the theory that became known as Morton's Fork in order to ensure that no man was excluded from paying taxes.
namby-pamby		The phrase derives from the nickname of Ambrose Phillips (died 1749) whose pastoral verse was criticised for its insipidity. Fellow poet Henry Carey is thought to have first used this derogatory name in 1726.
nine days' wonder	something with short-lived appeal	Phrase deriving from the proverb 'A wonder lasts nine days, and then the puppy's eyes are open', an allusion to the fact that a puppy is born blind and innocent but then its eyes are opened to the world.
no room to swing a cat	a small confined space	The 'cat' referred to was not a feline at all, but a flail-like whip used to punish sailors in the British Navy from the 17th century.
Old Bill	policeman	Term deriving from the cartoon character invented by British Army Captain Bruce Bairnsfather (1888–1959) during his convalescence from shell-shock during WWI. The name was used as a nickname for policemen from the outbreak of WWII.
on tenterhooks	in a state of anxious suspense	Phrase derived from the process of cleaning woollen cloth after weaving. To prevent shrinkage the cloth was placed in a wooden frame called a tenter and was stretched by fixing hooks. The word tenter in this sense comes from the Latin tendere (to stretch). First use of the phrase was in Tobias Smollett's Roderick Random (1748).
page three girl	a topless photographic model	Phrase derived from a feature that began in The Sun newspaper on 17 November 1970 when the then editor Larry Lamb introduced topless pin-ups to page three. The term is now used generically for any such nude model or for describing any overtly beautiful woman.
pass the buck	to shift responsibility to another	Phrase derived from the game of poker where a marker, known as a buck, is placed in front of the dealer as a reminder of who the dealer is.
pathetic fallacy	attribution of human feelings to inanimate objects in nature	Literary term coined by John Ruskin in Modern Painters , vol. 3 part 4 (1856) where he gives examples of the attribution of emotions to inanimate objects in poetry, e.g.: 'The spendthrift crocus bursting through the mould, naked and shivering, with his cup of gold'.
Peeping Tom	a voyeur	Derived from the name of Tom the Tailor, who was struck blind when he peeped at Lady Godiva (wife of Leofric, Earl of Mercia & Lord of Coventry) as she rode naked through the streets of Coventry to excuse her husband's tenants from his exactions. The legend was recorded by Roger of Wendover (d. 1236) in his Flores Historiarum , although the addition of Tom to the legend was made during the reign of Charles II.
pommy	Australian slang term for British immigrants	Term first coined in Sydney, Australia, in 1912. DH Lawrence described its derivation in his novel Kangaroo (1923) as corrupted rhyming slang: pomegranate – immigrant. Other more popular derivations such as Prisoner of Mother England (POME) bear no semblance of truth.
quiz	set of questions to test knowledge	Came into use in 1782 when Mr Daly, a Dublin theatre manager, made a wager that he could introduce a new word into the language within 24 hours. This he achieved by scrawling the word 'quiz' all over the walls of Dublin. Its meaning was given as 'an odd, or eccentric person' – as many quiz players are, of course! The present sense of the word came into common usage in the 1860s.
real McCoy	the genuine article	Phrase derived from the name of middleweight boxing champion Charles 'Kid' McCoy who had two ways of fighting; occasionally lacklustre, on his day he was unbeatable in the middleweight division, taking the world title on the retirement of Bob Fitzsimmons in 1897.
red letter day	a special day	High days and holidays used to be marked in red on church calendars. Dates from the Reformation.
red tape	bureaucratic rules	Legal documents were traditionally bound with red tape.
rob Peter to pay Paul	use money allocated to one project to complete another without any overall benefit	Westminster Abbey is dedicated to St Peter. In 1540 Henry VIII had designated the Abbey a cathedral with its own bishop and diocese. However, when the bishopric was dissolved in 1550 and the church made a second cathedral in the diocese of London, some lands belonging to the church were exchanged or sold off. Some of this money was used for the repair of (old) St Paul's cathedral, hence robbing St Peter's church to pay for St Paul's cathedral.
sandwich	two slices of bread filled with any foodstuff	Coined by John Montagu, 4th Earl of Sandwich (1718–92), an avid gambler who disliked leaving the gaming tables and so sent out for snacks to be brought to him while playing. Sandwiches are still supplied at the tables of many gaming clubs.
scot free	get away with something without penalty	Phrase deriving from a medieval tax called 'scot and lot'. The scot is a Scandinavian word for a contribution and the lot was a shortened version of allotment. A person able to circumvent the rules for payment was said to have got off scot free. The 1832 Reform Act dispensed with the tax.
snob	person who behaves condescendingly to those perceived as of lower class	Term first used in the late 18th century as slang for a cobbler. Although cobblers were perceived as being from humble origins, the term later became attached to those who looked down on such honest craftsmen.
splice the mainbrace	to have an alcoholic drink	The mainbrace is the rope which controls the movement of sails aboard ship and the phrase compares the degree of difficulty in gaining an extra rum ration from the Royal Navy with that of controlling the mainbrace.
spoonerism	the transposition of parts of words	The Reverend William Spooner (1844–1930), warden of New College, Oxford, was famous for muddling his words and the phrase entered common usage by 1885. The classic example of a spoonerism is 'Sir, you have tasted two whole worms, you have hissed all my mystery lectures and have been caught fighting a liar in the quad; you will leave Oxford by the next town drain', although this is thought to be apocryphal. If the good reverend had been a film fan, perhaps he would have liked Shaving Ryan's Privates!

spud	colloquial name for a potato	Name given to the implement used to dig a potato out of the ground, first coined in the diary of Samuel Pepys in 1667. The Irish people immediately used this expression for the humble potato, although Murphy remains another popular term. People with the surname Murphy are invariably nicknamed Spud.
square meal stool pigeon	a hearty meal a police informer	In the Royal Navy sailors traditionally received their meals on a square plate. Hunters traditionally used decoy pigeons fixed to posts (stools) to lure their quarry. The term was later adopted to describe people who helped the police by luring criminals into police traps. It later came to mean anyone who helped the police by informing on others.
tell it to the Marines	exclamation of disbelief	The phrase derives from the fact that marines were perceived as being neither one thing or the other as they operated on land and sea; hence they were classed as second-rate and stupid, and open to believe a tall story. In fact, of course, marines are among the brightest and toughest of servicemen.
thin blue line	defensive barrier of policemen	A line of policemen, particularly those holding back a surging crowd. More recent adaptation of the thin red line .
thin end of the wedge	something small and seemingly unimportant that conceals the bigger picture	The phrase was first coined in the mid 1800s and alluded to the narrow wedge inserted into a log for splitting wood.
thin red line	defensive barrier formed by soldiers	According to jingoistic folklore in the UK, a small group of British soldiers (who wore red jackets) were enough to hold back a mob of warlike foreigners.
third degree, the	close interrogation	In a masonic lodge there are three ranks or degrees: the first is called Entered Apprentice, the second Fellowcraft, and the third is Master Mason. When a candidate receives the third degree in a Masonic lodge, he is subjected to activities that include an interrogation and are more physically challenging than those entailed in the first two degrees.
throw one's hat into the ring Tin Pan Alley	show an intention to join an enterprise centre of musical creativity	Phrase derived from early 18th century prize-fights when it was traditional to throw one's hat into the ring when making a challenge to the resident fighter. The area around Denmark Street, off Charing Cross Road, was known as Tin Pan Alley by 1934, although the name itself was used as early as 1908 to refer to a similar area of musical activity in Manhattan, New York, where the noise of countless pianos being tinkled sounded like the crashing of tin pans.
turn the tables	achieve a reversal of fortune	Phrase derived from the quick reversal of fortunes experienced while playing backgammon. The gameboard is divided into four quarters, two being designated the inner table and two the outer table. An errant throw of the dice can quickly change a position from a favourable to a precarious one.
Walter Plinge	an actor's alternative name	Mr Plinge was said to be a stage-struck pub landlord working near the Theatre Royal, Drury Lane, in the 19th century and in homage to his enthusiasm actors would use his name in programmes when playing two parts. Sometimes the name was used for a fictional character to boost the cast list and at other times because of uncertainty of final casting. The American equivalent is George Spelvin.
whipping boy	a scapegoat punished for the inadequacies of others	It used to be the practice in some cultures that the nobility could not be touched. When they committed a crime that warranted physical punishment it was therefore delegated to an unfortunate victim – the whipping boy. Barnaby Fitzpatrick stood as whipping boy for Edward VI and Mungo Murray for Charles I before they were crowned. This seemingly outlandish practice was in reality a means to instil a sense of justice and righteousness in future monarchs; it was hoped they would behave appropriately in the knowledge that an innocent bystander might be punished on their behalf.
white bread	pertaining to white middle classes in the USA. Something that is more trouble than it is worth	Derogatory term that refers to the supposed bland and uninteresting nature of white middle-class culture in the USA, brown wholemeal bread being more exciting and generally beneficial.
white elephant	Something that is more trouble than its worth	White (albino) elephants were regarded as holy in ancient times in Thailand and other Asian countries. To keep a white elephant was a very expensive task, since you had to provide the elephant with special food, and provide access for people who wanted to come and worship it. If a king became dissatisfied with a subordinate, he would sometimes give him a white elephant in order to ruin him.
white goods	large electrical kitchen goods	Marketing term used to describe large household appliances such as refrigerators, microwaves and cookers which are often finished in white enamel. The term is also used to describe household linen such as sheets, towels and tablecloths.
white knight	an organisation that comes to the aid of another during a hostile takeover	Making an analogy to the bygone age of chivalry, the phrase became common at the Stock Exchange by 1981. The knight would rescue a targeted company by offering to acquire it far above the pursuer's value and generally under better terms.
wooden spoon, receive the	to finish last in a competition	In the University of Cambridge, England, the scholar whose name stood last of all on the printed list of honours, at the Bachelors' Commencement in January, was scoffingly said to gain the wooden spoon. Eventually an actual wooden spoon was presented to the person placed last in the mathematical tripos.

First Lines of Books and Poems

Adams, Douglas The Hitch Hiker's Guide to the Galaxy Far out in the uncharted backwaters of the unfashionable end of the Western Spiral arm of the Galaxy lies a small unregarded yellow sun.

Adams, Douglas The Restaurant at the End of the Universe There is a theory which states that if anyone discovers exactly what the Universe is for and why it is here, it will instantly disappear and be replaced by something even more bizarre and inexplicable.

Adams, Richard Watership Down The primroses were over.

Adams, Richard Shardik Even in the dry heat of summer's end, the great forest was never silent.

Agee, James A Death in the Family We are talking now of summer evenings in Knoxville, Tennessee in the time that I lived there so successfully disguised to myself as a child.

Albom, Mitch The Five People You Meet in Heaven This is a story about a man named Eddie and it begins at the end, with Eddie dying in the sun.

Alcott, Louisa May Good Wives In order that we may start afresh and go to Meg's wedding with free minds, it will be well to begin with a little gossip about the Marches.

Alcott, Louisa May Little Men Please, sir, is this Plumfield? asked a ragged boy of the man who opened the great gate at which the omnibus left him.

Alcott, Louisa May Little Women Christmas won't be Christmas without any presents, grumbled Jo, lying on the rug.

Angelou, Maya I Know Why the Caged Bird Sings When I was three and Bailey was four, we had arrived in the musty little town.

Arnold, Matthew 'Dover Beach' The sea is calm tonight. The tide is full, the moon lies fair.

Ashford, Daisy The Young Visitors Mr Salteena was an elderly man of 42 and was fond of asking people (sic) to stay with him.

Asimov, Isaac Foundation His name was Gaal Dornick and he was just a country boy who had never seen Trantor before.

Asimov, Isaac I, Robot I looked at my notes and I didn't like them. I'd spent three days at U.S. Robots and might as well have spent them at home with the Encyclopedia Tellurica.

Atwater, Richard & Florence Mr. Popper's Penguins It was an afternoon in late September. In the pleasant city of Stillwater, Mr. Popper, the house painter, was going home from work.

Atwood, Margaret The Blind Assassin Ten days after the war ended, my sister Laura drove a car off a bridge.

Atwood, Margaret Cat's Eye Time is not a line but a dimension, like the dimensions of space.

Auden, WH Night Mail This is the Night Mail crossing the border, bringing the cheque and the postal order.

Austen, Jane Emma Emma Woodhouse, handsome, clever, and rich, with a comfortable home and happy disposition, seemed to unite some of the best blessings of existence.

Austen, Jane Mansfield Park About thirty years ago, Miss Maria Ward of Huntingdon with only seven thousand pounds had the good luck to captivate Sir Thomas Bertram.

Austen, Jane Northanger Abbey No one who had ever seen Catherine Morland in her infancy would have supposed her born to be an heroine.

Austen, Jane Persuasion Sir Walter Elliot, of Kellynch Hall, in Somersetshire, was a man who, for his own amusement, never took up any book but the Baronetage . . .

Austen, Jane Pride and Prejudice It is a truth universally acknowledged, that a single man in possession of a good fortune, must be in want of a wife.

Austen, Jane Sense and Sensibility The family of Dashwood has long been settled in Sussex.

Baldwin, James Go Tell It on the Mountain Everyone had always said that John would be a preacher when he grew up, just like his father.

Ballard, JG Crash Vaughan died yesterday in his last car-crash.

Banks, Iain The Crow Road It was the day my grandmother exploded.

Banks, Lynne Reid The Indian in the Cupboard It was not that Omri didn't appreciate Patrick's birthday present to him.

Barrie, JM Peter Pan All children, except one, grow up.

Barth, John Giles Goat-Boy George is my name; my deeds have been heard of in Tower Hall, and my childhood has been chronicled in the Journal of Experimental Psychology.

Barth, John The Sot-Weed Factor In the last years of the seventeenth century there was to be found among the fops & fools of the London coffee-houses one rangy, gangling flitch called Ebenezer Cooke, more ambitious than talented, and yet more talented than prudent.

Baum, Frank The Wonderful Wizard of Oz Dorothy lived in the midst of the great Kansas prairies, with Uncle Henry, who was a farmer, and Aunt Em, who was the farmer's wife.

Beckett, Samuel Company A voice comes to one in the dark.

Beckett, Samuel Murphy The sun shone, having no alternative, on the nothing new.

Bellow, Saul The Adventures of Augie March I am an American, Chicago born—Chicago, that somber city.

Bellow, Saul Herzog If I am out of my mind, it's all right with me thought Moses Herzog.

Bellow, Saul Humboldt's Gift The book of ballads published by Von Humboldt Fleisher in the Thirties was an immediate hit.

Bemelmans, Ludwig Madeline In an old house in Paris that was covered with vines lived 12 little girls in two straight lines.

Benchley, Peter Jaws The great fish moved silently through the night water, propelled by short sweeps of its crescent tail.

Berryman, John Homage to Mistress Bradstreet The Governor your husband lived so long.

Bester, Alfred The Stars My Destination This was a Golden Age, a time of high adventure, rich living, and hard dying . . . but nobody thought so.

Betjeman, John 'A Subaltern's Love-Song' Miss J. Hunter Dunn, Miss J. Hunter Dunn, Furnish'd and burnish'd by Aldershot sun.

Blake, William 'Tyger!' Tyger! Tyger! burning bright In the forests of the night, What immortal hand or eye Could frame thy fearful symmetry?

Blatty, William Peter The Exorcist Like the brief doomed flare of exploding suns that registers dimly on blind men's eyes, the beginning of the horror passed almost unnoticed.

Böll, Heinrich The Clown It was dark by the time I reached Bonn, and I forced myself not to succumb to the series of mechanical actions which had taken hold of me in five years of travelling back and forth.

Boyle, T Coraghessan The Road to Wellville Dr. John Harvey Kellogg, inventor of the cornflake and peanut butter, not to mention caramel-cereal coffee, Bromose, Nuttolene and some seventy-five other gastronomically correct foods, paused to level his gaze on the heavyset women in front of him.

Bradbury, Ray Fahrenheit 451 It was a pleasure to burn.

Bradley, Marion Zimmer Mists of Avalon Even in high summer, Tintagel was a haunted place; Igraine, Lady of Duke Gorlois, looked out over the sea from the headland.

Braine, John Life at the Top She woke me up by lifting my eyelids; then she slipped under the bed clothes beside me and lay there smiling.

Brautigan, Richard A Confederate General from Big Sur When I first heard about Big Sur I didn't know that it was a member of the Confederate States of America.

Camus, Albert The Stranger Mother died today. Or perhaps it

Brontë, Anne Agnes Grey All true histories contain instruction, though in some, the treasure may be hard to find, and when found, so trivial in quantity that the dry shrivelled kernel scarcely compensates for the trouble of cracking the nut.

Brontë, Anne The Tenant of Wildfell Hall You must go back with me to the autumn of 1827.

Brontë, Charlotte Jane Eyre There was no possibility of taking a walk that day.

Brontë, Charlotte The Professor The other day, in looking over my papers, I found in my desk the following copy of a letter.

Brontë, Charlotte Villette My Godmother lived in a handsome house in the clean and ancient town of Bretton.

Brontë, Emily Wuthering Heights 1801 – I have just returned from a visit to my landlord.

Brooke, Rupert 'The Soldier' If I should die, think only this of me: That there's some corner of a foreign field That is forever England.

Brown, Dan Angels & Demons High atop the steps of the Pyramid of Giza a young woman laughed and called down to him.

Brown, Dan The Da Vinci Code Robert Langdon awoke slowly.

Brown, Dan Deception Point Toulos Restaurant, adjacent to Capitol Hill, boasts a politically incorrect menu of baby veal and horse carpaccio ...

Brown, Dan Digital Fortress They were in the Smoky Mountains at their favorite bed-and-breakfast.

Brown, Rita Mae Rubyfruit Jungle No one remembers her beginnings.

Brown, Rita Mae Venus Envy Dying's not so bad. At least I won't have to answer the telephone.

Browning, Elizabeth Barrett 'How Do I Love Thee' How do I love thee? Let me count the ways. .

Browning, Robert 'Childe Roland to the Dark Tower Came' My first thought was, he lied in every word.

Browning, Robert 'Home-Thoughts: from Abroad' Oh, to be in England now that April's there . . .

Buchan, John The Thirty-Nine Steps I returned from the city about three o'clock on that May afternoon, pretty well disgusted with life.

Buck, Pearl The Good Earth It was Wang Lung's marriage day.

Bulwer-Lytton, Edward Paul Clifford It was a dark and stormy night and the rain fell in torrents – except at occasional intervals, when it was checked by a violent gust of wind which swept up the streets (for it is in London that our scene lies), rattling along the housetops, and fiercely agitating the scanty flame of the lamps...

Bunyan, John The Pilgrim's Progress As I walked through the wilderness of this world, I lighted on a certain place where was a Den, and I laid me down in that place to sleep: and, as I slept, I dreamed a dream.

Burgess, Anthony A Clockwork Orange What's it going to be then, eh?

Burgess, Anthony Earthly Powers It was the afternoon of my eighty-first birthday and I was in bed with my catamite when Ali announced that the Archbishop had come to see me.

Burnett, Frances Hodgson A Little Princess Once on a dark winter's day, when the yellow fog hung so thick and heavy in the streets of London that the lamps were lighted and the shop windows blazed with gas as they do at night, an odd-looking little girl sat in a cab with her father and was driven rather slowly through the big thoroughfares.

Burnett, Frances Hodgson The Secret Garden When Mary Lennox was sent to Misselthwaite Manor to live with her uncle everybody said she was the most disagreeable-looking child ever seen.

Burns, Robert 'A Red Red Rose' O my luv'e's like a red, red rose, That's newly sprung in June.

Burns, Robert 'To a Field Mouse' Wee, sleekit, cow'rin', tim'rous beastie, O what a panic's in thy breastie.

Butler, Samuel The Way of All Flesh When I was a small boy at the beginning of the century I remember an old man who wore knee-breeches and worsted stockings, and used to hobble about the street of our village with the help of a stick.

Byron, Lord 'She Walks in Beauty' She walks in beauty, like the night Of cloudless climes and starry skies.

Caldwell, Taylor Great Lion of God He is very ugly, said his mother.

was yesterday, I don't know.

Capote, Truman Breakfast at Tiffany's I am always drawn back to the places where I have lived, the houses & their neighborhoods.

Capote, Truman In Cold Blood The village of Holcomb stands on the high wheat plains of western Kansas, a lonesome area that other Kansans call 'out there'.

Carey, Peter Jack Maggs It was a Saturday night when the man with the red waistcoat arrived in London.

Carroll, Lewis Alice's Adventures in Wonderland Alice was beginning to get very tired of sitting by her sister on the bank, and of having nothing to do: once or twice she had peeped into the book her sister was reading, but it had no pictures or conversations in it, 'and what is the use of a book, thought Alice 'without pictures or conversation?'

Carroll, Lewis Through the Looking Glass and What Alice Found There; One thing was certain, that the white kitten had had nothing to do with it – it was the black kitten's fault entirely.

Castaneda, Carlos The Teachings of Don Juan My notes on my first session with don Juan are dated June 23,1961.

Cather, Willa My Antonia I first heard of Antonia on what seemed to me an interminable journey across the great midland plains of North America.

Cervantes, Miguel de Don Quixote At a village of La Mancha, whose name I do not wish to remember, there lived a little while ago one of those gentlemen who are wont to keep a lance in the rack, an old buckler, a lean horse and a swift greyhound.

Chandler, Raymond The Big Sleep It was about eleven o'clock in the morning, mid-October, with the sun not shining and a look of hard wet rain in the clearness of the foothills.

Chang, Jung Wild Swans At the age of fifteen my grandmother became the concubine of a warlord general.

Chaucer, Geoffrey The Canterbury Tales Whan that Aprill with his shoures soote The droghte of March hath perced to the roote.

Chesterton, GK The Man Who Was Thursday The suburb of Saffron Park lay on the sunset side of London, as red and ragged as a cloud of sunset.

Chesterton, GK The Donkey When fishes flew and forests walked and figs grew upon thorn.

Chesterton, GK The Napoleon of Notting Hill The human race, to which so many of my readers belong . . .

Chopin, Kate The Awakening A green and yellow parrot, which hung in a cage outside the door, kept repeating over and over: 'Allez vous-en! Allez vous-en ! Sapristi ! That's all right !'

Christie, Agatha The Mirror Crack'd Miss Jane Marple was sitting by her window.

Clarke, Arthur C Childhood's End The Volcano that had reared Taratua up from the Pacific depths had been sleeping now for half a million years. Yet in a little while, thought Reinhold, the island would be bathed in fires fiercer than any that had attended its birth.

Clarke, Arthur C The City and the Stars Like a glowing jewel, the city lay upon the breast of the desert. Once it had known change and alteration, but now time passed it by. Night and day fled across the desert's face, but in Diaspar it was always afternoon, and darkness never came.

Clarke, Arthur C 2001: A Space Odyssey The drought had lasted now for ten million years, and the reign of the terrible lizards had long since ended.

Cleland, John Fanny Hill Madam, I sit down to give you an undeniable proof of my considering your desires as indispensable orders.

Coelho, Paulo The Alchemist The boy's name was Santiago.

Coetzee, JM Disgrace For a man of his age, fifty-two, divorced, he has, to his mind, solved the problem of sex rather well.

Collins, Wilkie The Moonstone In the first part of Robinson Crusoe, at page one hundred and twenty-nine, you will find it thus written: 'Now I saw, though too late, the Folly of beginning a Work before we count the Cost, and before we judge rightly of our own strength to go through with it.'

Collins, Wilkie The Woman in White This is the story of what a Woman's patience can endure, and what a Man's resolution can achieve.

Condon, Richard Prizzi's Honor Corrado Prizzi's granddaughter was being married before the baroque altar of Santa Grazia de Traghetto, the lucky church of the Prizzi family.

Conrad, Joseph Heart of Darkness Nellie, a cruising yawl, swung to her anchor without a flutter of sails, and was at rest.

Dickens, Charles Little Dorrit Thirty years ago, Marseilles lay

Conrad, Joseph Lord Jim He was an inch, perhaps two, under six feet, powerfully built, and he advanced straight at you with a slight stoop of the shoulders, head forward, and a fixed from-under stare which made you think of a charging bull.

Conrad, Joseph Nostromo In the time of Spanish rule, and for many years afterwards, the town of Sulaco – the luxuriant beauty of the orange gardens bears witness to its antiquity – had never been commercially anything more important than a coasting port with a fairly large local trade in ox-hides and indigo.

Conrad, Joseph An Outcast of the Islands When he stepped off the straight and narrow path of his peculiar honesty, it was with an inward assertion of unflinching resolve.

Conrad, Joseph The Secret Agent Mr Verloc, going out in the morning, left his shop nominally in charge of his brother-in-law.

Coolidge, Susan What Katy Did Next The September sun was glinting cheerfully into a pretty bedroom furnished with blue.

Cooper, James Fenimore The Last of the Mohicans It was a feature peculiar to the colonial wars of North America, that the toils and dangers of the wilderness were to be encountered before the adverse hosts could meet.

Crane, Stephen The Red Badge of Courage The cold passed reluctantly from the earth, and the retiring fogs revealed an army stretched out on the hills, resting.

Dahl, Roald Charlie and the Chocolate Factory These two very old people are the father and mother of Mr. Bucket.

Dante, Alighieri Divine Comedy Midway along the path of life.

Davies, Robertson The Cunning Man Should I have taken the false teeth?

Davies, WH 'Leisure' What is this life if, full of care, We have no time to stand and stare?

De Bernieres, Louis Captain Corelli's Mandolin Dr Iannis had enjoyed a satisfactory day in which none of his patients had died or got any worse.

Defoe, Daniel Robinson Crusoe I was born in the year 1632, in the city of York, of a good family, though not of that country, my father being a foreigner of Bremen, who settled first at Hull. He got a good estate by merchandise, and leaving off his trade lived afterward at York, from whence he had married my mother, whose relations were named Robinson, a good family in that country, and from whom I was called Robinson Kreutznear.

Deighton, Len Catch a Falling Spy Smell that air, said Major Mann.

Deighton, Len The Ipcress File They came through on the hot line at about half past two in the afternoon.

De La Mare, Walter 'The Listeners' 'Is there anybody there?' said the Traveller, Knocking on the moonlit door.

Dick, Philip K Do Androids Dream of Electric Sheep? A merry little surge of electricity piped by automatic alarm from the mood organ beside his bed awakened Rick Deckard.

Dickens, Charles Barnaby Rudge In the year 1775, there stood upon the borders of Epping Forest, at a distance of about twelve miles from London – measuring the Standard in Cornhill, or rather from the spot on or near to which the Standard used to be in days of yore – a house of public entertainment called the Maypole; which fact was demonstrated to all such travellers as could neither read nor write (and at that time a vast number both of travellers and stay-at-homes were in this condition) by the emblem reared on the roadside over and against the house, which, if not of those goodly proportions that Maypoles were wont to present in olden times, was a fair young ash, thirty feet in height, and straight as any arrow that ever English yeoman drew.

Dickens, Charles Bleak House London. Michaelmas term lately over, and the Lord Chancellor sitting in Lincoln's Inn Hall.

Dickens, Charles A Christmas Carol Marley was dead, to begin with. There is no doubt whatever about that.

Dickens, Charles David Copperfield Whether I shall turn out to be the hero of my own life, or whether that station will be held by anybody else, these pages must show.

Dickens, Charles Dombey and Son Dombey sat in the corner of the darkened room in the great armchair by the bedside, and Son lay tucked up in a warm little basket bedstead, carefully disposed on a low settlee immediately in front of the fire and close to it, as if his constitution were analogous to that of a muffin, and it was essential to toast him brown while he was very new.

Dickens, Charles Great Expectations My father's family name being Pirrip, and my christian name Philip, my infant tongue could make of both names nothing longer or more explicit than Pip.

Dickens, Charles Hard Times Now, what I want is Facts.

burning in the sun, one day.

Dickens, Charles Martin Chuzzlewit As no lady or gentleman, with any claims to polite breeding, can possibly sympathise with the Chuzzlewit Family without being first assured of the extreme antiquity of the race, it is a great satisfaction to know that it undoubtedly descended in a direct line from Adam and Eve; and was, in the very earliest times, closely connected with the agricultural interest.

Dickens, Charles The Mystery of Edwin Drood An ancient English Cathedral Tower?

Dickens, Charles Nicholas Nickleby There once lived, in a sequestered part of the county of Devonshire, one Mr Godfrey Nickleby: a worthy gentleman, who, taking it into his head rather late in life that he must get married, and not being young enough or rich enough to aspire to the hand of a lady of fortune, had wedded an old flame out of mere attachment, who in her turn had taken him for the same reason.

Dickens, Charles The Old Curiosity Shop Night is generally my time for walking.

Dickens, Charles Oliver Twist Among other public buildings in a certain town, which for many reasons it will be prudent to refrain from mentioning, and to which I will assign no fictitious name, there is one anciently common to most towns, great or small – to wit, a workhouse; and in this workhouse was born, on a day and date which I need not trouble myself to repeat, inasmuch as it can be of no possible consequence to the reader, in this stage of the business at all events, the item of mortality whose name is prefixed to the head of this chapter.

Dickens, Charles Our Mutual Friend In these times of ours, though concerning the exact year there is no need to be precise, a boat of dirty and disreputable appearance, with two figures in it, floated on the Thames, between Southwark Bridge which is of iron, and London Bridge which is of stone, as an autumn evening was closing in.

Dickens, Charles Pickwick Papers The first ray of light which illumines the gloom, and converts into a dazzling brilliancy that obscurity in which the earlier history of the public career of the immortal Pickwick would appear to be involved, is derived from the perusal of the following entry in the transactions of the Pickwick Club, which the editor of these papers feels the highest pleasure in laying before his readers as a proof of the careful attention, indefatigable assiduity, and nice discrimination, with which his search among the multifarious documents confided to him has been conducted.

Dickens, Charles A Tale of Two Cities It was the best of times, it was the worst of times, it was the age of wisdom, it was the age of foolishness, it was the epoch of belief, it was the epoch of incredulity, it was the season of Light, it was the season of Darkness, it was the spring of hope, it was the winter of despair, we had everything before us, we had nothing before us, we were all going direct to Heaven, we were all going direct the other way – in short, the period was so.

Dickinson, Emily untitled poem I heard a Fly buzz – when I died . . .

Doctorow, EL Ragtime In 1902 Father built a house at the crest of the Broadview Avenue hill in New Rochelle, New York.

Dos Passos, John 1919 Oh the infantree the infantree With the dirt behind their ears

ARMIES CLASH AT VERDUN IN GLOBE’S GREATEST BATTLE
150,000 MEN AND WOMEN PARADE
but another question and a very important one is raised.

Dostoevsky, Fyodor The Brothers Karamazov Alexey Fyodorovitch Karamazov was the third son of Fyodor Pavlovitch Karamazov, a landowner well known in our district in his own day, and still remembered among us owing to his gloomy and tragic death, which happened thirteen years ago, and which I shall describe in its proper place.

Dostoevsky, Fyodor Crime and Punishment On an exceptionally hot evening early in July a young man came out of the garret in which he lodged in S. Place and walked slowly, as though in hesitation, towards K. bridge.

Doyle, Sir Arthur Conan The Hound of the Baskervilles Mr. Sherlock Holmes, who was usually very late in the mornings, save upon those not infrequent occasions when he was up all night, was seated at the breakfast table.

Dryden, John Absalom and Achitophel In pious times, ere priestcraft did begin . . .

Forsyth, Frederick The Odessa File Everybody seems to

Du Maurier, Daphne The King’s General September 1653. The last of summer. The first chill winds of autumn.

Du Maurier, Daphne Rebecca Last night I dreamt I went to Manderley again.

Dumas, Alexandre The Count of Monte Cristo On the 24th of February, 1815, the lookout of Notre Dame de la Garde signalled the three-master, the Pharaon, from Smyrna, Trieste, and Naples. As usual, a pilot put off immediately, and rounding the Chateau d’If, got on board the vessel between Cape Morgion and the Isle of Rion.

Dumas, Alexandre The Three Musketeers On the first Monday of the month of April, 1625, the town of Meung, in which the author of The Romance of the Rose was born, appeared to be in a perfect state of revolution as if the Huguenots had just made a second Rochelle of it.

Eco, Umberto The Name of the Rose In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. (Also the first line of the Gospel of John)

Eliot, George Middlemarch Miss Brooke had that kind of beauty which seems to be thrown into relief by poor dress.

Eliot, George The Mill on the Floss A wide plain, where the broadening Floss hurries on between its green banks to the sea, and the loving tide, rushing to meet it, checks its passage with an impetuous embrace.

Eliot, George Silas Marner In the days when the spinning-wheels hummed busily in the farmhouses – and even great ladies, clothed in silk and thread-lace, had their toy spinning-wheels of polished oak – there might be seen in districts far away among the lanes, or deep in the bosom of the hills, certain pallid undersized men, who, by the side of the brawny country-folk, looked like the remnants of a disinherited race.

Eliot, TS East Coker In my beginning is my end.

Eliot, TS ‘The Love Song of J. Alfred Prufrock’ Let us go then, you and I . . .

Ellis, Bret Easton American Psycho ABANDON ALL HOPE YE WHO ENTER HERE is scrawled in blood-red lettering on the side of the Chemical Bank . . .

Ellison, Ralph Invisible Man I am an invisible man.

Farmer, Philip Jose To Your Scattered Bodies Go His wife had held him in her arms as if she could keep death away from him. He had cried out, ‘My God, I am a dead man!’

Faulkner, William Absalom, Absalom! From a little after two o’clock until almost sundown of the long still hot weary dead September afternoon they sat in what Miss Coldfield still called the office . . .

Faulkner, William Go Down, Moses Isaac McCaslin, ‘Uncle Ike’, past seventy and nearer eighty than he ever corroborated any more, a widower now and uncle to half a country and father to one.

Faulkner, William Sanctuary From behind the screen of bushes which surrounded the spring, Popeye watched the man drinking.

Faulkner, William The Sound and the Fury Through the fence, between the curling flower spaces, I could see them hitting.

Federman, Raymond Double or Nothing Once upon a time two or three weeks ago, a rather stubborn and determined middle-aged man decided to record for posterity, exactly as it happened, word by word and step by step, the story of another man.

Fielding, Henry Tom Jones An author ought to consider himself not as a gentleman who gives a private or eleemosynary treat.

Fitzgerald, F Scott The Great Gatsby In my younger and more vulnerable years my father gave me some advice that I’ve been turning over in my mind ever since.

Flaubert, Gustave Madame Bovary We were in the study-hall when the headmaster entered, followed by a new boy not yet in school uniform and by the handyman carrying a large desk.

Fleming, Ian Chitty-Chitty-Bang-Bang Most motorcars are conglomerations (this is a long word for bundles) of steel and wire and rubber and plastic, and electricity and oil and gasoline and water, and the toffee papers you pushed down the crack in the back seat last Sunday.

Fleming, Ian Goldfinger James Bond, with two double bourbons inside him, sat back in the final departure lounge of Miami Airport and thought about life and death.

Ford, Ford Madox The Good Soldier This is the saddest story I have ever heard.

Forster, EM A Passage to India Except for the Marabar Caves – and they are twenty miles off – the city of Chandrapore presents nothing extraordinary.

remember what they were doing on November 22nd 1963, when Kennedy was shot.

Fowles, John The French Lieutenant's Woman An easterly is the most disagreeable wind in Lyme Bay – Lyme Bay being that largest byte from the underside of England's outstretched southwestern leg – and a person of curiosity could at once have deduced several strong probabilities about the pair who began to walk down the quay at Lyme Regis, the small but ancient eponym of the inbite, one incisively sharp and blustery morning in the late March of 1867.

Gallico, Paul The Poseidon Adventure At seven o'clock, the morning of the 26th of December, the S.S. Poseidon, 81,000 tons, homeward bound for Lisbon after a month-long Christmas cruise to African and South American ports, suddenly found herself in the midst of an unaccountable swell, 400 miles south-west of the Azores, and began to roll like a pig.

Galsworthy, John The Man of Property Those privileged to be present at a family festival of the Forsythes have seen that charming and instructive sight – an upper middle class family in full plumage.

Gardner, John Grendel The old ram stands looking down over rockslides, stupidly triumphant.

Gibson, William Neuromancer The sky above the port was the color of television, tuned to a dead channel.

Gide, André The Fruits of the Earth Do not hope, Nathaniel, to find God here or there – but everywhere.

Gipson, Fred Old Yeller We called him Old Yeller.

Golding, William Lord of the Flies The boy with fair hair lowered himself down the last few feet of rock and began to pick his way towards the lagoon.

Golding, William The Princess Bride This is my favorite book in all the world, though I have never read it.

Goldman, William Marathon Man Everytime he drove through Yorkville, Rosenbaum got angry, just on general principles.

Goldsmith, Oliver 'Elegy on the Death of a Mad Dog' Good people all, of every sort, Give ear unto my song.

Grahame, Kenneth The Wind in the Willows The Mole had been working very hard all the morning, spring-cleaning his little home.

Grass, Günter The Tin Drum Granted: I am an inmate of a mental hospital; my keeper is watching me, he never lets me out of his sight; there's a peephole in the door, and my keeper's eye is the shade of brown that can never see through a blue-eyed type like me.

Graves, Robert I, Claudius I, Tiberius Claudius Drusus Nero Germanicus This-that-and-the-other (for I shall not trouble you yet with all my titles) who was once, and not so long ago either, known to my friends and relatives and associates as 'Claudius the Idiot', or 'That Claudius', or 'Claudius the Stammerer', or 'Clau-Clau-Claudius' or at best as 'Poor Uncle Claudius', am now about to write this strange history of my life; starting from my earliest childhood and continuing year by year until I reach the fateful point of change where, some eight years ago, at the age of fifty-one, I suddenly found myself caught in what I may call the 'golden predicament' from which I have never since become disentangled.

Gray, Thomas 'Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard' The curfew tolls the knell of parting day . . .

Gray, Thomas 'The Progress of Poesy' Awake, Aeolian lyre, awake

Greene, Graham The End of the Affair A story has no beginning or end; arbitrarily one chooses that moment of experience from which to look back or from which to look ahead

Greene, Graham The Power and the Glory Mr Tench went out to look for his ether cylinder, into the blazing Mexican sun.

Greene, Graham The Quiet American After dinner I sat and waited for Pyle in my room over the rue Catinat: he had said, 'I'll be with you at latest by ten,' and when midnight had struck I couldn't stay quiet any longer and went down into the street.

Guterson, David Snow Falling on Cedars The accused man, Kabuo Miyamoto, sat proudly upright with a rigid grace.

Ha Jin Waiting Every summer Lin Kong returned to Goose Village to divorce his wife, Shuyu.

Haddon, Mark The Curious Incident of the Dog in the Night-Time It was 7 minutes after midnight. The dog was lying on the grass in the middle of the lawn in front of Mrs Shears' house.

Haggard, H Rider King Solomon's Mines It is a curious thing that at my age, fifty-five last birthday, I should find myself taking up a pen to try and write a history.

language that is no longer mine the snow is qanik –

Haggard, H Rider She There are some events of which each circumstance and surrounding detail seem to be graven on the memory in such a fashion that we cannot forget them.

Hailey, Arthur Airport At half-past six on a Friday evening in January, Lincoln International Airport, Illinois, was functioning, though with difficulty.

Haley, Alex Roots Early in the spring of 1750, in the village of Juffure, four days upriver from the coast of Gambia, West Africa, a manchild was born to Omoro and Binta Kinte.

Hammett, Dashiell The Maltese Falcon Samuel Spade's jaw was long and bony, his chin a jutting 'V' under the more flexible 'V' of his mouth.

Hammett, Dashiell The Thin Man I was leaning against a bar in a speak-easy on Fifty-second Street, waiting for Nora to finish her Christmas shopping, when a girl got up from the table where she had been sitting.

Hardy, Thomas Far from the Madding Crowd When Farmer Oak smiled, the corners of his mouth spread till they were within an unimportant distance of his ears, his eyes were reduced to chinks, and diverging wrinkles appeared round them, extending upon his countenance like the rays in a rudimentary sketch of the rising sun.

Hardy, Thomas Jude the Obscure The schoolmaster was leaving the village, and everybody seemed sorry.

Hardy, Thomas The Mayor of Casterbridge One evening of late summer, before the nineteenth century had reached one-third of its span, a young man and woman, the latter carrying a child, were approaching the large village of Weydon-Priors, in Upper Wessex, on foot.

Hardy, Thomas Tess of the D'Urbervilles On an evening in the latter part of May a middle-aged man was walking homeward from Shaston to the village of Marlott, in the adjoining Vale of Blakemore or Blackmoor.

Harris, Robert Fatherland Thick cloud had pressed down on Berlin all night and now it was lingering into what passed for morning.

Hartley, LP The Go-Between The past is a foreign country, they do things differently there.

Hawthorne, Nathaniel The House of the Seven Gables Halfway down a bystreet of one of our New England towns stands a rusty wooden house, with seven acutely peaked gables, facing towards various points of the compass, and a huge, clustered chimney in the midst.

Hawthorne, Nathaniel The Scarlet Letter A throng of bearded men, in sad-colored garments and gray, steeple-crowned hats, intermixed with women, some wearing hoods, and others bareheaded, was assembled in front of a wooden edifice, the door of which was heavily timbered with oak, and studded with iron spikes.

Heinlein, Robert The Moon Is a Harsh Mistress I see in Lunaya Pravda that Luna City Council has passed on first reading a bill to examine, license, inspect – and tax – public food vendors operating inside municipal pressure.

Heinlein, Robert Stranger in a Strange Land Once upon a time there was a Martian named Valentine Michael Smith.

Heller, Joseph Catch-22 It was love at first sight.

Heller, Joseph Something Happened I get the willies when I see closed doors.

Hugo, Victor The Hunchback of Notre-Dame It was three hundred forty-eight years, six months, and nineteen days ago today that the citizens of Paris were awakened by the pealing of all the bells in the triple precincts of the City, the University, and the Town.

Hugo, Victor Les Misérables In 1815, M. Charles-François-Bienvenu Myriel was Bishop of D—.

Hurston, Zora Neale Their Eyes Were Watching God Ships at a distance have every man’s wish on board.

Huxley, Aldous Brave New World A squat gray building of only thirty-four stories. Over the main entrance the words CENTRAL LONDON HATCHERY AND CONDITIONING CENTRE, and in a shield the World State’s motto, Community, Identity, Stability.

Huxley, Aldous Crome Yellow Along this particular stretch of line, no express had ever passed.

Irving, John The Hotel New Hampshire The summer my father bought the bear, none of us was born – we weren’t even conceived: not Frank, the oldest; not Fanny, the loudest; not me, the next; and not the youngest of us, Lilly and Egg.

Irving, John A Prayer for Owen Meany I am doomed to remember a boy with a wrecked voice – not because of his voice, or because he was the smallest person I ever knew, or even because he was the instrument of my mother’s death, but because he is the reason I believe in God; I am a Christian because of Owen Meany.

Irving, John The World According to Garp Garp’s mother, Jenny Fields, was arrested in Boston in 1942 for wounding a man in a movie theater.

Jacques, Brian Redwall Mathias cut a comical figure as he hobbled his way along the cloisters, with his large sandals flip-flopping and his tail peeping from beneath the baggy folds of an oversized novice’s habit.

James, EL Fifty Shades of Grey I scowl with frustration at myself in the mirror. Damn my hair – it just won’t behave, and damn Katherine Kavanagh for being ill and subjecting me to this ordeal.

James, Henry The Turn of the Screw The story had held us, round the fire, sufficiently breathless, but except the obvious remark that it was gruesome, as, on Christmas Eve in an old house, a strange tale should essentially be, I remember no comment uttered till somebody happened to say that it was the only case he had met in which such a visitation had fallen on a child.

James, Henry The Wings of the Dove She waited, Kate Croy, for her father to come in, but he kept her unconscionably, and there were moments at which she showed herself, in the glass over the mantel, a face positively pale with the irritation that had brought her to the point of going away without sight of him.

Jong, Erica Fear of Flying There were 117 psychoanalysts on the Pan Am flight to Vienna and I’d been treated by at least six of them.

Jonson, Ben ‘To Celia’ Drink to me only with thine eyes: and I will pledge with mine.

Joyce, James Dubliners There was no hope for him this time: it was the third stroke.

Joyce, James Finnegan’s Wake Riverrun, past Eve and Adam’s, from swerve of shore to bend of bay . . .

Joyce, James Portrait of the Artist as a Young Man Once upon a time and a very good time it was there was a moocow coming down along the road and this moocow that was coming down along the road met a nicens little boy named baby tuckoo.

Joyce, James Ulysses Stately plump Buck Mulligan came from the stairhead, bearing a bowl of lather on which a mirror and a razor lay crossed.

Juster, Norton The Phantom Tollbooth There was a boy named Milo who didn’t know what to do with himself . . .

Kafka, Franz ‘Metamorphosis’ As Gregor Samsa awoke one morning from uneasy dreams, he found himself transformed into a giant insect.

Kafka, Franz The Castle It was late in the evening when K. arrived.

Kafka, Franz The Trial Someone must have been telling lies

Le Carré, John The Russia House In a broad Moscow street

about Joseph K, for without having done anything wrong he was arrested one fine morning.

Keats, John ‘La Belle Dame Sans Merci’ Oh, What can ail thee, knight at arms Alone and palely loitering.

Keats, John Hyperion Deep in the shady sadness of a vale . . .

Keats, John ‘On First Looking into Chapman’s Homer’ Much have I travell’d in the realms of gold, And many goodly states and kingdoms seen.

Keats, John ‘To Autumn’ Season of mists and mellow fruitfulness, close bosom-friend of the maturing sun.

Kennedy, William Quinn’s Book I, Daniel Quinn, neither the first nor the last of a line of such Quinn’s, set eyes on Maud the wondrous on a late December day in 1849 on the banks of the river of the aristocrats and paupers, just as the great courtesan Magdalena Colón, also known as La Última, a woman whose presence turned men into spitting, masturbating pigs, boarded a skiff to carry her across the river’s icy water from Albany to Greenbush, her first stop en route to the city of Troy, a community of iron, where later that evening she was scheduled to enact, yet again, her role as the lascivious Lais, that fabled prostitute who spurned Demosthenes’ gold and yielded free to Diogenes, the virtuous, impecunious tub-dweller.

Kidd, Sue The Secret Life of Bees At night I would lie in bed and watch the show, how bees squeezed through the cracks of my bedroom wall...

King, Stephen Carrie Nobody was really surprised when it happened, not really, not on the subconscious level where savage things grow.

King, Stephen Cujo Not so long ago, a monster came to the small town of Castle Rock, Maine.

Kingsolver, Barbara The Bean Trees I have been afraid of putting air in a tire ever since I saw a tractor tire blow up and throw Newt Hardbines’s father over the top of the Standard Oil sign.

Kingsolver, Barbara Pigs in Heaven Women on their own run in Alice’s family.

Kipling, Rudyard ‘Gunga Din’ You may talk o’gin and beer, when you’re quartered safe out ’ere.

Kipling, Rudyard ‘If’ If you can keep your head when all about you are losing theirs and blaming it on you.

Kipling, Rudyard The Jungle Book It was seven o’clock of a very warm evening in the Seeonee hills when Father Wolf woke up from his day’s rest, scratched himself, yawned, and spread out his paws one after the other to get rid of the sleepy feeling in their tips.

Kipling, Rudyard Kim He sat in defiance of municipal orders, astride the gun of Zam-Zammeh on her brick platform opposite the old Ajaibgher – the Wonder House, as the natives called the Lahore Museum.

Kipling, Rudyard Stalky and Co In summer all right-minded boys built huts in the furze-hill behind the College – little lairs whittled out of the heart of the prickly bushes, full of stumps, odd root-ends, and spikes, but, since they were strictly forbidden, palaces of delight.

Knowles, John A Separate Peace I went back to the Devon School not long ago, and found it looking oddly newer than when I was a student there fifteen years before.

Kosinski, Jerzy The Painted Bird In the first weeks of World War II, in the fall of 1939, a six year old boy from a large city in Eastern Europe was sent by his parents, like thousands of other children, to the shelter of a distant village.

Kundera, Milan The Unbearable Lightness of Being The idea of eternal return is a mysterious one, and Nietzsche has often perplexed other philosophers with it: to think that everything recurs as we once experienced it, and that the recurrence itself recurs ad infinitum! What does this mad myth signify?

L’Engle, Madeline A Wrinkle In Time It was a dark and stormy night.

Lawrence, DH Lady Chatterley’s Lover Ours is essentially a tragic age, so we refuse to take it tragically.

Lawrence, DH Sons and Lovers ‘The Bottoms’ succeeded to ‘Hell Row’.

Lawrence, DH Women In Love Ursula and Gudrun Brangwen sat one morning in the window-bay of their father’s house in Beldover, working and talking.

Le Carré, John The Honourable Schoolboy Afterwards, in the dusty little corners where London’s secret servants drink together, there was argument about where the Dolphin case history should really begin.

not two hundred yards from the Leningrad station, on the upper floor of an ornate and hideous hotel built by Stalin in the style known to Muscovites as Empire During the Plague, the British Council's first ever audio fair for the teaching of the English language and the spread of British culture was grinding to its excruciating end.

Le Carré, John The Spy Who Came in from the Cold The American handed Leamas another cup of coffee and said, 'Why don't you go back and sleep? We can ring you if he shows up.'

Le Carré, John Tinker, Tailor, Soldier, Spy The truth is, if old Major Dover hadn't dropped dead at Taunton races Jim would never have come to Thursgood's at all.

Lee, Harper To Kill a Mockingbird When he was nearly thirteen, my brother Jem got his arm badly broken at the elbow.

Le Guin, Ursula The Dispossessed There was a wall.

Le Guin, Ursula The Left Hand of Darkness I'll make my report as if I told a story, for I was taught as a child on my homeworld that Truth is a matter of the imagination.

Leroux, Gaston The Phantom of the Opera It was the evening on which MM. Debienne and Poligny, the managers of the Opera, were giving a last gala performance to mark their retirement.

Levin, Ira Rosemary's Baby Rosemary and Guy Woodhouse had signed a lease on a five-room apartment in a geometric white house on First Avenue when they received word, from a woman named Mrs. Cortez, that a four-room apartment in Bramford had become available.

Lewis, CS The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe Once there were four children whose names were Peter, Susan, Edmond, and Lucy.

Lewis, CS Surprised By Joy I was born in the winter of 1898 at Belfast, the son of a solicitor and of a clergyman's daughter.

Lewis, CS The Voyage of the Dawn Treader There was a boy called Eustace Clarence Scrubb, and he almost deserved it.

Lewis, Sinclair Babbitt The tower of Zenith aspired above the morning mist; austere towers of steel and cement and limestone, sturdy as cliffs and delicate as silver rods.

Lewis, Sinclair Elmer Gantry Elmer Gantry was drunk. He was eloquently drunk, lovingly and pugnaciously drunk.

Lewis, Sinclair Main Street This is America – a town of a few thousand, in a region of wheat and corn and dairies and little groves. The town is, in our tale, called 'Gopher Prairie, Minnesota.' But its Main Street is the continuation of Main Streets everywhere.

Lodge, David Changing Places High, high above the North Pole, on the first day of 1969, two professors of English Literature approached each other at a combined velocity of 1200 miles per hour.

London, Jack The Call of the Wild Buck did not read the newspapers or he would have known that trouble was brewing.

Longfellow, Henry Wadsworth The Song of Hiawatha Should you ask me, whence these stories?

Longfellow, Henry Wadsworth 'The Village Blacksmith' Under a spreading chestnut tree The village smithy stands.

Lovecraft, HP The Call Of Cthulhu The most merciful thing in the world, I think, is the inability of the human mind to correlate all its contents.

Ludlum, Robert The Bourne Identity The trawler plunged into the angry swells of the dark furious sea like an awkward animal . .

Macaulay, Rose The Towers of Trebizond 'Take my camel dear', said my aunt Dot, as she climbed down from this animal on her return from High Mass.

McCarthy, Cormac All the Pretty Horses The candleflame and the image of the candleflame caught in the pierglass twisted and righted when he entered the hall . . .

McCloskey, Robert Make Way for Ducklings Mr. and Mrs. Mallard were looking for a place to live.

McCullers, Carson The Heart Is a Lonely Hunter In the town there were two mutes, and they were always together.

McCullough, Colleen The First Man in Rome Having no personal commitment to either of the new consuls, Gaius Julius Caesar and his son simply tacked themselves onto the procession which started nearest to their own house, the procession of the senior consul, Marcus Minucius Rufus.

McCullough, Colleen The Thorn Birds On December 8th, 1915, Meggie Cleary had her fourth birthday.

McCullough, Colleen Caesar's Women Brutus, I don't like the look of your skin. Come here to the light, please.

Morrison, Toni Paradise They shoot the white girl first.

MacDonald, Betty Mrs. Piggle Wiggle I expect I might as well begin by telling you about Mrs. Piggle-Wiggle.

McEwan, Ian Enduring Love The beginning is simple to mark.

McKenna, Richard The Sand Pebbles Hello, ship, Jake Holman said under his breath.

McMillan, Terry Waiting to Exhale Right now I'm supposed to be all geeked up because I'm getting ready for a New Year's Eve party that some guy named Lionel invited me to.

McMurtry, Larry Terms of Endearment The success of a marriage invariably depends on the woman, Mrs. Greenway said.

Malamud, Bernard The Fixer From the small crossed window of his room above the stable in the brickyard, Yakov Bok saw people in their long overcoats running somewhere early that morning, everybody in the same direction.

Mann, Thomas Buddenbrooks And – and – what comes next? Oh, yes, yes, what the dickens does come next? C'est la question, ma très chère demoiselle! Frau Consul Buddenbrooks shot a glance at her husband and came to the rescue of her daughter.

Marks, Leo 'Code Poem for the French Resistance' The life that I have is all that I have, And the life that I have is yours.

Márquez, Gabriel García Love in the Time of Cholera It was inevitable: the scent of bitter almonds always reminded him of the fate of unrequited love.

Márquez, Gabriel García One Hundred Years of Solitude Many years later, as he faced the firing squad, Colonel Aureliano Buendía was to remember that distant afternoon when his father took him to discover ice.

Martel, Yann Life of Pi My suffering left me sad and gloomy.

Marvell, Andrew 'To His Coy Mistress' Had we but world enough, and time, This coyness, Lady, were no crime.

Masefield, John 'Sea-Fever' I must go down to the seas again, to the lonely sea and the sky, And all I ask is a tall ship and a star to steer her by . . .

Matheson, Richard I Am Legend On those cloudy days, Robert Neville was never sure when sunset came . . .

Maugham, W Somerset Of Human Bondage The day broke grey and dull.

Maugham, W Somerset The Razor's Edge I have never begun a novel with more misgiving.

Melville, Herman Billy Budd In the time before steamships, or then more frequently than now, a stroller along the docks of any considerable sea-port would occasionally have his attention arrested by a group of bronzed mariners, man-of-war's men or merchant-sailors in holiday attire ashore on liberty.

Melville, Herman Moby-Dick Call me Ishmael.

Metalious, Grace Peyton Place Indian summer is like a woman. Ripe, hotly passionate, but fickle, she comes and goes as she pleases so that one is never sure whether she will come at all, nor for how long she will stay.

Michener, James A The Source On Tuesday the freighter steamed through the Straits of Gibraltar and for five days plowed eastward through the Mediterranean, past islands and peninsulas rich in history, so that on Saturday night the steward advised Dr. Cullinane, 'If you wish an early sight of the Holy Land you must be up at dawn.'

Miller, Henry Tropic of Cancer I am living at the Villa Borghese. There is not a crumb of dirt anywhere nor a chair misplaced. We are alone here and we are dead.

Miller Jr, Walter A Canticle for Leibowitz Brother Francis Gerard of Utah might never have discovered the blessed documents, had it not been for the pilgrim with girded loins who had appeared during that young novice's Lenten fast in the desert.

Milton, John Lycidas Yet once more, O ye laurels, and once more, Ye myrtles brown, with ivy never sere.

Milton, John 'On His Blindness' When I consider how my light is spent, Ere half my days, in this dark world and wide.

Milton, John Paradise Lost Of man's first disobedience, and the fruit Of that forbidden tree, whose mortal taste Brought death into the world, and all our woe, With loss of Eden.

Mitchell, Margaret Gone with the Wind Scarlett O'Hara was not beautiful, but men seldom realized it when caught by her charm as the Tarleton twins were.

Montgomery, Lucy Maud Anne of Green Gables Mrs. Rachel Lynde lived just where the Avonlea main road dipped down into a little hollow.

Morrison, Toni Beloved 124 was spiteful.

Morrison, Toni Sula In that place, where they tore the night shade and blackberry patches from their roots to make room for the Medallion City Golf Course, there was once a neighborhood.

Nabokov, Vladimir Lolita Lolita, light of my life, fire of my loins.

Naylor, Gloria The Women of Brewster Place Brewster Place was the bastard child of several clandestine meetings between the alderman of the sixth district and the managing director of the Unico Realty Company.

Norton, Mary The Borrowers It was Mrs May who first told me about them.

Oates, Joyce Carol Because It Is Bitter, and Because It Is My Heart Little Red Garlock, sixteen years old, skull smashed soft as a rotted pumpkin and body dumped into the Cassadaga River near the foot of Pitt Street, must not have sunk as deep as he'd been intended to sink, or floated as far.

Oates, Joyce Carol Bellefleur It was many years ago in that dark, chaotic, unfathomable pool of time before Germaine's birth (nearly twelve months before her birth), on a night in late September stirred by innumerable frenzied winds, like spirits contending with one another.

Oates, Joyce Carol Expensive People I was a child murderer.

O'Connor, Flannery The Violent Bear It Away Francis Marion Tarwater's uncle had been dead for only half a day when the boy got too drunk to finish digging his grave.

Orwell, George 1984 It was a bright cold day in April, and the clocks were striking thirteen.

Ovid Metamorphoses My purpose is to tell of bodies which have been transformed into shapes of a different kind.

Owen, Wilfred 'Anthem for Doomed Youth' What passing-bells for these who die as cattle?

Pasternak, Boris Doctor Zhivago On they went, singing 'Rest Eternal,' and whenever they stopped, their feet, the horses, and the gusts of wind seemed to carry on their singing.

Paterson, Katherine Bridge to Terabithia Ba-room, ba-room, ba-room, baripity, baripity, baripity, baripity – Good.

Piercy, Marge Small Change Beth was looking in the mirror of her mother's vanity.

Pierre, DBC Vernon God Little It's hot as hell in Martirio . . .

Piper, Watty The Little Engine That Could Chug, chug, chug. Puff, puff, puff. Ding-dong, ding-dong.

Plath, Sylvia The Bell Jar It was a queer, sultry summer, the summer they electrocuted the Rosenbergs, and I didn't know what I was doing in New York.

Poe, Edgar Allan The Raven Once upon a midnight dreary, as I pondered weak and weary . . .

Pohl, Frederik Gateway My name is Robinette Broadhead, in spite of which I am male.

Pope, Alexander The Dunciad The Mighty Mother, and her Son, who brings The Smithfield muses to the ear of kings, I sing.

Porter, Katherine Anne Ship of Fools August, 1931 – The port town of Veracruz is a little purgatory between land and sea.

Portis, Charles True Grit People do not give it credence that a fourteen-year-old girl could leave home and go off in the wintertime to avenge her father's blood.

Potok, Chaim The Chosen For the first fifteen years of our lives, Danny and I lived within five blocks of each other and neither of us knew of the other's existence.

Solzhenitsyn, Alexander The Gulag Archipelago How do people get to this clandestine Archipelago?

Sontag, Susan Death Kit Diddy the Good was taking a business trip.

Spencer, Scott Endless Love When I was seventeen and in full obedience to my heart's most urgent commands, I stepped far from the pathway of normal life and in a moment's time ruined everything I loved – I loved so deeply, and when the love was interrupted, when the incorporeal body of love shank back in terror and my own body was locked away, it was hard for others to believe that a life so new could suffer so irrevocably.

Spenser, Edmund The Faerie Queene A Gentle Knight was pricking on the plaine.

Steinbeck, John Cannery Row Cannery Row in Monterey in California is a poem, a stink, a grating noise, a quality of light, a tone, a habit, a nostalgia, a dream.

Steinbeck, John The Grapes of Wrath To the red country and part of the gray country of Oklahoma, the last rains came gently, and they did not cut the scarred earth.

Steinbeck, John Of Mice and Men A few miles south of Soledad, the Salinas River drops in close to the hill-side bank and runs deep and green.

Steinbeck, John The Pearl Kino awakened in the near dark.

Sterne, Laurence Tristram Shandy I wish either my father or my mother, or indeed both of them, as they were in duty both equally bound to it, had minded what they were about when they begot me.

Stevenson, Robert Louis The Strange Case of Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde Mr. Utterson the lawyer was a man of a rugged countenance, that was never lighted by a smile; cold, scanty and embarrassed.

Stevenson, Robert Louis Kidnapped I will begin the story of my adventures with a certain morning early in the month of June, the year of grace 1751, when I took the key for the last time out of the door of my father's house.

Stevenson, Robert Louis Treasure Island Squire Trelawney, Dr. Livesey, and the rest of these gentlemen having asked me to write down the whole particulars about Treasure Island.

Stevenson, RL & L Osbourne The Wrong Box How very little does the amateur, dwelling at home at ease, comprehend the labours and perils of the author.

Stewart, Mary The Crystal Cave I am an old man now, but then I was already past my prime when Arthur was crowned King.

Stoker, Bram Dracula 3 May. Bistritz. – Left Munich at 8:35 P.M., on 1st May, arriving at Vienna early next morning; should have arrived at 6:46, but the train was an hour late. Buda-Pesth seems a wonderful place, from the glimpse which I got from the train and the little I could walk through the streets.

Stone, Irving Lust for Life Monsieur Van Gogh, it's time to wake up.

Stout, Rex The Hand in Glove It was not surprising that Sylvia Raffray, on that Saturday in September, had occasion for discourse with various men, none of them utterly ordinary, and with one remarkable young woman; it was not surprising that all this happened without any special effort on Sylvia's part, for she was rich, personable to an extreme, an orphan, and six months short of twenty-one years.

Stowe, Harriet Beecher Uncle Tom's Cabin Late in the afternoon of a chilly day in February, two gentlemen were sitting clinging to them.

alone over their wine, in a well-furnished dining parlour, in the town of P——, in Kentucky.

Sturgeon, Theodore More Than Human The idiot lived in a black and gray world, punctuated by the white lightning of hunger and the flickering of fear.

Styron, William The Confessions of Nat Turner To the public – The late insurrection in Southampton has greatly excited the public mind and led to a thousand idle, exaggerated and mischievous reports.

Sukenick, Ronald Blown Away Psychics can see the color of time it's blue.

Swift, Jonathan Gulliver's Travels My father had a small estate in Nottinghamshire; I was the third of five sons.

Tan, Amy The Hundred Secret Senses My sister Kwan believes she has yin eyes.

Tan, Amy The Joy Luck Club My father asked me to be the fourth corner at the Joy Luck Club.

Thackeray, William M Vanity Fair While the present century was in its teens, and on one sunshiny morning in June, there drove up to the great iron gate of Miss Pinkerton's academy for young ladies, on Chiswick Mall, a large family coach, with two fat horses in blazing harness, driven by a fat coachman in a three cornered hat and wig, at the rate of four miles an hour.

Theroux, Paul The Mosquito Coast We drove past Tiny Polski's mansion house to the main road, and then the five miles into Northampton, Father talking the whole way about savages and the awfulness of America – how it got turned into a dope-taking, door-locking, ulcerated danger zone of rabid scavengers and criminal millionaires and moral sneaks.

Thomas, Dylan Under Milk Wood To begin at the beginning, It is spring, moonless night in the small town, starless and bible-black . . .

Thompson, Flora Lark Rise to Candleford The hamlet stood on a gentle rise in the flat, wheat-growing north-east corner of Oxfordshire.

Thompson, Hunter S Fear and Loathing in Las Vegas We were somewhere around Barstow on the edge of the desert when the drugs began to take hold.

Thoreau, Henry David Walden When I wrote the following pages, or rather the bulk of them, I lived alone, in the woods, a mile from any neighbor, in a house which I had built myself, on the shore of Walden Pond, in Concord, Massachusetts, and earned my living by the labor of my hands only.

Thurber, James The Thirteen Clocks Once upon a time, in a gloomy castle on a lonely hill, where there were thirteen clocks that wouldn't go, there lived a cold, aggressive Duke, and his niece, the Princess Saralinda.

Tolkien, JRR The Hobbit In a hole in the ground there lived a hobbit.

Tolstoy, Leo Anna Karenina All happy families are alike, but an unhappy family is unhappy after its own fashion.

Tolstoy, Leo War and Peace Well, Prince, so Genoa and Lucca are now just family estates of the Buonapartes.

Travers, PL Mary Poppins If you want to find Cherry Tree Lane all you have to do is ask a policeman at the crossroads.

Twain, Mark The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn You don't know about me, without you have read a book by the name of The Adventures of Tom Sawyer; but that ain't no matter.

Twain, Mark The Adventures of Tom Sawyer TOM!

Tyler, Anne Breathing Lessons Maggie and Ira Moran had to go to a funeral in Deer Lick, Pennsylvania.

Undset, Sigrid Kristin Lavransdatter When the lands and goods of Ivar Gjesling the younger, of Sundbu, were divided after his death in 1306, his lands in Sil of Gudbrandsdal fell to his daughter Ragnfrid and her husband Lavrans Björngulfsón.

Updike, John Rabbit at Rest Standing amid the tan, excited post-Christmas crowd at the Southwest Florida Regional Airport, Rabbit Angstrom has a funny sudden feeling that what he has come to meet, what's floating in unseen about to land, is not his son Nelson and daughter-in-law Pru and their two children but something more ominous and intimately his: his own death, shaped vaguely like an airplane.

Updike, John Rabbit Is Rich Running out of gas, Rabbit Angstrom thinks as he stands behind the summer-dusty windows of the Springer Motors display.

Updike, John Rabbit Redux Men emerge pale from the little printing plant at four sharp, ghosts for an instant, blinking, until the outdoor light overcomes the look of constant indoor light

Closing Words of Books and Poems

Arnold, Matthew ‘Dover Beach’ Swept with confused alarms of struggle and flight, where ignorant armies clash by night.

Arnold, Matthew ‘The Scholar Gipsy’ Shy traffickers, the dark Iberians come, And on the beach undid his corded bales.

Asimov, Isaac I Robot She died last month at the age of Eighty Two.

Austen, Jane Emma But, in spite of these deficiencies, the wishes, the hopes, the confidence, the predictions of the small band of true friends who witnessed the ceremony, were fully answered in the perfect happiness of the union.

Austen, Jane Lady Susan I confess that I can pity only Miss Manwaring, who coming to town and putting herself to an expense in clothes, which impoverished her for two years, on purpose to secure him, was defrauded of her due by a woman ten years older than herself.

Austen, Jane Mansfield Park Fanny had never been able to approach but with some painful sensation of restraint or alarm, soon grew as dear to her heart, and as thoroughly perfect in her eyes, as everything else within the view and patronage of Mansfield Park had long been.

Austen, Jane Northanger Abbey I leave it to be settled by whomsoever it may concern, whether the tendency of this work be altogether to recommend parental tyranny or reward filial disobedience.

Austen, Jane Persuasion She gloried in being a sailor’s wife, but she must pay the tax of quick alarm for belonging to that profession which is, if possible, more distinguished in its domestic virtues than in its national importance.

Austen, Jane Pride and Prejudice And they were both ever sensible of the warmest gratitude towards the persons who, by bringing her into Derbyshire, had been the means of uniting them.

Austen, Jane Sanditon It was impossible not to feel him hardly used; to be obliged to stand back in his own house and see the best place by the first constantly occupied by Sir Harry Denham.

Austen, Jane Sense and Sensibility Between Barton and Delaford, there was that constant communication which strong family affection would naturally dictate; and among the merits and the happiness of Elinor and Marianne, let it not be ranked as the least considerable, that though sisters and living almost within sight of each other, they could live without disagreement between themselves, or producing coolness between their husbands.

Austen, Jane The Watsons Emma was of course un-influenced, except to greater esteem for Elizabeth, by such representations – and the visitors departed without her.

Bellow, Saul Henderson the Rain King I guess I felt it was my turn now to move, and so went running – leaping, leaping, pounding, and tingling over the pure white lining of the gray Arctic silence.

Bennett, Arnold Clayhanger He braced himself to the exquisite burden to life.

Bennett, Arnold The Old Wives’ Tale She glanced at the soup plate, and, on the chance that it might after all contain something worth inspection, she awkwardly balanced on her old legs and went to it again.

Brontë, Anne Agnes Grey And now I think I have said sufficient.

Brontë, Anne The Tenant of Wildfell Hall Till then, farewell, Gilbert Markham Staningley, June 10th 1847.

Brontë, Charlotte Jane Eyre Amen; even so come, Lord Jesus.

Brontë, Charlotte The Professor Papa, Come!

Brontë, Charlotte Villette Madame Walravens fulfilled her ninetyeth year before she died. Farewell.

Brontë, Emily Wuthering Heights I lingered around them under that benign sky; watched the moths fluttering among the heath and harebells, listening to the soft wind breathing through the grass, and wondered how anyone could ever imagine unquiet slumbers for the sleepers in that quiet earth.

Buchan, John The Thirty-Nine Steps But I had done my best service, I think, before I put on khaki.

Carey, Peter Jack Maggs Affectionately Inscribed to Percival Clarence Buckle, A man of letters, A patron of the arts.

Carroll, Lewis Alice’s Adventures in Wonderland And how she would feel with all their simple sorrows, and find a pleasure in all their simple joys, remembering her own child-life, and the happy summer days.

Carroll, Lewis Through the Looking Glass But the provoking kitten only began on the other paw, and pretended it hadn’t heard the question. Which do you think it was?

Cervantes, Miguel de Don Quixote Farewell.

Clarke, Arthur C 2001 But he would think of something.

Cleland, John Fanny Hill I shall see you soon, and in the meantime think candidly of me, and believe me ever, madam, Yours, etc, etc, etc.

Collins, Wilkie The Moonstone Who can tell?

Conrad, Joseph Lord Jim While he waves his hand sadly at his butterflies.

Conrad, Joseph An Outcast of the Islands And Almayer, who stood waiting, with a smile of tipsy attention on his lips, heard no other answer.

Cookson, Catherine The Maltese Angel Oh, let me cry. Let me cry, my love.

Cookson, Catherine The Year of the Virgins Listen to me, Flo Coulson, your mother loves me. Do you hear that? Your mother loves me. Everything comes to him who waits. Your mother loves me.

Cooper, James Fenimore The Pioneers Who are opening the way for the march of the Nation across the Continent.

Defoe, Daniel Robinson Crusoe And here, resolving to harass myself no more, I am preparing for a longer journey than all these, having lived 72 years, a life of infinite variety, and learn’d sufficiently to know the value of retirement, and the blessing of ending our days in peace.

Dickens, Charles David Copperfield Oh Agnes, Oh my soul, so may thy face be by me when I close my life indeed; so may I, when realities are melting from me like the shadows which I now dismiss, still find thee near me, pointing upward!

Dickens, Charles Great Expectations I took her hand in mine, and we went out of the ruined place; and, as the morning mists had risen long ago when I first left the forge, so, the evening mists were rising now, and in all the broad expanse of tranquil light they showed to me, I saw the shadow of no parting from her.

Dickens, Charles Oliver Twist These, and a thousand looks and smiles, and turns of thought and speech – I would fain recall them every one.

Dickens, Charles Oliver Twist (supplementary) I believe it none the less because that nook is in a church, and she was weak and erring.

Dickens, Charles A Tale of Two Cities It is a far, far better thing that I do, than I have ever done: it is a far, far better rest that I go to, than I have ever known.

Dostoevsky, Fyodor Crime and Punishment That might be the subject of a new story, but our present story is ended.

Doyle, Arthur Conan The Hound of the Baskervilles We can stop at Mancini’s for a little dinner on the way.

Dumas, Alexander The Three Musketeers The opinion of those who thought themselves the best informed was that he was boarded and lodged in some royal castle at the expense of his generous eminence.

Fielding, Henry Tom Jones Who doth not most gratefully bless the day when Mr Jones was married to Sophia.

Greene, Graham Brighton Rock She walked rapidly in the thin June sunlight towards the worst horror of all.

Harris, Robert Fatherland Then he tugged the gun from his waistband, checked to make sure it was loaded and moved towards the silent trees.

Hartley, LP Eustace and Hilda But the cold crept onwards and he did not wake.

Heller, Joseph Catch-22 The knife came down missing him by inches, and he took off.

Hughes, Thomas Tom Brown’s School Days We can come to the knowledge of him in whom alone, the love and the tenderness, and the purity, and the strength, the courage, and the wisdom of all these, dwell for ever and ever in perfect fullness.

Huxley, Aldous Crome Yellow He climbed into the hearse.

Le Carré, John The Honourable Schoolboy And nor does Guillam, for George’s sake.

Le Carré, John The Russia House It’s going to be alright Harry, he assured me as he showed me off the premises. Tell them that. Spying is waiting.

Lewis, CS The Lion, The Witch and The Wardrobe But if the Professor was right it was only the beginning of the adventures of Narnia.

Lewis, Sinclair Arrowsmith We’ll plug along on it for two or three years, and maybe we’ll get something permanent – and probably we’ll fail!

Longfellow, Henry Wadsworth ‘The Village Blacksmith’ Thus on its sounding anvil shaped Each burning deed and thought.

Longfellow, Henry Wadsworth ‘The Wreck of the Hesperus’ Christ saves us all from a death like this, on the reef of Norman’s woe.

Lowry, Malcolm Under the Volcano Somebody threw a dead dog after him down the ravine.

Martel, Yann Life of Pi Very few castaways can claim to have survived so long at sea as Mr Patel, and none in the company of an adult Bengal tiger.

Marvell, Andrew ‘To His Coy Mistress’ Thus though we cannot make our Sun, stand still, yet we will make him run.

McEwan, Ian Enduring Love So now, Rachael said. Tell Leo as well. Say it again slowly, that thing about the river.

Melville, Herman Billy Budd I am sleepy, and the oozy weeds about me twist.

Milton, John On His Blindness They also serve who only stand and wait.

Mitchell, Margaret Gone With the Wind After all, Tomorrow is another day.

O’Brien, Flann At Swim-Two-Birds He went home one evening and drank three cups of tea with three lumps of sugar in each, cut his jugular with a razor three times and scrawled with a dying hand on a picture of his wife, goodbye, goodbye, goodbye.

Scott, Paul The Day of the Scorpion She closed her eyes as perhaps Susan was doing, even now, and after a while felt the quietness of her own happiness and grace welling up inside her; and smiled, ignoring the rain that seemed to be falling on her face.

Service, Robert ‘The Shooting of Dan McGrew’ The woman that kissed him and pinched his poke, was the lady that’s known as Lou.

Sewell, Anna Black Beauty I am still in the orchard at Birtwick standing with my old friends under the apple trees.

Shaw, Irwin The Young Lions Because he knew he had to deliver Noah Ackerman, personally, to Captain Green.

Solzhenitsyn, Alexander One Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovich The three extra days were because of the leap years.

Steel, Danielle Kaleidoscope He held her tightly in his arms and she knew he was telling the truth. ‘Everything’s going to be all right now.’

Steel, Danielle Star Home at last. Together.

Swift, Jonathan Gulliver’s Travels And therefore, I here entreat those who have any tincture of this absurd vice, that they will not presume to appear in my sight.

Thompson, Flora Lark Rise to Candleford They were spun of love and kinship and cherished memories.

Tolstoy, Leo War and Peace In the present case, it is an essential to surmount a consciousness of an unreal freedom and to recognise a dependence not perceived by our senses.

Tremain, Rose Restoration Before I have grown too frail to climb the stairs – I shall bring you back.

Twain, Mark The Adventures of Tom Sawyer And if I git to be a reg’lar ripper of a robber, and everybody talking ’bout it, I reckon she’ll be proud she snaked me in out of the wet.

Waugh, Evelyn Brideshead Revisited ‘You’re looking unusually cheerful today,’ said the second-in-command.

Wilde, Oscar The Ballad of Reading Gaol The coward does it with a kiss, The brave man with a sword.

Wood, Mrs Henry East Lynne Oh Barbara, never forget – never forget that the only way to ensure peace in the end, is to strive always to be doing right, unselfishly, under God.

Wyndham, John The Day of the Triffids Until we have wiped the last one of them from the face of the land they have usurped.

Prince, Miss Teacher at Mrs Goddard's school.

Richardson, Miss Teacher at Mrs Goddard's school.

Saunders, John Miss Bates considers taking her mother's spectacles to him to fix.

Serle Cook at Hartfield.

Smallridge, Mrs Friend of Sucklings and Braggles, offered Jane Fairfax a governess position.

Smith, Harriet A boarder at Mrs Goddard's. Her favourite book is The Vicar of Wakefield and she is delighted that Robert Martin has read it. Her keepsake box has the words 'most precious treasures' written on the silver tissue wrapping. After refusing Robert Martin's proposal of marriage and then having several romantic adventures, she eventually sees sense and marries him.

Stokes, Mrs Referred to by Emma in chapters 29 and 38 at the Crown Inn at Highbury.

Suckling, Mr Of Maple Grove, near Bristol. A rich and cultured man who marries Selina Hawkins, the sister of Mrs Elton. He is often mentioned by Mrs Elton in the hope of elevating herself.

Taylor, Anne Governess to Emma at Hartfield, where she was employed for 16 years. She marries Mr Weston at the start of the novel. A kind and friendly woman who was more of a friend than a teacher to Emma.

Tom Servant at Randalls.

Tupman Upstart who settled near the Suckling home of Maple Grove.

Wallis, Mrs Bakes apples for Miss Bates.

Weston, Captain Mr Of Randalls near Hartfield. Frank Churchill is his son from his first marriage. His second marriage is to Miss Anne Taylor. He is a good friend of Emma's.

Wingfield, Mr Isabella Knightley's apothecary in London.

Woodhouse, Emma Daughter of Henry Woodhouse and sister to Isabella Knightley. Her mother died when she was about five years old. She is the central character of the novel. She is nearly 21 years old and is beautiful, clever and rich, with true hazel eyes, and according to Mrs Weston 'is the picture of grown-up health'. She is however a snob; she befriends Harriet Smith with intention to improve her and invents various romantic liaisons for her. She is also a gossip and invents an affair between Jane Fairfax and Mr Dixon, before insulting Miss Bates at Box Hill and being rebuked by George Knightley. This causes a re-examination of her previous conduct. She changes her ways and is rewarded by marrying George.

Woodhouse, Mr Henry Of Hartfield, Highbury. Father of Isabella Knightley and Emma Woodhouse. A chronic hypochondriac whose favourite dish was 'gruel, gruel, gruel'.

Wright Housekeeper at the vicarage.

Mansfield Park: Completed in 1813 and first published in 1814. Often cited as the least romantic of Austen's novels but acutely socially aware, focusing as it does on the slave trade and the British aristocracy's propensity to exploit their social inferiors.

Anderson, Miss Younger sister of Charles Anderson. Described as Miss Anderson of the Aylmers, of Twickenham.

Anderson, Mr Charles Friend of Tom Bertram.

Aylmers Reside in Twickenham. Maria Rushworth (née Bertram) stays with them and Charles Crawford visits.

Baddeley Sir Thomas Bertram's butler.

Bertram, Edmund Younger son of Sir Thomas and Lady Bertram. As he is not the heir to Mansfield Park, he is groomed to be a clergyman. He is good-natured and is the only Bertram to show kindness to Fanny Price. He is initially smitten with Mary Crawford before turning his attentions towards Fanny Price and eventually marrying her.

Bertram, Julia The Bertrams' younger daughter. Shares her sister's temperament and personality although, as she is younger and less beautiful, she is not so self-assured. She tends to follow Maria around and upon her sister's elopement she runs away with Yates, her brother Tom's friend.

Bertram, Lady Maria Née Ward (sister to Mrs Norris and Mrs Frances Price). She is the wife of Sir Thomas, mother to the Bertram children and aunt to Fanny Price. She is neurotic, lazy and an incorrigible hypochondriac who values attractiveness over other, more lasting qualities.

Bertram, Maria The Bertrams' older daughter. Vain and arrogant of manner, she treats Fanny Price badly and marries the equally odious Mr Rushworth for his wealth.

Bertram, Sir Thomas Baronet and Member of Parliament. Married to Maria Ward. They have four children: Tom, Edmund, Maria and Julia. He takes on Fanny Price, the child of his sister-in-law who has fallen on difficult times. Sir Thomas is a stern but kind man. He is also the owner of Mansfield Park. The novel tells of the departure of Sir Thomas to the West Indies and the moral decline of his household into a series of inappropriate relationships and forbidden theatricals. Sir Thomas owns slaves on his plantations in the Caribbean but a series of disasters ensue to show him the error of his ways.

Bertram, Tom The Bertrams' older son and heir to Mansfield Park. He is a hard-drinking party-goer who gets into debt, for which Edmund suffers. His lifestyle eventually catches up with him and he nearly dies from an illness caused by his excessive drinking.

Crawford, Admiral Uncle of Henry and Mary Crawford, whom he brings up after their parents die. His wife dies, and his mistress moves in with him. Uses his influence to help William Price secure his lieutenant's commission.

Crawford, Henry Brother of Mary Crawford. He is an attractive but unprincipled man who initially woos Fanny Price; both Maria and Julia Bertram fall under his spell too. Maria marries but Henry runs off with her, although their relationship ends badly.

Crawford, Mary Sister of Henry Crawford. Mary is as passionate as her brother and equally lacking in principle. She is a free spirit; Edmund Bertram falls in love with her and nearly proposes.

Ellis Maid of the Bertrams, attends Maria and Julia.

Grant, Dr 45 years old. Succeeds Mr Norris as Rector of Mansfield. Brother-in-law to Henry and Mary Crawford. Made Dean of Westminster, but dies there in a fit of apoplexy brought on after three large dinners.

Grant, Mrs Half-sister of Henry and Mary Crawford. Wife of Dr Grant, the second parson at Mansfield. She lives in the Rectory but after her husband dies she lives with Mary Crawford.

Harding, Mr Old friend of Sir Thomas Bertram. Warns of, and later informs him of Maria (Bertram) Rushworth's and Henry Crawford's elopement. His attempts to prevent a scandal are thwarted by the elder Mrs Rushworth.

Holford, Mrs Acquaintance of Tom Bertram. It is at her house that he is embarrassed by Miss Anderson.

Jackson, Christopher Carpenter who is prevented from profiting from the dismantling of the stage and scenery during the amateur theatricals episode.

Jackson, Dick Son of Christopher. Prevented from profiting from the dismantling of the stage and scenery. Mentioned in chapter 15.

Lee, Miss Governess to Maria and Julia Bertram, and to Fanny Price.

Nanny Mrs Norris's servant and chief counsellor.

Norris, Mrs Oldest of the three Ward sisters. She married a clergyman and settled at Mansfield Parsonage until widowed and moving to a smaller house. She has no children and is an officious busybody, always endeavouring to derive glory from her association with the Bertram family. She is cruel to Fanny Price, whom she is always reminding of her 'place' in the family.

Norris, Reverend Friend of Sir Thomas Bertram, marrying his sister-in-law Miss Ward. Sir Thomas gives him a living at Mansfield, later becomes ill and dies.

Price, Betsy Youngest child of Lieutenant and Frances Price. Fanny's youngest sister is five years old.

Price, Charles Youngest son of Lieutenant and Frances Price. Fanny's youngest brother is eight years old.

Price, Fanny Central character of the novel. Oldest daughter of Lieutenant and Mrs Fanny Price. Her parents, unable to support nine children, send her off to live with her aunt Lady Maria Bertram and her rich husband Sir Thomas Bertram, at Mansfield Park. She falls in love and marries her cousin Edmund Bertram, although first subject to proposals from the slick Henry Crawford.

Price, Mary Daughter of Lieutenant and Frances Price. Is about four years old when Fanny leaves home, but dies a few years later. Gives Susan a silver knife.

Price, Mr Officer in the Marines, who was prone to a drink or two. After 11 years he was disabled from active service and lived in Portsmouth. He married Frances Ward, their children being: William, Fanny, Mary (deceased), Susan, John and Richard, Tom, Charles, and Betsy.

Price, Mrs Frances Youngest of three Ward sisters (Lady Maria Bertram and Mrs Norris being the other two). She married Lieutenant Price of the Marines to disoblige her family, causing a rift with Mrs Norris. Lives in Portsmouth with her disabled husband. Children: William, Fanny, Mary (deceased), Susan, John, Richard, Tom, Charles, Sam and Betsy.

Price, Susan Third daughter of Lieutenant and Frances Price. Fanny's younger sister is 14 years old when she moves to Mansfield Park, where she takes Fanny's place as Lady Bertram's companion.

Price, Tom Son of Lieutenant and Frances Price. Nine years old. Fanny helped care for him before her departure to Mansfield Park.

Price, William Oldest child of Lieutenant and Frances Price, and favourite brother of Fanny. Joins the Royal Navy, serves as midshipman with Captain Marshall. In his attempt to woo Fanny, Henry Crawford arranges a promotion to second lieutenant for William.

Ravenshaw, Lord Owner of Ecclesford in Cornwall where a large house party is held, and Lovers' Vows is staged (called off upon the death of his grandmother).

Rebecca The Prices' slovenly and lazy upper servant.

Repton, Mr Humphrey A landscape gardener and improver of estates. Mr Rushworth considers hiring him, at the rate of five guineas a day. Humphrey Repton was of course a notable real-life landscapist of the day.

Rushworth, Mr Wealthy landowner but thoroughly idiotic and lacking in personality. He marries Maria Bertram.

Sneyd, Mr Tom Bertram's friend who lives in Ramsgate with Mrs Sneyd his mother, and his two sisters.

Sneyd, Mrs Mother of Mr, Miss and Augusta Sneyd.

Stornoway, Lady Née Ross. Former intimate friend of Mary Crawford, although the two have not been close for thre years. Is attracted to Henry Crawford. Later jilts a young officer in the Blues and marries Lord Stornoway.

Stornoway, Lord Husband of Lady Stornoway.

Yates, Mr Friend of Tom Bertram, who proposes the amateur theatricals at Mansfield Park. He shows an interest in Julia Bertram and eventually elopes with her.

Northanger Abbey: Published posthumously in 1818, it is the shortest of Austen's six major works. The novel was completed in 1799 and pokes fun at the existing fashion for the Gothic novel typified in the works of Ann Radcliffe, particularly The Mysteries of Udolpho. The novel was originally called Susan but Austen renamed the heroine and the book.

Northanger Abbey is the home of the Tilney family in Bath.

Alice In chapter 28 Eleanor asks Catherine to write to her 'Direct to me at Lord Longtown's, and, I must ask it, under cover to Alice.'

Allen, Mr and Mrs Mr and Mrs Allen live in Fullerton. They are older and wealthier than the Morlands and treat Catherine Morland as a daughter. They invite Catherine to go to Bath with them. Mr Allen spends most of his time playing cards in Bath while his wife splashes her time either shopping, knitting or talking to Mrs Thorpe.

Andrews, Miss A friend of Isabella Thorpe, described in chapter 6 as 'a sweet girl, one of the sweetest creatures in the world'. She is a great fan of Gothic novels and appears to have read them all.

Hughes, Mrs A lady who is a member of Henry and Eleanor's party at the ball in the Upper Rooms, Bath.

Hunt, Captain An admirer of Isabella Thorpe. Mentioned in chapter 6: 'I told Captain Hunt, at one of our assemblies this winter, that if he was to ask me to tease me all night, I would dance with him unless he would allow Miss Andrews to be as beautiful as an angel.'

Morland, Catherine The 17-year-old heroine of the novel. Having spent her formative years in her family's modest home in Fullerton reading Gothic novels, she lets her imagination run riot when she stays with the Tilney family at Northanger Abbey. She believes General Tilney murdered his wife and although she has a kind and intelligent nature, it becomes apparent that her inexperience makes her a bad reader of people. After overcoming the embarrassment of suspecting his father of murder, Catherine is eventually betrothed to Henry.

Morland, George One of Catherine Morland's youngest siblings, a child of six.

Morland, Harriet The youngest in the Morland family, a four-year-old girl who vies with little George in being the first to welcome Catherine home from her adventures.

Morland, James Catherine Morland's oldest brother who is a fellow student of John Thorpe at Oxford University. He is a good-natured but inexperienced young man, who becomes engaged to Isabella Thorpe but breaks it off when she begins to flirt with Frederick Tilney.

Morland, Mr Father of the Morland clan. He was a clergyman in Fullerton and appears briefly at the beginning and end of the novel.

Morland, Mrs Wife of the clergyman. A sensible soul, who does not insist on her daughters being accomplished in spite of incapacity or distaste.

Morland, Richard The heroine's second oldest brother – a young man who would apparently have to do without cravats if he were entirely dependent on the love-sick Catherine for that article of dress.

Morland, Sarah (Sally) Catherine Morland's 16-year-old sister who, being a young lady of common gentility, has naturally altered her name as far as she can, from Sally to Sarah.

Skinner, Dr Mentioned in chapter 8 as having stayed with his family at the pump rooms in Bath for some three months.

Thorpe, Anne One of Mrs Thorpe's two younger daughters. Although not as beautiful as Isabella, she does very well by pretending to be as handsome, imitating her air, and dressing in the same style.

Thorpe, Edward One of three sons of Mrs Thorpe. He attended Merchant Taylors.

Thorpe, Isabella One of three daughters of Mrs Thorpe and sister of John Thorpe. She is beautiful but shallow and as such a perfect friend for Catherine Morland. She is a master of artifice and is able to charm all and sundry, but eventually Catherine sees her for the malicious gossip she is, as do her romantic interests James Morland and Frederick Tilney.

Thorpe, John The arrogant and boastful brother of Isabella Thorpe, and the would-be suitor of Catherine Morland. He attended Oxford University.

Thorpe, Mrs A former schoolfellow and intimate of Mrs Allen's. She is the widowed mother of Isabella and their natures are similar.

Thorpe, William Another young Thorpe sibling. This one is at sea, but like his more academic brothers, and according to his mother (in chapter 6), he too is apparently beloved and respected by all who know him!

Tilney, Eleanor Henry's younger sister. A shy, quiet young woman who shares her brother's interest in reading.

Tilney, Frederick A dashing captain in the 12th Light Dragoons, oldest brother of Henry and Eleanor. He flirts with Isabella Thorpe, which leads her to break off her engagement to James Morland, but then abandons her in Bath.

Tilney, General The authoritarian father of Henry, Frederick and Eleanor. A widower who takes great pride in his home, Northanger Abbey, which he refurbished himself. He is material and as such is concerned that his children marry well. He is also gruff and overbearing which makes Catherine Morland think poorly of him, to the extent of suspecting him of murder.

Tilney, Henry The hero of the novel. A 26-year-old parson in the village of Woodston. He is intelligent, witty and charming, and nurtures Catherine through her fantasies. Her true nature shines through in the end and Henry falls in love with her.

Persuasion: Completed in 1816 during her second phase of writing. As in the case of Northanger Abbey, Persuasion was published posthumously by Austen’s brother Henry in 1818.

Benwick, Captain Formerly first lieutenant of the Laconia. He was engaged to Fanny Harville, who died the preceding summer while he was at sea. Later attracted to Anne Elliot, he falls in love with and becomes engaged to Louisa Musgrove. Captain Benwick is a sensitive man who loves poetry.

Brand, Admiral Brother of Captain Frederick Wentworth. Disliked by Mrs Croft because he ‘got away some of my best men’ (as relayed by Admiral Croft). He has the curacy of Monksford, but later moves out of the county, marries and has a parish in Shropshire.

Brigden, Captain A friend of Admiral Croft, mentioned in chapter 18.

Carteret, Miss Daughter of Lady Dalrymple: ‘So plain and so awkward, that she would never had been tolerated in Camden Place but for her birth’.

Clay, Mrs Penelope Elizabeth Elliot’s gold-digging friend. Both Anne and Lady Russell are concerned about her romantic designs on Sir Walter while staying at Bath. She is a divorcee with two children.

Croft, Admiral Sir Walter is persuaded to lease Kellynch Hall to the admiral and his wife.

Croft, Mrs Sophia Wife of Admiral Croft.

Dalrymple, Lady An Irish viscountess. Mother of the Honourable Miss Carteret and cousin of Sir Walter Elliot. She takes a house for three months at Laura Place, Bath, and Sir Walter writes to her in the hope of patching up old wounds.

Dalrymple, Viscount Husband of Viscountess Dalrymple. His death before the beginning of the novel has caused some friction between the Dalrymples and the Elliots as Sir Walter did not send a letter of condolence to the viscountess due to his own life-threatening illness.

Drew, Sir Archibald Friend of Admiral Croft who mistook Anne Elliot for the Admiral’s wife while walking the streets of Bath. He has a grandson, mentioned in chapter 18.

Durands Visitors to Bath, mentioned in chapter 21.

Elliot, Anne The central character of the novel. Two years younger than her sister, Elizabeth. Both Elizabeth and her father Sir Walter show her little affection but she is the favourite of Lady Russell, who convinced her to break her engagement with Captain Wentworth eight years ago when she was 19, due to his limited funds. Anne visits her sister, Mary, at Uppercross, and is very loving to her two children, Charles and Walter. Anne meets Captain Wentworth on the street. They exchange pleasantries and then deeper thoughts and feelings, realise they are in love and are eventually married.

Elliot, Elizabeth Oldest daughter of Sir Walter Elliot. She is 29 at the beginning of the novel and runs the house, Kellynch Hall. Sir Walter, Mrs Clay and she go to reside in Bath while the unwanted Anne goes to visit her hypochondriacal sister Mary at the Musgroves’ residence, Uppercross.

Elliot, Lady Elizabeth Wife of Sir Walter and mother of Elizabeth, Anne and Mary. She died 14 years before the novel begins. Lady Elliot was the daughter of James Stevenson of South Park, Gloucester.

Elliot, Mary Youngest daughter of Sir Walter. Married to Charles Musgrove. They live at Uppercross with their two children. Mary is a hypochondriac.

Elliot, Mrs Granddaughter of a butcher, daughter of a glazier. Her wealth attracts William Walter Elliot who marries her. She dies after an unhappy marriage.

Elliot, Sir Walter Of Kellynch Hall, Somersetshire. Baronet. Sir Walter is 54 years old at the beginning of the novel. His wife, Elizabeth, died 14 years before the novel begins. Father of Elizabeth, Anne and Mary. To manage his debts he is forced to leave Kellynch Hall and move to more humble quarters at Camden Place, Bath.

Elliot, Sir Walter The Second Elliot, grandfather of Mr William Elliot.

Elliot, William Walter Grandson and presumed heir of Sir Walter Elliot (the Second). Recently widowed, he begins to have designs on Anne Elliot, causing Captain Wentworth to feel jealous pangs. Mrs Smith informs Anne of Elliot’s true and despicable nature. He is the nephew of the first Sir Walter.

Frankland, Mrs Friend of Lady Russell. Visitor to Bath.

Harville, Captain Resident of Lyme. Friend of Captain Frederick Wentworth. Mr and Mrs Harville have three children.

Harville, Mrs Wife of Captain Harville. Anne looks upon their union as an example of a happy marriage.

Hayter, Charles Oldest son of the Hayters. Non-resident curate. Has an understanding with, and marries his cousin, Henrietta Musgrove, after securing a church living.

Hayter, Mr Henry Owner of Winthrop. Husband of Mrs Musgrove’s sister. They have a son, Charles, and two daughters.

Hayter, Mrs Mrs Musgrove’s sister. Wife of Henry and mother of a son, Charles, and two daughters.

Jeeves Servant of the Crofts who drove their carriage.

Jemima Servant of the Musgroves at Uppercross.

Musgrove, Charles Elder son of Charles and Mary Musgrove (née Elliot).

Musgrove, Charles Oldest child of Charles and Mary Musgrove. Married to Mary Elliot. They live at Uppercross with their two children, Charles (little) and Walter.

Musgrove, Mr Charles The elder Charles Musgrove is the owner of Uppercross Hall, Somerset. Second only to Sir Walter Elliot in the neighbourhood. His children include Charles, Richard (Dick), Henrietta, Louisa, Mary, and several younger ones, Harry being the youngest son.

Musgrove, Louisa Second daughter of Charles (elder) and Mrs Musgrove, 19 years old.

Musgrove, Mary Youngest daughter of Sir Walter Elliot. Marries Charles Musgrove (the younger) after he is refused by her sister Anne. Mother of Charles and Walter. She is a hypochondriac.

Musgrove, Mrs Mary Wife of the elder Charles Musgrove. Always had a special connection with Captain Frederick Wentworth as he was the commander in charge of her late son, Dick.

Musgrove, Richard Dick Musgrove is the good-for-nothing but now deceased son of the elder Charles Musgrove and Mary Musgrove.

Musgrove, Walter Younger son of Charles and Mary Musgrove (née Elliot), aged two at the beginning of the novel.

Rooke, Nurse Sister of Mrs Smith’s landlady.

Russell, Lady Wife of the late Sir Henry Russell. She was the close friend of Lady Elliot and continues to support her daughters after Lady Elliot’s death. She is Anne’s godmother and treats her with more affection than other members of the Elliot family.

Russell, Sir Henry Lady Russell’s late husband.

Shepherd, Mr Trusted family advisor of the Elliots. Helps Lady Russell draw up a plan for ways that Sir Walter Elliot can save money.

Smith, Mrs Née Hamilton. Friend of Anne Elliot at school. Later Anne finds her again in Bath, widowed, impoverished and crippled, and helps her after finding out that it was Mr William Walter Elliot who put her into debt and refused to help her after her husband died.

Speed, Mrs Landlady at Mrs Smith’s lodgings in Bath.

Wallis, Colonel Friend of Mr Elliot, ‘a highly respectable man, perfectly the gentleman’.

Wentworth, Captain Brother of Edward Wentworth and Sophia Croft. Captain Frederick Wentworth has been in love with Anne Elliot but Lady Russell persuaded Anne to break off the relationship due to his limited means. Eventually Lady Russell concedes she was wrong in her judgement of him and, now in a healthier financial position, he lets Anne know of his feelings for her in a letter and finally marries her.

Wentworth, Edward Brother of Captain Frederick Wentworth and Sophia Croft. He has the curacy of Monksford but later moves out of the county, marries and has a parish in Shropshire.

Pride & Prejudice: Completed in 1797, under the title First Impressions, and published in 1813. The imaginary places mentioned in the novel include Longbourn, Herts (residence of the Bennets), Netherfield Park, Herts (residence of the Bingleys), Pemberley, Derbyshire (residence of Fitzwilliam Darcy).

Annesley, Mrs Companion to Miss Georgiana Darcy. A genteel, agreeable looking woman.

Bennet, Catherine (Kitty) The fourth Bennet sister. Kitty tends to follow Lydia's lead in whatever she does.

Bennet, Elizabeth Second oldest of the five Bennet sisters and the central character of the novel. She is quick-witted, intelligent, bold and attractive (with particularly fine eyes). She prides herself on being a good judge of character but in reality her vanity often clouds her judgement. After a stormy relationship she eventually marries Mr Fitzwilliam Darcy. Jane Austen called Elizabeth 'as delightful a creature as ever appeared in print'.

Bennet, Jane Oldest of the five Bennet sisters and foil to Elizabeth's more rash deliberations. Jane is the model of the perfect older sister: beautiful, kind and loving, with unerring good sense. Marries Charles Bingley at the end of the novel.

Bennet, Lydia The youngest of the Bennet sisters and the favourite of her mother, whose frivolous nature she mirrors. Elopes with George Wickham despite his involvement with Mary King.

Bennet, Mary The third Bennet sister, who is described as 'the only plain one in the family'. Annoys Elizabeth with her unaccomplished singing in front of Mr Darcy.

Bennet, Mr Father of the five Bennet sisters, and long-suffering husband of a foolish woman. A kindly, intelligent man who settles for an easy life to the cost of his youngest daughter's honour.

Bennet, Mrs Mother of the five Bennet sisters. A shrewish woman who is intent on marrying off her five daughters.

Bingley, Charles The amiable and good-tempered man who rents Netherfield Park at the beginning of the novel. Father of Caroline and Louisa Hurst. He marries Jane Bennet by the end of the book and moves out of the neighbourhood.

Bingley, Miss Caroline Charles Bingley's unmarried sister. She is arrogant and superficial but unlike Darcy has no redeeming virtues, always ridiculing the poor manners of the Bennet children.

Carter, Captain Member of the regiment in Meryton.

Chamberlayne, Mr Member of the regiment in Meryton.

Collins, Rev. William Clergyman and Mr Bennet's cousin who is in line to inherit Longbourn when Mr Bennet dies. A rather comical fellow, prone to making long rambling speeches on nothing but what he feels will elevate him in the esteem of the listener.

Darcy, Georgiana Fitzwilliam Darcy's younger sister who has all of her brother's virtues but none of his aloofness.

Darcy, Lady Anne Born Lady Anne Fitzwilliam; Lady Catherine de Bourgh's sister and Mr Darcy's mother.

Darcy, Mr (the elder) Fitzwilliam Darcy's father, who died approximately five years before the novel begins.

Darcy, Mr Fitzwilliam Wealthy aristocrat and owner of Pemberley. At the beginning of the novel he is very conscious of class difference but falls in love with Elizabeth Bennet because she refuses to treat him as anything but an equal. He begins to judge people by their character rather than their social standing. He eventually marries Elizabeth.

Dawson Lady Catherine's maid.

De Bourgh, Anne Lady Catherine's sickly daughter who is pampered by her mother.

De Bourgh, Catherine Mr Collins' patron and Mr Darcy's aunt. Extremely wealthy and aristocratic, she likes the world to know of her superior standing. Her shallowness helps Darcy to mend his ways.

De Bourgh, Sir Lewis Lady Catherine's late husband.

Denny, Captain A member of the regiment in Meryton and friend of George Wickham.

Fitzwilliam, Colonel Mr Darcy's cousin who accompanies Elizabeth Bennet during her stay with the Collinses and confides to her that he must marry for money as he is a second son.

Forster, Colonel Head of the regiment stationed at Meryton. A decent man who suffers great guilt when Lydia Bennet elopes with George Wickham.

Forster, Harriet Colonel Forster's wife who befriends Lydia Bennet and invites her to spend the summer with them in Brighton, from where Lydia elopes with Wickham.

Gardiner, Mr Edward Brother of Mrs Bennet who works as a merchant and, unlike the aristocrats who live off the interest of their land, is seen as of inferior class. Darcy eventually overcomes his prejudice towards the working class by perceiving the decency of Mr Gardiner.

Gardiner, Mrs Mr Gardiner's wife who tends to act as a mother-figure for Elizabeth and Jane Bennet. She brings Jane to London with her in order to ease her heartbreak over Bingley's failure to return to Netherfield. She also gives good counsel to Elizabeth with regard to Wickham's intentions.

Gouldings, The Residents of Haye-Park. Only William Goulding is mentioned: 'we overtook William Goulding in his curricel', chapter 51.

Grantley, Miss An acquaintance of Miss Caroline Bingley.

Haggerston, Mr Mr Gardiner's attorney.

Harrington, Harriet Acquaintance of Mrs Forster and Lydia Bennet in Brighton.

Lucas, Lady Sir William's wife and mother of Charlotte and Maria.

Lucas, Maria Charlotte Lucas's younger sister who travels with her father and Elizabeth Bennet when visiting Charlotte.

Lucas, Sir William Friend and neighbour of the Bennets who loves nothing better than to talk of his knighthood.

Metcalfe, Lady Acquaintance of Lady Catherine.

Morris, Mr The man who shows Netherfield Park to Mr Bingley.

Nicholls, Mrs The housekeeper at Netherfield.

Philips, Mr The husband of Mrs Bennet's sister. An attorney in Meryton.

Philips, Mrs Mrs Bennet's sister who lives in Meryton (where the soldiers are based) and consequently is often visited by the Bennet sisters.

Pope, Miss Governess in Lady Metcalf's family.

Pratt, Mr Member of the regiment at Meryton.

Reynolds, Mrs Housekeeper at Pemberley.

Richard, Mr An employee of Mr Philips – Lydia mentions that he will join the regiment if her uncle lets him go.

Robinson, Mr Man who, at the Assembly Ball, asked Mr Bingley which girl he thought the handsomest.

Sarah A maid.

Stone, Mr Mr Gardiner's clerk.

Watson, Miss A resident of Meryton whom the soldiers visited.

Webbs, The Miss Acquaintances of Lady Catherine.

Wickham, George An officer in the regiment stationed at Meryton. Initially favoured by Elizabeth Bennet to be a good and amiable man but events contrive to show his true character to be deceitful and mercenary. After forming a liaison with Mary King, he eventually elopes with Lydia Bennet.

Wickham, Old Mr Father of George and steward to the late Mr Darcy.

Younge, Mrs Former governess of Georgiana Darcy who informs Darcy of the whereabouts of Wickham and Lydia.

Sense and Sensibility: Written in 1797 and published in 1811, her first published novel was financed by Austen herself after both Northanger Abbey and Pride and Prejudice were rejected by a publisher. Her brother Henry and sister Cassandra were instrumental in convincing Austen to publish the novel, originally entitled Elinor and Marianne.

Betsy Dashwoods' servant at Norland Park and Barton Park.

Betty Mrs Jennings' maid.

Brandon, Colonel Of Delaford in Dorsetshire. A 35-year-old former military officer who was stationed in India. His stern exterior hides a soft heart. Marries Marianne Dashwood and becomes less stern.

Dashwood, Elinor At 19 the oldest and wisest of the daughters of Mrs Dashwood and Henry, often sacrificing her own happiness in order to maintain the family's status quo. Marries Edward Ferrers and lives at Delaford where she is eventually joined by Marianne and the colonel.

Dashwood, Fanny Daughter of Mrs Ferrars, sister of Edward and Robert Ferrars, married John Dashwood and has a more miserly temperament even than he.

Dashwood, Harry John & Fanny Dashwood's spoilt four-year-old.

Dashwood, Henry Of Stanhill and Norland Park, Sussex. By his first wife he had one son, John; by his second, three daughters, Elinor, Marianne and Margaret. He dies at the beginning of the novel, leaving his son his estate and ensuring his daughters are forced to accept an invitation from Sir John Middleton to Barton Cottage.

Dashwood, John Son of Henry Dashwood. Mean and miserly to his three half-sisters. Married to Fanny Ferrars, with one son, Harry, four years old.

Dashwood, Margaret Henry and Mrs Dashwood's youngest daughter. At 13 years old she is at a difficult age and although she aspires to Marianne's romantic inclinations her sounder sense prevails.

Dashwood, Marianne Henry and Mrs Dashwood's second daughter. Two years younger than Elinor and lacking her discretion and calm. After falling and hurting her ankle is carried home by the rakish Willoughby who shares her love of the arts. Willoughby lets her down in love, and she eventually marries Colonel Brandon and lives happily at Delaford.

Dashwood, Mrs Mother of Elinor, Marianne and Margaret. She is close to her daughters but hopes to see them married off.

Davies, Dr Discussed in chapter 32 as a possible beau of Anne Steele.

Hawdon, Captain See Nemo.

Hortense, Mademoiselle Lady Dedlock's French maid. She is dismissed in favour of Rosa and aids Tulkinghorn in discovering Lady Dedlock's secret. When Tulkinghorn spurns her she murders him. Hortense is based on Mrs Manning, a murderer whose execution Dickens witnessed in 1849.

Jarndyce, John Owner of Bleak House and party in the Chancery suit of Jarndyce and Jarndyce. He adopts Esther Summerson, who becomes close friends with John's cousins, Ada Clare and Richard Carstone. John hates the lawsuit which has gone on for so long with no end in sight. Richard, however, becomes totally consumed by the case, hoping it will make him his fortune. This obsession causes Carstone and Jarndyce to suffer a falling out. Jarndyce falls in love with Esther and asked her to marry him, but although she originally consents, she subsequently falls in love with Allan Woodcourt.

Jellyby, Caroline (Caddy) Neglected daughter of Mrs Jellyby and acts as her personal secretary ('I'm pen and ink to ma'). Caddy leaves home and marries Prince Turveydrop.

Jellyby, Mrs Mrs Jellyby is involved in many causes and charities but neglects her large family. Dickens modelled Mrs Jellyby on Caroline Chisholm.

Jellyby, Peepy Little brother of Caddy and son of Mrs Jellyby whose clothes were either too big or too small.

Jenny Brickmaker's wife, befriended by Esther Summerson after Jenny's child dies. Later exchanges coats with Lady Dedlock, throwing Bucket off in his pursuit of Lady Dedlock as she flees following the revealing of her secret.

Jo The crossing sweeper. When Jo shows Lady Dedlock the haunts of Captain Hawdon, lawyer Tulkinghorn has Jo kept moving from place to place. He befriends Esther Summerson at Bleak House and communicates smallpox to Charlie, and then Esther. Jo later dies at George's Shooting Gallery.

Jobling, Tony (Weevle) Friend of Guppy who takes Nemo's room at Krook's after Nemo's death. Jobling and Guppy discover the spectacular death of Krook and are temporary celebrities, drinking for free at the Sol's Arms.

Kenge Solicitor for John Jarndyce in the firm Kenge and Carboy. Known as 'Conversation Kenge'.

Krook Drunken and illiterate proprietor of a rag and bottle shop. Known as the 'Lord Chancellor', Krook collects court documents. A will instrumental in the Jarndyce and Jarndyce court case is found among his holdings by Mr Smallweed, who inherits Krook's possessions following his demise by spontaneous combustion. Krook is Mrs Smallweed's brother.

Lord Chancellor A high legal figure in the Court of Chancery (of course).

Mooney Beadle who is summoned to Krook's home on Hawdon's (Nemo's) death and gives evidence at the inquest.

Neckett, Charlotte (Charley) Daughter of sheriff's officer Neckett. When her father dies Charley cares for her two younger siblings, Emma and Tom. Charley becomes Esther Summerson's maid, nursing Esther through smallpox. She later marries a miller.

Neckett, Mr Sheriff's officer who arrests debtors and delivers them to Coavin's sponging house (temporary debtor's prison). Thus Skimpole gives Neckett the nickname 'Coavinses'. Neckett dies leaving three orphans: Charlotte (Charley), Emma and Tom.

Nemo Alias of Captain Hawdon (Nemo is Latin for 'nobody'). Nemo is doing some law copying for Snagsby and is a boarder in Krook's rag and bottle shop when he dies of an opium overdose. He is later found to be the former lover of Lady Dedlock and the father of Esther Summerson.

Rouncewell, George Son of the Dedlock's housekeeper Mrs Rouncewell. George ran away to join the army and cut himself off from his mother. After leaving the army he buys a shooting gallery in London with money borrowed from Smallweed. Smallweed pressures George to give over examples of Captain Hawdon's handwriting in order to help Tulkinghorn learn Lady Dedlock's secret. Charged with the murder of Tulkinghorn by Bucket, later George is exonerated of the crime and is reunited with his mother.

Rouncewell, Mrs Longtime housekeeper of Chesney Wold, home of Sir Leicester Dedlock. Mother of George and another son, who is an important ironmaster in northern England.

Skimpole, Harold Friend of John Jarndyce who claims he is a mere child who understands nothing of money, and through this smooth act manages to have everyone else pay his way through life. Dickens modelled Skimpole on Leigh Hunt.

Smallweed, Mr Joshua Grandfather Smallweed is a usurer to whom Rouncewell owes money. Smallweed uses this leverage to obtain from George a sample of Nemo's handwriting in an attempt to help Tulkinghorn learn Lady Dedlock's secret. Also in the Smallweed family are grandmother – Krook's sister, at whom grandfather throws cushions when she mentions money – and the twin grandchildren, Bartholomew and Judy.

Snagsby Law stationer near Chancery Lane who hires Nemo to do some copy work. Snagsby's wife is a zealous supporter of Rev. Chadband.

Summerson, Esther Principal character in the story and one of the narrators. She is brought up an orphan by her aunt, Miss Barbary. On her aunt's death she is adopted by John Jarndyce and becomes companions to his wards, Ada Clare and Richard Carstone. It is revealed that Esther is the illegitimate daughter of Captain Hawdon and Lady Dedlock. John Jarndyce falls in love with her and asks her to marry him. She consents out of respect for Jarndyce, but during the engagement she falls in love with Allan Woodcourt.

Tangle, Mr Barrister who is the leading living authority on the case of Jarndyce v Jarndyce having read nothing else since his schooldays.

Wisk, Miss Feminist who eventually accepts Mr Quale as her husband.

Woodcourt, Allan A young surgeon who falls in love with Esther Summerson before going away as ship's doctor to India. On his return to England he learns that Esther is engaged to John Jarndyce. When Jarndyce learns that Esther is in love with Woodcourt he releases her to marry him.

A Christmas Carol: Christmas book published December 1843 by Chapman and Hall; illustrated by John Leech; too short to be classified as a novel and perhaps more correctly categorised as a novella Belle Scrooge's former fiancée, whom he had forgotten until reminded by the Ghost of Christmas Past.

Cratchit, Bob Long-suffering clerk of Ebenezer Scrooge and father of Tiny Tim. Bob endures his employer's mistreatment until Scrooge, reformed by the visit of the three spirits, raises his salary and vows to help his struggling family.

Cratchit, Caroline Wife of Bob and mother of four children, Peter, Belinda, Martha and the youngest, Tiny Tim.

Cratchit, Tiny Tim Crippled son of Bob Cratchit. The forecast of Tim's death by the Ghosts of Christmas Present and Future is instrumental in Scrooge's reformation, after which Tim is afforded proper medical attention and is cured.

Dilber, Mrs A laundress whom Ebenezer Scrooge meets in his vision of Christmas Future, selling his belongings after his death.

Fan Scrooge's sister, mother of his nephew Fred. She has died before the story begins, but lives again in the 'shadows' shown to Scrooge by the Ghost of Christmas Past.

Fezziwig, Mr Scrooge was apprenticed to 'Old Fezziwig' after he left school. Scrooge visits his old employer with the Ghost of Christmas Past and is reminded of what a kind, generous man he was.

Fezziwig, Mrs Wife of the merchant 'Old Fezziwig'.

Fred Ebenezer Scrooge's nephew who is ignored in his invitation to Scrooge to attend Christmas dinner, but the Ghost of Christmas Present shows Fred saying some good-natured things about his uncle.

Ghost of Christmas Future Shows Scrooge the demise of Tiny Tim and of himself, leading to Scrooge's reformation.

Ghost of Christmas Past Shows Scrooge his lonely and difficult childhood and gradual decline into the miser he will become.

Ghost of Christmas Present Shows Scrooge the joy that Christmas brings, both at the poor household of the Cratchits and at the home of his nephew Fred.

Joe A fence (seller of stolen goods).

Marley, Jacob Scrooge's former partner, who died seven Christmas Eves ago. Jacob, in life, was a penny-pinching miser like Scrooge and is suffering for it in the afterlife. His ghost comes to haunt Scrooge, hoping to change Scrooge's life and therefore help him to avoid Marley's fate.

Scrooge, Ebenezer Probably Dickens' best-known character, the miserly Scrooge, with his familiar cry of 'Bah, Humbug!', is visited by the ghost of his former partner, Jacob Marley, who sends three more spirits in hopes of reforming Scrooge's heartless and penny-pinching ways. It is a tough assignment for them and he fights the inevitable, but he is eventually transformed into a benevolent humanitarian.

Topper, Mr A bachelor who is a guest at Fred's Christmas dinner.
Wilkins, Dick Scrooge's fellow apprentice at Mr Fezziwig's.

Babley, Richard See Mr Dick.
Bailey, Captain Army officer who makes David Copperfield jealous by dancing with the eldest Miss Larkins.

Barkis A carrier between Blunderstone and Yarmouth. He marries Clara Peggotty. Famous quote: 'Barkis is willing', denoting his desire to marry Peggotty.

Charley The 'dreadful old man' who owns a marine shop at Chatham. David Copperfield sells his jacket to Charley for eighteen pence.

Chestle, Mr Elderly Kentish hop-grower, who marries the eldest Miss Larkins.

Chillip, Doctor Attends Mrs Copperfield at David's birth.

Copperfield, Clara Mother of David Copperfield. A widow when David is born, she later is lured into marriage by Edward Murdstone, who destroys her spirit. She dies along with her newborn son while David is away at school.

Copperfield, David Main character and narrator of the story, modelled after Dickens's life. Begins life with his widowed mother and their maid, Peggotty. When his mother marries Mr Murdstone his life becomes miserable. He is sent to Creakle's school, where he meets Steerforth and Traddles. After the death of his mother he goes to work at Murdstone and Grinby and is lodged with the Micawbers. David runs away to live with his aunt Betsey Trotwood in Dover. He marries Dora Spenlow and then Agnes Wickfield.

Creakle, Mr Severe headmaster of Salem House Academy, where David first goes to school. He was based on William Jones, headmaster of Wellington Academy, which Dickens attended from 1825 to 1827.

Creakle, Mrs Mr Creakle's wife (unnamed). They have a daughter (unnamed also) who attracts David and Steerforth.

Crewler, Reverend Horace A curate in Devonshire. Father of Sophy Crewler.

Crewler, Sophy Daughter of the Reverend Horace Crewler and fiancée of Tommy Traddles.

Crupp, Mrs David Copperfield's brandy-loving landlady at the Adelphi.

Dartle, Rosa Companion to Mrs Steerforth, possessively attached to Steerforth, who has marked her face when a child by throwing a hammer in a fit of temper. Rosa hates Little Em'ly for running away with Steerforth.

Demple, George A doctor's son and fellow pupil of David Copperfield at Salem House.

Dick, Mr Kite-making, memoir-writing companion to Betsey Trotwood, who gives good advice but is not all there. Mr Dick's real name was Richard Babley but he was always referred to as plain Mr Dick. His insight is uncanny and he becomes a friend of David's.

Em'ly, Little Mr Peggotty's niece and David's childhood friend. She is later engaged to Ham but is lured away by the charms of Steerforth. Mr Peggotty is heartbroken and searches for her, finally finding her when Steerforth tires of her and she leaves him. She later emigrates to Australia with her uncle.

Endell, Martha A girl whose ruin foreshadows Little Em'ly's and helps to prevent her falling into the same trap. She eventually emigrates to Australia with Little Em'ly, Mr Peggotty and Mrs Gummidge.

Fibbitson, Mrs Elderly inmate of the almshouses where Mrs Mell lives.

Gummidge, Mrs Widow of Mr Peggotty's former partner in a boat concern, who had died very poor. She lives with Mr Peggotty and later emigrates to Australia with him.

Heep, Uriah A hypocritical clerk of Mr Wickfield's who is continually citing his humbleness. He deviously plots to ruin Wickfield but is later undone by Mr Wilkins Micawber. On their first meeting, David describes him as 'a red-haired person – a youth of fifteen, as I take it now, but looking much older – whose hair was cropped as close as the closest stubble; who had hardly any eyebrows, and no eyelashes'.

Jip Dora Spenlow's pet spaniel, whose name was short for Gypsy. He dies at David Copperfield's feet at the very moment of Dora's death.

Joram Assistant to Mr Omer in his capacity as the Yarmouth undertaker, who, after marrying Omer's daughter, Minnie, becomes a partner in the business.

Jorkins, Mr Partner of Francis Spenlow in the firm of proctors where David Copperfield is articled. Jorkins is largely unseen, although Spenlow finds it expedient to refer to his opinion to justify his own conduct.

Kidgerbury, Mrs Domestic help of David and Dora, described as 'the oldest inhabitant of Kentish Town who went out charring'.

Larkins Family Mr Larkins and his two daughters, the youngest Miss Larkins and the eldest Miss Larkins. The eldest Miss Larkins would be about 30 years old when David, as a young 17-year-old, had a crush on her.

Littimer Manservant to Steerforth, involved in the concealment of the elopement of Steerforth and Emily. He is later guilty of embezzlement and is captured with the help of Miss Mowcher. David says of him: 'I believe there never existed in his station a more respectable-looking man. He was taciturn, soft-footed, very quiet in his manner, deferential, observant, always at hand when wanted, and never near when not wanted; but his great claim to consideration was his respectability'.

Maldon, Jack Annie Strong's cousin, who goes to India; he may have been dishonourable in his intentions to Annie without her reciprocating.

Mealy Potatoes Boy who works at Murdstone and Grinby's warehouse, whose name derived from the complexion of his skin.

Mell, Charles Assistant schoolmaster at Salem House Academy. David Copperfield befriends Mell and finds that his mother lives in an almshouse, which he innocently relates to Steerforth. Steerforth uses this information to discredit Mell and have him dismissed. Mell later emigrates to Australia and becomes headmaster at Colonial Salem House Grammar School in Port Middlebay.

Micawber, Emma Long-suffering wife of Mr Micawber, whom she swears she will never leave despite his financial difficulties. David describes her as 'a thin and faded lady, not at all young, with a baby at her breast. This baby was one of twins; and I may remark here that I hardly ever, in all my experience of the family, saw both the twins detached from Mrs Micawber at the same time. One of them was always taking refreshment'.

Micawber, Wilkins David lodges at his home. Always in debt and waiting for 'something to turn up', he ends up in debtor's prison. On his release he has various occupations but is eventually employed at Mr Wickfield's office, where he exposes the deeds of Uriah Heep. In gratitude for this his debts are paid and he emigrates to Australia, where he prospers. Famous quote: 'Annual income £20, annual expenditure £19 19/6, result, happiness. Annual income £20, annual expenditure £20 0/6d, result, misery'.

Mills, Julia Friend and confidante of Dora Spenlow and David's go-between during his courtship with Dora. She later goes to live in India.

Mowcher, Miss Steerforth's friend; a dwarf who sells cosmetics; his relations with her give the reader insight into the pity that dominates Steerforth's character (which includes self-pity).

Murdstone, Edward Second husband of Clara Copperfield whom David dislikes. He is a stern disciplinarian with a violent nature, who sends David off to Salem House School and later consigns him to the warehouse of Murdstone and Grinby.

Murdstone, Jane The equally stern sister of Edward Murdstone who moves in with David and his mother after her marriage to Murdstone.

Omer, Minnie Daughter of Mr Omer, who marries his foreman, Joram.

Omer, Mr Draper, tailor, haberdasher and furnisher, who resided in Yarmouth and arranged the funeral of Clara Murdstone and her baby son.

Peggotty, Clara David's devoted nurse and sister to Daniel Peggotty. After the death of David's mother she is discharged and marries Barkis. When Barkis dies she goes to live with David and Betsey Trotwood.

Peggotty, Daniel Crotchety fisherman brother of Clara. He lives in an overturned boat on the beach at Yarmouth with Little Em'ly, Ham and Mrs Gummidge. When Em'ly abandons them to elope with Steerforth, Daniel vows to find her. Steerforth later leaves Em'ly and she is reunited with Daniel. At the end of the novel Daniel, Em'ly and Mrs Gummidge resettle in Australia.

Peggotty, Ham Orphaned nephew of Daniel Peggotty and fiancé of Little Em'ly. A fisherman and boatbuilder. He drowns trying to rescue Steerforth. 'He was a huge, strong fellow of six feet high, broad in proportion, and round-shouldered; but with a simpering boy's face and curly light hair that gave him quite a sheepish look.'

Shepherd, Miss Boarder at Misses Nettingall’s educational establishment and a brief early romantic fixation of young David Copperfield.

Spenlow, Dora Daughter of David’s employer, Francis Spenlow. She and David are married and David tries to teach her to keep house, but she has no head for it. She becomes ill with an unspecified illness and dies young.

Spenlow, Francis Proctor at Doctor’s Commons where David is apprenticed. David says of him: ‘He was a little light-haired gentleman, with undeniable boots, and the stiffest of white cravats and shirt-collars. He was buttoned up mighty trim and tight, and must have taken a great deal of pains with his whiskers, which were accurately curled.’

Steerforth, James Friend of David, whom he often calls ‘Daisy’, at the Salem House school where his engaging charm makes him everyone’s favourite. David later runs into him again in London and he accompanies David on a trip to Yarmouth, where he charms Little Em’ly into eloping with him. They go abroad and Steerforth soon tires of Em’ly and deserts her. He is later drowned in a shipwreck where Ham Peggotty, from whom Steerforth stole Em’ly away, dies trying to save him.

Strong, Annie Young wife of Dr Strong who has a strong affiliation to Jack Maldon.

Strong, Dr David’s teacher who is writing a dictionary; his wife is much younger and David’s observance of their relationship shapes his early doubts about marriage.

Tiffey, Mr Chief clerk at Spenlow and Jorkins, who tells David Copperfield of Mr Spenlow’s accidental death.

Tipp Carman at Murdstone and Grinby’s, who addressed David Copperfield as ‘David’ whereas the other workers referred to him as ‘the little gent’ or ‘the young Suffolk’.

Topsawyer According to a story told to David Copperfield at the inn in Yarmouth, Topsawyer ordered a glass of ale like that ordered by David, drank it and fell dead.

Traddles, Tommy Downtrodden pupil with David Copperfield and Steerforth at Salem House. David’s best friend and best man at David’s wedding to Dora Spenlow. He later becomes a lawyer and marries Sophy Crewler.

Trotwood, Betsey David Copperfield’s great aunt. David runs away from London, when he is installed at Murdstone and Grinby’s warehouse, and goes to Dover to live with Betsey. She helps David get a start in life and, when she loses her fortune, goes to London to live with David.

Wickfield, Agnes Childhood friend of David Copperfield and daughter of Betsey Trotwood’s lawyer. Becomes David’s wife after the death of Dora.

Wickfield, Mr Father of Agnes and lawyer to Betsey Trotwood. His overindulgence of wine causes him to be vulnerable to the schemes of Uriah Heep, who becomes his partner and attempts to ruin him.

Yawler Friend of Tommy Traddles at Salem House ‘with his nose on one side’.

Dombey and Son: seventh novel, published in monthly parts by Bradbury and Evans, from October 1846 to April 1848

Bagstock, Joe Dombey’s friend who sets him up with Edith Granger.

Blimber, Cornelia Prim and proper daughter of Dr and Mrs Blimber.

Blimber, Dr Pompous and pedantic headmaster of the school in Brighton where Paul Dombey was a pupil.

Blimber, Mrs Proud and devoted wife of Dr Blimber who feigned learnedness.

Bokum, Mrs Widow, and ‘dearest friend’ of Mrs MacStinger. She kept a close eye on Captain Bunsby on his way to his wedding to Mrs MacStinger in case he attempted escape.

Great Expectations: thirteenth novel published in 36 weekly parts in 1860 / 1861
Avenger, The Pip's name for Pepper, a servant boy hired by him. Pip has such a hard time finding things to keep him busy 'that I sometimes sent him to Hyde Park Corner to see what o'clock it was.'
Barley, Clara Herbert Pocket's secret sweetheart. She is secret because Herbert knows his mother would say she is below his 'station'. She's actually a sweet, fairy-like girl who takes care of her dying drunk of a father.
Barley, Old Bill Clara's father, an unseen 'sad old rascal' who used to be a ship's purser.
Biddy A kind, intelligent girl Pip's age who works for Mr Wopsle's great aunt at the school. Later, she comes to work for Joe, taking care of Mrs Joe Gargery. She loves Pip but he ignores her as his expectations are realised. When Pip eventually realises he loves her too it is too late as she has married Joe.
Black Bill A prisoner Wemmick recognises in Newgate Prison 'behind the cistern' when he takes Pip on a visit to the prison.
Brandley, Mrs Friend of Miss Havisham, whom Estella boarded with at Richmond.
Camilla Ageing relative of Miss Havisham who doesn't have an inch of love for the woman but is greedy for her money. She buzzes around Miss Havisham like a sycophantic fly. Matthew Pocket's sister.
Compeyson Con man who deceives Miss Havisham to get her money and then leaves her at the altar. He is an accomplice of Magwitch in the original prison break. He later exposes Magwitch and accidentally drowns when Magwitch is recaptured.
Drummle, Bentley Pip's fellow student at Matthew Pocket's. He marries Estella for her money and abuses her. He is killed when kicked by a horse that he has mistreated.
Estella Pip meets Estella at Satis House and falls in love with her, but she is cruel to him. Pip goes to London and becomes a gentleman and continues to adore Estella, but she warns him that she is incapable of love. She later marries Bentley Drummle, who mistreats her and she leaves him. Drummle dies and Estella and Pip meet two years later and vow to remain together.
Gargery, Joe Blacksmith, friend and adoptive father to Pip. Joe is also the husband of Pip's sister, Georgiana Mary, who mistreats him as badly as she does Pip. After his wife's death Joe comes to London and nurses Pip through an illness. Later he marries Pip's friend Biddy.
Gargery, Mrs Joe Wife of Joe Gargery and sister of Pip; a bitter, angry woman who brings up Pip 'by hand' – that is, she whips him whenever she can, often employing 'the tickler'. She is ultimately beaten to death by Orlick.
Georgiana Ageing relative of Miss Havisham.
Handel Herbert Pocket's affectionate name for Pip.
Havisham, Miss A very rich and grim old woman who lives in seclusion at Satis House. She is the adopted mother of Estella, whom she teaches to break men's hearts to avenge her own misfortune at being left at the altar by Compeyson years before. She continues to wear her wedding dress and even keeps the mouldy wedding cake. Pip goes to Miss Havisham's to play and meets and falls in love with Estella. Pip believes Miss Havisham is his secret benefactor as he goes to London and becomes a gentleman. She dies in a house fire.
Hubble, Mr and Mrs Simple, silly folks from Pip's village. Mr Hubble is a wheelwright.
Jaggers Lawyer who serves Miss Havisham and Magwitch, as he specialises in getting convicts light sentences. It is through Jaggers that Pip receives the benefits of the great expectations that he assumes are from Miss Havisham but in reality are from the convict Magwitch.

Magwitch, Abel A convict whom Pip helps in the marshes after his escape from the prison ship. He is recaptured and transported to Australia, where he gains a fortune which he secretly uses to increase Pip's 'expectations'. He secretly returns to England as Provis and confronts Pip with the secret source of his good fortune. Magwitch is recaptured and dies before he can be executed. Magwitch is also the father of Estella.
Molly Jaggers' housekeeper, Magwitch's wife and Estella's mother.
Orlick, Dolge Joe Gargery's journeyman blacksmith, he quarrels with Mrs Joe and later attacks her, leaving her with injuries of which she later dies. He falls in with a bad lot and tries to murder Pip.
Pip (Philip Pirrip) The narrator as well as the protagonist of the story. Pip is an orphan being raised by his sister, Mrs Joe Gargery, and her husband, Joe Gargery, a blacksmith.
Pocket, Herbert Pip goes to London and meets Herbert, who he discovers is the 'pale young gentleman' with whom he fought at Miss Havisham's as a child. Pip and Herbert become best friends and share chambers at Barnard's Inn and at the Temple. Herbert helps teach Pip 'city manners'. Pip helps Herbert become a partner in the firm of Clarriker and Co., which enables Pocket to marry Clara Barley.
Pocket, Matthew Father of Herbert and cousin of Miss Havisham. He is the only one of Miss Havisham's relatives who speaks honestly of her and has been banished from her presence. Matthew is Pip's tutor in London. He has no control over his large family and has a habit of pulling himself up by his hair in frustration. Pip tells Miss Havisham of Matthew's good character and she leaves him 4,000 pounds in her will. Matthew's wife, Belinda, is obsessed with social position, having been the daughter of a knight.
Pocket, Sarah Ageing relative of Miss Havisham.
Pumblechook, Uncle Joe's uncle, a well-to-do corn-chandler in the village. He considers himself upper-class and is actually a bombastic fool: 'A large hard-breathing middle-aged slow man, with a mouth like a fish, dull staring eyes, and sandy hair standing upright on his head, so that he looked as if he had just been all but choked'.
Raymond, Cousin Ageing relative of Miss Havisham.
Skiffins, Miss Very partial to the Aged Wemmick and eventually marries John Wemmick at a church in Camberwell Green.
Startop Student and boarder of Matthew Pocket. He is a good friend of Pip's.
Trabb Tailor who makes Pip a new suit of clothes before he goes to London, also in charge of the mourners at Pip's sister's funeral.
Trabb's Boy Assistant to Trabb, the tailor, who terrorises Pip. He later leads Herbert to the limekiln to rescue Pip from Orlick.
Wemmick, John Jagger's confidential clerk, friend of Pip (in private) who lives in a delightfully strange house with 'an aged parent'. 'A dry man, rather short in stature, with a square wooden face, whose expression seemed to have been imperfectly chipped out with a dull-edged chisel.'
Wemmick, 'The Aged' Wemmick's elderly, and quite deaf, relative (commonly held to be Wemmick's father, but not described as such by Dickens). The Aged lives with Wemmick in his castle and is quite happy when you nod at him.
Whimple, Mrs Landlady of the house where Old Barley and his daughter Clara had lodgings.
Wopsle's Great-Aunt A 'ridiculous old lady' who runs the so-called school in town out of a cottage.
Wopsle, Mr Parish clerk, friend of the Gargerys. He aspires to enter the Church and preach in the pulpit but instead becomes an actor with the stage name of Waldengarver. Pip sees him perform Hamlet in London.
Hard Times: tenth novel, written for Household Words from April to August 1854 Bitzer A student in Gradgrind's school of hard facts. Later a light porter in Bounderby's bank.
Blackpool, Stephen A worker in Bounderby's mill. His wife is a drunk and he befriends Rachael, but falls out with his employer and leaves to look for work elsewhere. He is accused of robbing the bank, and before his name is cleared he falls down a well and dies. Later he is cleared with the discovery that the robbery was committed by young Tom Gradgrind.
Bounderby, Josiah Coketown Banker, mill owner and 'self-made man', abandoned as a child. His story is exposed as a sham when Mrs Pegler, his loving mother whom he has discarded, is found. Bounderby marries his friend Gradgrind's daughter Louisa and later discards her.

Childers, EWB Young man who is an equestrian in Sleary's Circus. He marries Sleary's daughter Josephine and has a son, who at three years old is, according to Sleary, 'The Little Wonder of Thcolathtic Equitation'.

Gradgrind, Adam Smith and Malthus The two youngest sons of Thomas Gradgrind, named by their father after famous political economists.

Gradgrind, Louisa Oldest daughter of Thomas and like him a victim of utilitarianism. She marries Bounderby, whom she doesn't love. She later leaves her husband and returns to her father.

Gradgrind, Mrs Wife of Thomas and mother of their five children.
Gradgrind, Thomas A mill owner retired from business and father of Louisa and Tom. He runs a school and emphasises the importance of facts and figures over fancy to his students and his children. By the end of the story he learns that facts and figures must be tempered by love and forbearance.

Gradgrind, Tom Son of Thomas, nicknamed 'The Whelp' by Harthouse. He is employed at Bounderby's bank, from which he later steals; the blame is set on Stephen Blackpool. He finally leaves the country with the aid of Sleary and his circus troupe.

Harthouse, James A Parliamentary candidate visiting Coketown, he befriends Tom Gradgrind in an attempt to seduce his sister Louisa, who is in an unhappy marriage to Bounderby. As a result of the attempted seduction Louisa runs home to her father, refuses to return to her husband, and is later disowned by him.

Jupe, Cecilia (Sissy) Daughter of Signor Jupe, a clown in Sleary's Circus, who is deserted by her father and taken in by Gradgrind. She befriends Louisa.

Kidderminster Small boy with an old face, who played the part of Childers's infant son in 'his daring vaulting act as the Wild Huntsman of the North American Prairies'.

M'Choakumchild Schoolmaster in Gradgrind's school where fancy and imagination are discouraged in favour of hard facts.

Merrylegs Signor Jupe's highly trained performing dog which makes its way to Sleary's Circus at Chester following Jupe's disappearance and dies at Sleary's feet.

Pegler, Mrs Revealed at the end of the story to be Bounderby's loving mother, exposing as a sham his claim to be a 'self-made man', who raised himself in the streets.

Rachael Friend of Stephen Blackpool, who loves her but cannot gain release from his drunken wife. She defends Stephen when he is accused of theft from the bank.

Slackbridge Rabble-rousing trade union delegate who persuades the Coketown millworkers to shun Stephen Blackpool.

Sladdery, Mr Fashionable London librarian who boasts of having a high connection.

Sleary Proprietor of Sleary's Circus. Speaks with a lisp ('People mutht be amuthed'). He helps Tom Gradgrind escape abroad after the bank robbery.

Sparsit, Mrs Housekeeper of Bounderby with aristocratic connections. She is a busybody, causing dissension between Bounderby and his wife Louisa Gradgrind.

Little Dorrit: eleventh novel, published in 1857

Bangham, Mrs Charwoman and messenger at the Marshalsea Prison who attended Mrs Dorrit at the birth of Amy.

Barnacle, Tite A senior official in the Circumlocution Office, where everything goes round in circles, and nothing ever gets done.

Barroneau, Madame The widow whom Rigaud married and was accused of murdering, although his version of events is that she leapt over a cliff-top after a violent quarrel.

Casby, Christopher Formerly town-agent to Tite Barnacle. His benevolent appearance leads to him being referred to as the 'last of the Patriarchs'. Father of Flora Finchina.

Charlotte The 'false young friend' of Miss Wade when they were schoolgirls.

Chivery, John and Young John The two sons of the turnkey at the Marshalsea. John Chivery was dubbed the 'sentimental son' whilst Young John loves Amy Dorrit and assists in finding her father's fortune.

Chivery, Mr and Mrs John John Chivery was a turnkey at the Marshalsea Prison who never opened his mouth 'without occasion'. His wife ran a tobacconist shop.

Clennam, Arthur Returns to England from abroad, where he has spent years with his father in the family business. On his father's death he falls out with his mother and gives up his share of the business. He befriends Amy Dorrit at the Marshalsea and becomes business partner to Daniel Doyce. After losing everything in a banking scam by Merdle he is himself imprisoned in the Marshalsea. His health fails and Amy cares for him in the prison. The novel ends with Arthur and Amy's marriage.

Clennam, Mrs Invalid mother of Arthur, with whom she has a falling-out over the family business. She avoids a blackmail scheme by Rigaud/Blandois when her tumbledown house tumbles down on him.

Dawes, Mary Nurse in the poor nobleman's household where Miss Wade was employed as a governess.

Dorrit, Amy Title character, daughter of William Dorrit, born in the Marshalsea debtors' prison. She works for Mrs Clennam and befriends Arthur. Her father inherits a fortune and they leave the prison and travel abroad. After her father's death she discovers that the fortune has been lost in a banking scam. She nurses Arthur in the Marshalsea when his fortune is lost in the same banking scam, and eventually marries him.

Dorrit, Edward (Tip) Ne'er-do-well brother of Amy Dorrit and son of Edward Dorrit.

Dorrit, Fanny Sister of Amy. A dancer with social aspirations, Fanny marries Mr Sparkler, stepson of Mr Merdle. Fanny and Sparkler lose everything in the Merdle banking scam.

Dorrit, Frederick Brother of William, uncle of Fanny, Edward and Amy. He plays clarionet in a small-time theatre. He is due an inheritance but the knowledge is kept from him by the intrigues of Mrs Clennam.

Dorrit, William Father of Amy, Fanny and Edward, and long-time inmate of the Marshalsea debtors' prison. He inherits an estate and leaves the prison, travelling in style with his daughters. After his death Amy learns that his fortune has been lost in the Merdle banking scam.

Doyce, Daniel Inventor of an unspecified mechanical wonder which he is unable to get a patent for in the Circumlocution Office. He enters a partnership with Arthur Clennam, who loses the firm's money in the Merdle scandal. Doyce later sells the invention abroad and returns to liberate Arthur from the Marshalsea.

Finching, Flora Former sweetheart of Arthur Clennam who reappears 20 years later, 'grown to be very broad, and short of breath'. Dickens modelled the character of Flora after his own early sweetheart, Maria Beadnell, who reappears later in Dickens's life but not quite the way he remembered her.

Flintwinch, Ephraim Brother of Jeremiah whose looks are almost identical.

Flintwinch, Jeremiah Mrs Clennam's clerk to whom her son Arthur relinquishes his share of the family business.

Flintwinch, Mrs Jeremiah, née Affery Wife of Mrs Clennam's clerk who sees the evil doings of the house in dreams.

Merdle, Mr and Mrs Mr Merdle is an unscrupulous banker. Investing in his enterprises ruins the Dorrits, Arthur Clennam and others. Merdle commits suicide when his fraud is uncovered. Mrs Merdle is the mother of Mr Sparkler by a previous marriage.

Mr F's Aunt Companion to Flora Finching (aunt to her late husband) and one of the funniest characters in Dickens. Dickens describes her as 'an amazing little old woman, with a face like a staring wooden doll too cheap for expression, and a stiff yellow wig perched unevenly on the top of her head, as if the child who owned the doll had driven a tack through it anywhere, so that it only got fastened on'. She has a great propensity for uttering totally nonsensical barbs.

Pancks Clerk and rent collector for Mr Casby. He assists in finding William Dorrit's fortune. A comical character who does everything 'with a puff and a snort'.

Plornish, Mr A simple, good-natured plasterer.

Rigaud/Blandois Villain of the novel. Rigaud attempts to blackmail Mrs Clennam and has her house fall and crush him for his efforts.

Slingo Dealer in horses who vowed to give Tip Dorrit ‘a berth’ on his release from the Marshalsea.

Sparkler, Mr Edmund Son of Mrs Merdle by her first marriage. Edmund is one of the Lords of the Circumlocution Office and marries Fanny Dorrit.

Lupin, Mrs Landlady of the Blue Dragon who eventually marries Mark Tapley.

Mould, Mr Undertaker whose countenance often belied the seriousness of his job.

Nadgett Inquiry agent employed at a salary of £1 per week by Tigg’s fraudulent company. Discovers Jonas Chuzzlewit’s intention to poison Anthony Chuzzlewit and later Jonas’s guilt in the murder of Tigg, by fishing his blood-stained clothes from the river.

Pecksniff, Seth Sanctimonious surveyor and architect, and one of the biggest hypocrites in fiction. A cousin of old Martin Chuzzlewit and the father of Mercy and Charity.

Pinch, Tom Devoted admirer and assistant to Pecksniff. A kindly, sweet-tempered fellow, completely blind to Pecksniff’s hypocrisy despite a multitude of evidence of it. He finally becomes aware of Pecksniff’s true character and is dismissed.

Pogram, Hon. Elijah American Congressman who meets Martin Chuzzlewit on a steamboat on the way back from Eden.

Prig, Mrs Betsey Nurse who is a friend and colleague of Sarah Gamp and who comically doubts the existence of Mrs Harris.

Scadder, Zephania Agent of the Eden Land Corporation who is introduced to Martin Chuzzlewit by Cyrus Choke.

Tacker Chief mourner for Mr Mould the undertaker.

Tamaroo Slow-witted old woman who replaced Young Bailey at Todgers’s.

Tapley, Mark Ostler at the Blue Dragon Inn and servant to young Martin Chuzzlewit. He accompanies Martin to America and later marries Mrs Lupin, the Blue Dragon’s landlady. The inn is renamed The Jolly Tapley.

Tigg, Montague Disreputable adventurer, who changes his name to Tigg Montague. Tigg discovers the murderous intentions of Jonas Chuzzlewit via his agent, Nadgett, and is killed by Jonas.

Todgers, Mrs Proprietor of a Commercial Boarding House in London in which she welcomes Charity and Mercy Pecksniff despite her rule of only receiving gentlemen boarders.

Wolf, Mr One of Montague Tigg’s guests at a dinner attended by Jonas Chuzzlewit.

The Mystery of Edwin Drood: fifteenth novel unfinished at Dickens’s death in 1870

Bazzard Clerk to Hiram Grewgious who writes an unproduced tragedy, ‘The Thorn of Anxiety’. Grewgious admits that Bazzard has a strange power over him.

Billickin, Mrs London landlady of Rosa Bud and her chaperone, Miss Twinkleton. She insists on using the title ‘Billickin’ in business matters, fearing being taken advantage of because she is a woman. Mrs Billickin and Miss Twinkleton take a comical dislike for one another.

Brobity, Miss The owner of a school in Cloisterham. Miss Brobity married Mr Sapsea.

Bud, Rosa Betrothed to Edwin Drood in childhood, they later agree that they cannot marry. Edwin disappears and John Jasper declares his love for Rosa. In terror she flees to London to her guardian, Grewgious. ‘The pet pupil of the Nuns’ House is Miss Rosa Bud, of course called Rosebud; wonderfully pretty, wonderfully childish, wonderfully whimsical’.

Chinaman, Jack Keeper of a London opium den in competition with Princess Puffer’s den.

Crisparkle, Septimus Minor canon of Cloisterham Cathedral. ‘Mr Crisparkle, Minor Canon, early riser, musical, classical, cheerful, kind, good-natured, social, contented, and boy-like’. He takes Neville Landless as a pupil and helps Neville flee to London when suspicion is cast on him for the disappearance of Edwin Drood.

Datchery, Dick Mysterious visitor to Cloisterham whose ‘white head was unusually large, and his shock of white hair was unusually thick and ample’. Datchery keeps an eye on John Jasper after the disappearance of Edwin Drood. The true identity of Datchery is one of the most contested points of the uncompleted mystery. It is widely believed that Datchery is one of the characters in the book in disguise; most likely candidates include Neville, Bazzard, Tartar, Grewgious, Helena, or even Edwin Drood himself.

Deputy (Winks) Boy hired by Durdles to throw stones at him when he is wandering drunk at night. ‘Sometimes the stones hit him, and sometimes they miss him, but Durdles seems indifferent to either fortune. The hideous small boy, on the contrary, whenever he hits Durdles, blows a whistle of triumph through a jagged gap, convenient for the purpose in the front of his mouth, where half his teeth are wanting; and whenever he misses him, yelps out “Mulled agin!”

Drood, Edwin He is an orphan and had been betrothed by his father to Rosa Bud since early childhood. Later Edwin and Rosa rebel against the arrangement. Rosa is also wooed by Edwin’s uncle John Jasper. Edwin turns up missing and his watch is found in the river. Jasper hints suspicion of Neville Landless in the disappearance when the novel stops short with the death of Dickens in 1870.

Durdles Drunken stonemason who engraves tombstones for Cloisterham Cathedral. John Jasper is interested in Durdles’s ability to tap on the tombs and discover their contents. Durdles hires Deputy to throw stones at him when he catches him wandering about drunk at night. No man is better known in Cloisterham.

Giggles, Miss Pupil at Miss Twinkleton’s school who is described as ‘so deficient in sentiment’ that she professes to pull faces at any young man paying homage.

Grewgious, Hiram Guardian of Rosa Bud. He is upset at John Jasper’s advances to Rosa and finds her lodging in London at an apartment owned by Mrs Billickin. He later investigates the disappearance of Edwin Drood and is suspicious of Jasper. ‘An angular man with no conversational powers’ is how he describes himself.

Honeythunder, Luke Loud, overbearing philanthropist and guardian of Neville and Helena Landless.

Jasper, John Uncle of Edwin Drood who has an opium habit. He cares for his nephew but harbours secret feelings for Edwin’s fiancée Rosa Bud. Edwin disappears and the story ends prematurely with Dickens’s death, but many believe that it was Jasper who killed Edwin Drood. ‘Mr Jasper is a dark man of some six-and-twenty, with thick, lustrous, well-arranged black hair and whiskers. He looks older than he is, as dark men often do. His voice is deep and good, his face and figure are good, his manner is a little sombre.’ He is said to be capable of mesmerism.

Landless, Helena Twin sister of Neville who, as the story ends prematurely, is falling in love with Canon Crisparkle.

Landless, Neville Twin brother of Helena. He and his sister are brought to Cloisterham by their guardian, Mr Honeythunder. Neville is attracted to Rosa Bud and, being set up by Jasper, quarrels with Edwin Drood. After Drood’s disappearance Jasper casts blame on Neville, who has no alibi and flees to London with his sister.

Puffer, Princess Old hag who runs the London opium den that John Jasper frequents.

Sapsea, Thomas Pompous auctioneer turned mayor of Cloisterham. ‘The purest Jackass in Cloisterham.’

Tartar Retired navy man and friend of Crisparkle. He befriends Neville in London and works with Grewgious and Crisparkle in protecting Neville from John Jasper.

Tisher, Mrs Miss Twinkleton’s assistant at the school for girls at Nun’s House.

Tope, Mr Chief verger and showman of Cloisterham Cathedral. His wife acts as John Jasper’s housekeeper.

The Pilgrim's Progress by John Bunyan

To give the religious allegory its full title, The Pilgrim's Progress: From this World to That Which is to Come. The story begins with a man having a dream, in which he sees a troubled man carrying a book. This, we shortly learn, is Christian, the pilgrim of the title. Christian first meets Evangelist, who gives him a parchment roll on which is written 'Flee from the wrath to come' and tells him to go to the wicket-gate via the shining light. Christian sets out on a wondrous journey towards heaven and salvation. His neighbours Obstinate and Pliable attempt to bring him back to his abandoned family, living in what Christian describes as the city of destruction, but to no avail, and Pliable decides to accompany him on his journey. On their way Christian falls into a slough (called Despond) and Pliable readily abandons him. Fortunately Help is at hand who plucks him out of the slough of Despond and he continues on his way, next meeting Mr Worldly Wiseman (who lives in the town of Carnal Policy). Christian tells Mr Worldly Wiseman of his great burden since reading the book; he is advised to go to the town of Morality and talk to Legality or Civility, and thus ease his burden. The town is at the top of an ever-steepening hill which begins to breathe fire. Christian begins to quake with fear but comes upon Evangelist, who reminds him of his righteous path to the wicket-gate. On reaching his destination Christian reads the words 'knock and it shall be open to you' over the gate, and on knocking he meets Goodwill and tells him he is going to Mount Zion to be delivered from the wrath to come. Goodwill tells Christian of the nearby castle lorded over by Beelzebub and how Christian should take joy in his burden until it is time to relinquish it. He also tells him to knock on the door of the Translator, who will guide him. The Translator shows Christian into a dark room with an iron cage, inside which a man is locked. The man was once a respected professor but is now in despair as he has hardened his heart against God. Christian next comes to the wall called Salvation and then ascends towards a cross with a sepulchre beneath it. The sight of the cross causes his burden to drop from his back, and he is moved to tears. He then sees three Shining Ones, the first saying to him 'Thy sins be forgiven thee.' The second strips him of his rags and clothes him in finery, while the third places a mark on his forehead and gives him a roll with a seal on it, which is to be given in at the Celestial Gate. Christian then meets Simple, Sloth and Presumption, who are in fetters but seemingly oblivious to their predicament. Further on he meets Formalist and Hypocrisy, born in the land of Vainglory. On approaching a hill with three ways

Christian decides to take the steepest route, called Difficulty, while Formalist and Hypocrisy take the other two ways, Danger and Destruction. Danger leads one to a dark wood while Destruction causes the other to fall into an abyss and to be seen no more. Christian sleeps in an arbour midway up the hill Difficulty; while asleep he loses his roll, and he wakes to hear a voice telling him to 'go to the ant thy sluggard, consider her ways and be wise'. He goes further up the hill and meets two more men, Timorous and Mistrust, who warn him of the lions in his path. He then realises he has lost his roll and goes back to the arbour, where he retrieves it with joy. Christian travels onwards to The Palace Beautiful and spies the two lions, but goes on unharmed. He meets the porter of the house, Watchful, who asks him his name. Christian tells him but also informs him his name was once Graceless. Watchful calls for the damsel, Discretion, who introduces Christian to her sisters Prudence, Piety and Charity. Christian tells them he has a wife and four small children but explains that he could not avail of them to join him in his pilgrimage. Christian sleeps at the Palace in a chamber called Peace. The next day the damsels tell Christian of Immanuel's Land and The Delectable Mountains and they arm him with proof in case of assaults, so he may continue his journey in safety. Before Christian leaves, Watchful tells him that Faithful, a friend and fellow pilgrim, had passed some time before. Christian departs with some bread, wine and raisins, and in the Valley of Humiliation meets the hideous monster Apollyon. Christian wants to turn back but knows he has no armour for his back so does not want to turn it. Apollyon has scales like a fish, feet like a bear, wings like a dragon and a mouth like a lion, from which smoke and fire bellow. Christian is alarmed that Apollyon knows of his struggle but warns him that he feels protected by the Lord of the Hill. Apollyon aims flaming darts at Christian but his shield protects him somewhat, although he is wounded all over his body. The battle lasts half a day before, in desperation, Christian waves his sword and smites at the mighty Apollyon, defying him to kill him so he might rise again. With this Apollyon flies away, never to be seen again. Christian is given some leaves from a hand from the Tree of Life and his wounds are healed. He travels onwards through the Valley of the Shadow of Death with his sword in hand. His journey is hazardous, with quagmires and ditches all around, the dark gloom and terrible cries of fear adding to his perilous state. Through the midst of the valley he encounters dragons, hobgoblins and satyrs, but keeps the faith and eventually comes to an ascent at the end of the valley. Here he meets his old friend and townsman Faithful, who relays to him his adventurous journey. Faithful missed falling into the slough of Despond but had to resist the temptress named Wanton.

The pilgrims journey on to the town of Vanity and find at the town a fair named Vanity Fair, named from the fair colour of the town. Legion, Beelzebub and Apollyon set up the fair 5,000 years before. To reach the Celestial City the pilgrims have to venture through the wretched town and are set upon by the townsfolk and caged in chains. They are asked what they want to buy at the fair and they answer 'truth'. Faithful is brought before the judge Lord Hategood and three witnesses – Envy, Gainglory and Superstition, all three being worshippers of Beelzebub – are called to give evidence against him. The jury are Mr Blindman (the foreman), Mr No Good, Mr Malice, Mr Love Lust, Mr Live Loose, Mr Heady, Mr High Mind, Mr Liar, Mr Enmity, Mr Cruelty, Mr Hate Light and Mr Implacable (sometimes known as Mr No Satisfying). Faithful is found guilty, scourged and pierced with swords and knives and then burnt. On his death he is transported by chariot unto the Celestial Gate. Christian is saved by divine intervention and flees, accompanied by another friend, Hopeful, who appears after the death of Faithful.

They meet a man called By-ends (though he does not tell them his name) from a town called Fair Speech. By-ends tells of his friends, Lord Turnabout, Lord Time-Server, Lord Fair Speech, Mr Smooth Man, Mr Facing Both Ways, Mr Anything and Mr Two Tongues, the Parson of the manor. He also speaks of his wife, Madam Feigning's daughter. The pilgrims fail to persuade By-ends to mend his ways, so they refuse his company and continue their journey ahead of the unrepentant sinner. They turn to see three men following By-ends, Mr Hold The World, Mr Money Love and Mr Save All, all being former school friends of By-ends and all being taught by Mr Gripe Man, a school teacher in Love Gain, a marketing town in the county of Coveting in the north. The four men debate their self-satisfying version of the scriptures and then catch up with the pilgrims to proffer the view that it is virtuous to make use of religion for monetary profit. Christian is furious and cites many biblical verses in an attempt to teach the men the error of their ways, before again setting off ahead of them and coming to a luxurious plain called Ease.

On the other side of the plain is a hill called Lucre and in that hill lies a silver mine, about which many have been killed by the uncertain ground surrounding its entrance. A man named Demas is beckoning travellers into the mine but the pilgrims resist. Demas says he is the son of Abraham, but Christian knows Gehazi to be his great-grandfather and Judas his father. By-Ends and his friends do of course answer the call of Demas and are heard of no more. The pilgrims now venture upon a pillar in the form of a woman; on her head is written 'Remember Lot's Wife', and they know it to be the wretched woman who looked back with a covetous heart when fleeing Sodom. Further on they come to what King David called 'The River of God' and John 'The River of the Water of Life'. They drink the water and eat the fruit on the trees in the nearby By-path meadow and are revitalised. After some days they journey onwards and meet a man named Vain Confidence, who tells them a certain path leads to the Celestial Gate. So they follow him, but alas, Vain Confidence falls into a deep pit in the gathering gloom. The pilgrims sleep.

Not far from where they lie is a castle called Doubting Castle; its owner's name is Giant Despair and it is on his property that they lie. He awakes them and imprisons them in a dark and dank dungeon within his castle for four days (Wednesday morning to Saturday night) without food or drink. Diffidence, the wife of the giant, instructs him to beat the pilgrims, and when she realises they are still alive tells him to instruct the pilgrims to take their own lives as their plight is hopeless. The pilgrims ask the giant to let them go, angering him so that he rushes towards them to kill them. But he has a fit and loses the use of his hand. When their predicament is almost unbearable, they pray. Christian then remembers he has a key called Promise in his coat pocket next to his heart; this key will surely open any lock in Doubting Castle. As they make their escape the giant stirs but fortunately for them has another of his fits, and they arrive back safely on the King's Highway. The pilgrims erect a pillar, engraving on it the words 'Over these steps is the way to Doubting Castle, which is kept by Giant Despair, who despises the King of the Celestial Country and seeks to destroy His holy Pilgrims'.

They next approach the Delectable Mountains (sometimes called the Delightful Mountains), on top of which are shepherds feeding their flocks. The shepherds tell the pilgrims that the mountains were once part of 'Immanuel's Land' and that he laid down his life for all who lived here. The pilgrims then ask how far it is to the Celestial City and are told, 'Too far but for those who get there.' The shepherds, whose names are Knowledge, Experience, Watchfulness and Sincerity, take the pilgrims to a hill called Error; there at the bottom of the hill are the dead bodies of several who have fallen by the wayside. They then take them to another hill called Caution, where they see men who had been blinded by Giant Despair roaming aimlessly among the dead. The shepherds then lead them to another place in a valley where there is a door in the side of a hill. On opening the door, the pilgrims hear cries of torment amid a dark smoky atmosphere and smell the scent of burning sulphur. The shepherds tell them it is the entrance to hell. The shepherds then take them to the top of a high hill called Clear and give them a lens through which they may look to see the gates of the city, but the memory of the blind wanderers makes their hands shake and they are unable to see clearly. When they depart on their way the first shepherd gives them a map of the Way, another warns them to beware of the Flatterer, the third tells them to take heed not to sleep on the Enchanted Ground and the fourth bids them God speed.

And so the man awakes from his dream. After a while he sleeps and dreams again.

He sees the pilgrims descending the mountain along the Highway toward the city. On the left side is the country of Conceit and on a little crooked lane they meet a lad named Ignorance who is also trying to get to the Celestial City, but knows not how. He has lost his way, missing the Narrow Gate and coming in by the Crooked Path. They next meet Little Faith; he has been set upon by three hoodlums, Faint Heart, Mistrust and Guilt, who stole his money but left him with his certificate to hand in at the Celestial Gate. Little Faith did not wear the Proven Armour and his journey has been blighted by this apparent loss. Christian and Hopeful then come to a fork in the road and know not which way to go. They meet a man with dark flesh and white robe who tells them to follow him as he knows the way, but only serves to get them entangled in a great net. Fortunately a Shining One frees them after scolding them for following a 'Flatterer' (a false apostle masquerading as an angel of light) and for not reading their maps. Next they come upon a man named Atheist with his back to Mount Zion. Atheist laughs at the pilgrims and tells them assuredly there is no Celestial City, for he has been searching for it for 20 years.

The pilgrims then come across the Enchanted Ground and feel drowsy in the sleep-inducing atmosphere, but stay awake by telling each other of their conversion. Over the Enchanted Ground is the country of Beulah, whose air is sweet and pleasant. In this country the sun shines night and day, fresh flowers appear daily, and turtle-doves are plentiful. The reflection of the sun on the city is so extremely glorious, with the streets paved with gold and all manner of jewels, that the pilgrims cannot look directly upon it. Upon the bank of a river they see two Shining Men who say, 'We are ministering spirits sent to serve those who will inherit salvation.' The two Shining Men go on to tell the pilgrims they have but two more difficulties to experience before entering the Celestial City.

Presently they come to a deep river without a bridge. The pilgrims ask the Shining Men if there is another way and are told, 'Yes, but only Enoch and Elijah have ever been permitted to tread that path.' They are further told that the water will be as deep or as shallow as faith permits. Christian enters with great trepidation and the water begins to cover his head. He cries out to Hopeful, who has found shallower water. Christian thinks the Lord has forsaken him, but Hopeful reminds him that his faith is merely being tried, and with that they find dry land.

The two Shining Men then accompany the pilgrims in their final hardship, up a very steep hill, higher than the clouds, but they make great haste as their mortal clothes are left behind in the river. When they approach the gate a Heavenly Host come out to meet them and trumpeters form a heavenly cross around them as if to protect them on the last stretch of their journey. Now when they come up to the gate, written over it in letters of gold are the words 'Blessed are those who wash their robes, that they may have the right to the tree of life and may go through the gates to the city'. At the gate Enoch, Moses, Elijah and other prophets can clearly be seen. The pilgrims give in their certificates and are given harps and crowns, experiencing more joy than the narrator is able to set in print. On looking back one can see Ignorance approach the gate, but he has no certificate and is taken to the door at the side of the hill. And thus the man awakes from his dream.

The Pilgrim’s Progress (part two)

This book tells of the pilgrimage of Christiana (Christian’s wife); her four sons, Matthew (the eldest), Samuel, Joseph and James; and Christiana’s friend, Mercy. The theme is the conversion of Christiana, which begins with her sorrow at the loss of her husband and the guilt she feels on abandoning him to his lonely pilgrimage. In a dream she sees Christian in paradise and on awakening prays for Mercy. The next morning she is visited by Secret, who tells her of Christian and his paradise. She is also visited by her neighbours Timorous and Mercy, the first making her excuses as to why she should not trace her husband’s steps, the second deciding to accompany her ‘a little of the way’.

And thus another epic journey to the Celestial City begins. The old familiar places are visited in the aftermath of Christian’s pilgrimage and a whole host of new characters are met, including

Mr Skill (who heals Matthew, who ate green plums from Beelzebub’s orchard, and is given pills to be taken three at a time with tears of repentance), Mr Great Heart (their guide), Mr Mnason (a Cyprusian), Grace (Mr Mnason’s daughter who eventually marries Samuel), Martha (Mr Mnason’s daughter who eventually marries Joseph), and Mr Valiant-For-Truth (a noble pilgrim from Dark Land who has fought Wild Head, Inconsiderate and Pragmatic in the course of his journey to the Celestial City). The pilgrimage ends with first Christiana, then Mr About To Fall, Mr Feeble Mind, Mr Despondency, Mr Honest, Mr Valiant-For-Truth and Mr Standfast, all crossing the river into the Celestial City, followed at some distance by the four children. The book contains the ever-popular hymn ‘He Who Would Valiant Be’.

Poetry: General Information

- alexandrine Iambic or trochaic hexameter (line of 12 syllables or 6 feet) with, usually, a caesura (break) at the 6th syllable.
- allegory Narrative or description in prose or verse with an underlying meaning or moral message as in The Faerie Queene or The Pilgrim's Progress.
- apocope Omission of the final letter, syllable or sound of a word, e.g. the poetic use of th' instead of the.
- assonance Use of the same or similar vowel sounds close together for the sake of euphony, memorability or emotional effect, e.g. 'And deep asleep he seemed'.
- asylum, committed to John Clare from 1837 until his death.
- W H Auden Friend and collaborator: Christopher Isherwood.
- The Ballad of Reading Gaol Famous extract: 'And all men kill the thing they love, by all let this be heard, Some do it with a bitter look, Some with a flattering word. The coward does it with a kiss, The brave man with a sword!'
- ballade Poem of three eight-line stanzas, rhyming ababbcbc, and one four-line envoi (final stanza) rhyming bcbc, with a refrain at the end of each of its four sections. François Villon was a great exponent of the ballade in French, Hilaire Belloc in English.
- Bastille Imprisoned for a year in 1717: Voltaire (François Marie Arouet).
- bathos Anticlimax or sudden descent, intended or not, from the sublime to the commonplace, e.g. the last 2 lines of Tennyson's Enoch Arden: 'And when they buried him the little port, Had seldom seen a costlier funeral.'
- Beat Poets Lawrence Ferlinghetti, Allen Ginsberg, Jack Kerouac, Gregory Corso.
- Belloc Many of his works illustrated by G K Chesterton.
- The Betrothed Extract: A woman is only a woman, but a good cigar is a Smoke.
- epigram Pointed, witty saying or verse that may be aphoristic,
- Elizabeth Barrett Browning Pet name: She was affectionately known as 'My Little Portuguese' by her husband Robert Browning.
- Brunanburh Poem in Old English, included in four manuscripts of the Anglo-Saxon Chronicle under the year 937 and dealing with the battle of that name.
- catachresis Misuse or incorrect application of a word, e.g. 'chronic' to mean 'severe', or 'refute' to mean 'deny'.
- Christian Poet First English: Caedmon.
- Clerihew Comic biographical poem in the form of a quatrain with lines of various length, rhyming aabb, named after its inventor Edmund Clerihew Bentley (1875–1956). Example: The Art of Biography is different from Geography. Geography is about maps, Biography is about chaps.
- dithyramb Song or poem in honour of Dionysus.
- The Donkey Describes itself as 'the devil's walking parody On all four-footed things'.
- Dover Beach First lines 'The sea is calm tonight The tide is full.'
- duels Ben Jonson killed fellow actor Gabriel Spencer. To defend his wife's honour, Alexander challenged and was killed by Baron d'Anthès.
- Dymer C S Lewis published this work under the name of Clive Hamilton.
- Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard Opening: 'The curfew tolls the knell of parting day, The lowing herd wind slowly o'er the lea . . .' Extract: 'Far from the madding crowd's ignoble strife . . .'
- elision Suppression of a vowel or syllable in verse for the sake of metrical correctness, e.g. 'ta'en' (one syllable) replacing 'taken' (two).
- enjambement Running-on of one line of verse into another without a grammatical break, e.g.: 'Nay, but this dotage of our general's / O'erflows the measure . . .' (Antony and Cleopatra).

NB: The Man Booker Prize is awarded for a novel by a citizen of the UK, Eire, South Africa, or any Commonwealth country, with the proviso that it was first published in Britain. In 1971 the Booker switched from being a retrospective prize to one given in the year of publication, with the award moving from April to November. This meant a whole year of fiction slipped though the net. In May 2010 a 'lost' Booker Prize was awarded posthumously to J G Farrell for his 1970 novel Troubles.

Orange Prize for Fiction

The Orange Award was launched in January 1996 and is restricted to female novelists. As well as the annual prize of £30,000 the winner receives a bronze figurine created by Griznel Niven known as the 'Betsie'. In 2005 the 'Orange of Oranges' was awarded to Andrea Levy for Small Island. From 2013 the award is to be known as The Baileys Women's Prize for Fiction.

Chaucer's Canterbury Pilgrims

1	The Knight's Tale	13	The Physician's Tale
2	The Miller's Tale	14	The Pardoner's Tale
3	The Reeve's Tale	15	The Shipman's Tale
4	The Cook's Tale	16	The Prioress's Tale
5	The Man of Law's Tale	17	Chaucer's Tale of Sir Thopas
6	The Wife of Bath's Tale	18	Chaucer's Tale of Melibeus
7	The Friar's Tale	19	The Monk's Tale
8	The Summoner's Tale	20	The Nun's Priest's Tale
9	The Clerk's Tale	21	The Second Nun's Tale
10	The Merchant's Tale	22	The Canon's Yeoman's Tale
11	The Squire's Tale	23	The Manciple's Tale
12	The Franklin's Tale	24	The Parson's Tale

NB: The Canterbury Tales was an unfinished collection of tales told in the course of a pilgrimage to Thomas Becket's shrine at Canterbury. In addition to the 22 story-tellers listed above, the party included a dyer, weaver, arrowmaker, haberdasher, carpenter, ploughman and guidesman, making a total of 29. Chaucer himself may be included as a pilgrim to give a definitive total of 30.

Mr Men and Little Misses

Mr Men

- 1
- Mr Bounce is round and yellow and very cuddly. He is forever turning somersaults while landing on his head.
- 2
- Mr Brave proves that looks can be deceiving, bespectacled and yellow-looking but utterly fearless.
- 3
- Mr Bump is always having accidents of all sorts, and so is always wrapped in bandages from his latest injury.
- 4
- Mr Busy always has something to do, and like Mr Rush this blue character simply cannot relax.
- 5
- Mr Chatterbox never ever stops talking, not even for a moment. It is impossible to get a word in edgeways.
- 6
- Mr Cheeky is extremely rude. When he meets people in the street he insults them unashamedly. (Not one of the original 43 characters but introduced in 2001 as a result of a nationwide competition to celebrate the 30th anniversary of their birth. Gemma Almond, 8, from Shropshire won the competition.)
- 7
- Mr Cheerful is always looking on the bright side of life and is there to cheer you up when you are down.
- 8
- Mr Christmas was not one of the original 43 Mr Men books but was created for a Christmas special.
- 9
- Mr Clever is wide-eyed and bespectacled, and of course knows absolutely everything.
- 10
- Mr Clumsy means well but really is very clumsy indeed, so don't let him near Mr Bump's children.
- 11
- Mr Daydream is in a world of his own most of the time, his imagination running rife.
- 12
- Mr Dizzy lives in a land where pigs and elephants are clever, and he just can't get his head around it all.
- 13
- Mr Forgetful is big and blue and egg-shaped and very very absent-minded.
- 14
- Mr Funny lives in a teapot-shaped house, and drives a shoe-shaped car. He is a practical joker par excellence.
- 15
- Mr Fussy likes things to be neat and tidy, and even irons his shoelaces. He is green and fastidious.
- 16
- Mr Greedy is the greediest person alive. When he comes to visit, make sure there's no food lying around!
- 17
- Mr Grumble is never content. On a lovely day he hates the hot sun, and when it snows he's too cold!
- 18
- Mr Grumpy is always in a bad mood, no matter what. He can't stand it when other people have fun.
- 19
- Mr Happy lives in Happyland where everyone and everything is always happy. Big and yellow with a grin to match.
- 20
- Mr Impossible really can do the impossible! Mauve in colour, there is nothing up his sleeve!
- 21
- Mr Jelly is scared of everything and anything. The quivering red blob is also known as Mr Nervous.
- 22
- Mr Lazy likes nothing more than to do absolutely nothing. He'll laze about in the sun all day if he can.
- 23
- Mr Mean is not very nice really. He's tall and slim but with short arms and long pockets.
- 24
- Mr Messy needs to get his act together. His garden is overgrown and his washing up is never done.
- 25
- Mr Mischief is a bigger practical joker than Mr Fun. He is always sniggering over his latest prank.
- 26
- Mr Muddle just can't get things right, so if you meet him in the morning, he'll say 'Good Afternoon!'
- 27
- Mr Noisy is always shouting. He's utterly incapable of talking quietly.
- 28
- Mr Nonsense looks like a clown and acts like one, his big red nose protruding from a nonsensical grin.
- 29
- Mr Nosey is incapable of minding his own business. His long green nose is taller than himself.
- 30
- Mr Perfect is as his name implies. He has a perfect house with a perfect garden and his lawn is always perfect.
- 31
- Mr Quiet can't stand noisy people or places. Unfortunately he lives in Loudland and it's very trying for him.
- 32
- Mr Rush is always in a hurry and this mauve, triangular-faced flash is heading for a fall unless he slows down.
- 33
- Mr Silly is just plain daft! Even his large red hat is pulled down over his eyes so he cannot see properly.
- 34
- Mr Skinny is long, yellow and as skinny as a rake – literally! Perhaps he should help Mr Messy with his garden!
- 35
- Mr Slow is in no hurry. His moustachioed face gives him a distinguished look . . . but don't rush him!
- 36
- Mr Small really is very tiny, his little red features barely discernible unless you are looking down!
- 37
- Mr Sneeze lives in Coldland, and always has a cold and a very red nose and a blue face from all his sneezing.
- 38
- Mr Snow is the personification of all the snowmen you have ever made in wintertime.
- 39
- Mr Strong can lift entire buildings. He eats a lot of eggs, too, to keep his strength up. He is Big and Square.
- 40
- Mr Tall is as tall as a cliff. He has very long legs, so he can walk a long way very very quickly.
- 41
- Mr Tickle likes to tickle people but his long arms can make breakfast while lying in bed! He was the first Mr Man.

- 42
- Mr Topsy-Turvy reads books upside-down and has a clock that goes anti-clockwise. He greets people he meets by saying 'Morning Good' and he also wears his hat upside-down.
- 43
- Mr Uppity is an outrageous snob, although his black topper makes him look rather distinguished and dapper.
- 44
- Mr Worry is always deep in thought, with a deep frown upon his round blue face.
- 45
- Mr Wrong just can't get things right. He can't even choose a pair of gloves of the same colour!

Little Misses

- 1
- Little Miss Bossy can't stop ordering people around and shouting at them. When she says jump you jump.
- 2
- Little Miss Brainy is the female counterpart of Mr Clever.
- 3
- Little Miss Busy is always busy cleaning the house, shopping, gardening, cooking. She never stops!
- 4
- Little Miss Chatterbox is the female counterpart of Mr Chatterbox and is equally talkative.
- 5
- Little Miss Contrary is always deep in thought but will never agree about anything!
- 6
- Little Miss Curious cannot help but have an inquiring mind.
- 7
- Little Miss Dotty lives in nonsenseland, where Mr Silly and Mr Nonsense live, and she is equally dotty.
- 8
- Little Miss Fickle changes her mind constantly and who knows what or where the mood takes her.
- 9
- Little Miss Fun is a party animal! She's always ready to go out and have fun somewhere.
- 10
- Little Miss Giggles can't stop giggling. She giggles so much that when she's around, everyone else starts too!
- 11
- Little Miss Greedy is as greedy as Mr Greedy. In the earliest books she was also called Little Miss Plump.
- 12
- Little Miss Helpful tries her hardest to be as helpful as she possibly can be. She really does try . . . so hard!
- 13
- Little Miss Late is never on time and punctuality is certainly not her byword.
- 14
- Little Miss Lucky doesn't seem quite as lucky as her name implies, but things always come out all right in the end.
- 15
- Little Miss Magic can do magic! I suppose Mr Impossible would be her male equivalent.
- 16
- Little Miss Naughty is very naughty and her naughty ways do not make her very many friends!
- 17
- Little Miss Neat can't stand any sort of mess. She is bespectacled, round and green.
- 18
- Little Miss Quick doesn't hang around at all, and whatever she does she does it very quickly indeed.
- 19
- Little Miss Scatterbrain is very absent-minded and her male equivalent would be Mr Forgetful.
- 20
- Little Miss Shy is very unassuming and would rather be left alone so I won't embarrass her any longer.
- 21
- Little Miss Somersault has very long legs and is very gymnastic. She is forever turning somersaults.
- 22
- Little Miss Splendid looks a little aloof but is quite splendid really although a little prim and proper.
- 23
- Little Miss Star is round and blue with lovely green shoes. She is a real star through and through.
- 24
- Little Miss Stubborn will not listen. No matter how silly her ideas are she is determined to follow them through.
- 25
- Little Miss Sunshine is a vision in yellow and her beaming smile is sure to cheer the hardest heart.
- 26
- Little MissTidy is not green like Little Miss Neat but yellow, and she doesn't wear glasses either.
- 27
- Little Miss Tiny is very small indeed. In fact she is smaller than Mr Small!
- 28
- Little Miss Trouble cannot help but find trouble. She is the female equivalent of Mr Mischief.
- 29
- Little Miss Twins do everything in pairs, and say things twice twice. They live in Twoland. The Little Miss Twins were inspired by Roger Hargreaves's twin daughters.
- 30
- Little Miss Wise is the person to consult if you want some sound advice, as she is very wise indeed.

Note

Mr Men and Little Misses received six new friends 15 years after the death of their creator Roger Hargreaves. His son penned the tales of Mr Cool, Mr Rude, Mr Good, Little Miss Bad, Little Miss Scary and Little Miss Whoops. Adam Hargreaves took over the running of the Mr Men empire after his father died of a stroke in 1988 at the age of 53. Adam had been the original inspiration for the books when he asked his father what a tickle looked like. The result was Mr Tickle, the first in a series which went on to sell over 100 million copies worldwide. The first four new books were published in April 2003 and two others in September 2003. The books were written by Adam, but he still credited his father as author to keep his father's memory alive. Four further new books, Mr Birthday (2006), Little Miss Birthday (2007), Mr Nobody (2010) and Little Miss Princess (2011) have since been added plus various special edition characters such as Mr Birthday, Little Miss Birthday and Little Miss Christmas

Poets Laureate

John Dryden (1668-88)	William Wordsworth (1843–50)
Thomas Shadwell (1688–92)	Alfred, Lord Tennyson (1850–92)
Nahum Tate (1692–1715)	Alfred Austin (1896–1913)
Nicholas Rowe (1715–18)	Robert Bridges (1913–30)
Laurence Eusden (1718–30)	John Masefield (1930–67)
Colley Cibber (1730–57)	Cecil Day-Lewis (1968–72)
William Whitehead (1757–85)	Sir John Betjeman (1972–84)
Thomas Warton (1785–90)	Ted Hughes (1984–1998)
Henry James Pye (1790–1813)	Andrew Motion (1999–2009)
Robert Southey (1813–43)	Carol Ann Duffy (2009–)

NB: Ben Jonson was the first to be granted a pension as poet, to James I (1616), and in 1630 Charles I added an annual butt of canary wine, which was discontinued by Henry Pye who preferred money. Sir William Davenant succeeded Jonson but the position was only made official in 1668. William Whitehead appointed after Thomas Gray declined the honour. Similarly Alfred, Lord Tennyson became laureate after Samuel Rogers declined.

General Information

abdomen contains most of the digestive system. It is the biggest cavity in the body, extending from underneath the diaphragm to the groin area and bounded at the back of the body by the spine, and round its upper sides by the ribs. The abdomen contains the alimentary canal, liver, spleen, kidneys and pancreas.

acid in stomach hydrochloric.

acupuncture Traditional acupuncture is based on the principle that our health is dependent on the -balanced functioning of the body's motivating energy, known as Qi (ch'i). This Qi flows throughout the body, but is concentrated in channels beneath the skin, known as meridians. The aim of treatment is to restore the balance between the equal and opposite qualities of Qi, namely the Yin and Yang.

The Human body is composed of 12 meridians that mirror themselves on the left and right side of the body. Each of these meridians contains / is a part of muscles, tendons, ligaments and a surrounding fascia that stretches all along the meridian, a bit like a string of sausages. From childhood there were times when we felt that powerful emotions would overwhelm us. We learnt to suppress these overwhelming emotions by contracting muscles within us. These contractions become habitual and are thought to have an effect on the body structure affecting bone alignment in the joints, spine and cranium. When the body structure is distorted (extremely common) nerves can get pinched or stretched, internal body organs become distorted, hormonal glands under- or overproduce, joints can wear out quicker, and various muscles and tendons may become shortened or overstretched. Stress is the most common cause of this distortion, but there are other common factors that will also affect our health and well-being. These include diet, drugs and lack of appropriate exercise.

Acupuncture treats the body as a whole – the physical, mental (emotional) & psychic (spirit) levels, not only the disease or ailment. It is an ancient art of healing developed over thousands of years and works by stimulating the Qi and eliminating all toxins from the body. This is achieved by stimulation of specific energy points. Acupuncture can be done without needle – laser, electro-acupuncture, finger pressure (shiatsu) or ultrasound. It is not a substitute for conventional medicine but acts to compliment it. It paired organs. Though the pericardium has no separate was popularised in the Western world in 1972 following Richard Nixon's visit to China and his championing of its benefits.

There are hundreds of acupuncture points throughout the body, but here is a list of the main 12 meridians:

(1) the Lung Channel of Hand, (2) the Large Intestine Channel of Hand, (3) the Stomach Channel of Foot, (4) the Spleen Channel of Foot, (5) the Heart Channel of Hand, (6) the Small Intestine Channel of Hand, (7) the Urinary Bladder Channel of Foot, (8) the Kidney Channel of Foot, (9) the Pericardium Channel of Hand, (10) the Triple Burner Channel of Hand, (11) the Gall Bladder Channel of Foot, (12) the Liver Channel of Foot.

Notes: The lungs (Yin) and large intestine (Yang) are paired organs. Their opening is the nose, and they govern skin and hair. The main function of the large intestine is the metabolism of water and the passing of water. The spleen (Yin) and the stomach (Yang) are paired organs. Their opening is the mouth and they control the flesh and the limbs. The spleen is the main organ of digestion. Its function is to transport nutrients and regulate the blood (keep it within the channels). It is responsible for the transformation of food into nourishment. The stomach receives food while the spleen transports nutrients. The stomach moves things downward while the spleen moves things upward.

The heart (Yin) and the small intestine (Yang) are paired organs. Their point of entry is the tongue. They control the blood vessels and are reflected in the face. The heart governs the blood vessels and is responsible for moving blood through them. It also stores the spirit, and is the organ usually associated with mental processes. The major function of the small intestine is to separate waste material from the nutritious elements in food. The nutritious elements are then distributed throughout the body and the waste is sent on to the large intestine. The kidneys (Yin) and the urinary bladder (Yang) are paired organs. Their opening is the urethra. They control the bones, marrow, and brain, and their health is reflected in the hair of the head. The kidneys store Original Essence (Yuan Jing) and are therefore responsible for growth, development, and reproductive functions. They play the primary role in water metabolism and control the body's liquids, and also hold the body's most basic Yin and Yang. The main function of the urinary bladder is to transform fluids into urine and excrete it from the body. The pericardium (Yin) and the triple burner (Yang) are physiological functions, it is generally mentioned with regard to the delirium induced by high fevers. The triple burner is regarded as 'having a name but no form' but is considered to be an organ that coordinates all the functions of water metabolism.

The liver (Yin) and the gall bladder (Yang) are considered paired organs. Their point of entry is the eyes. They control the sinews (muscles and joints), and their health is reflected in the finger and toe nails. The main task of the liver is spreading and regulating Qi throughout the entire body. Its unique character is flowing and free, so depression or frustration can disturb its functioning. In addition, the liver is responsible for storing blood when the body is at rest. This characteristic, together with its control over the lower abdomen, makes it the most critical organ in terms of women's menstrual cycle and sexuality. The main function of the gall bladder is storing and excreting the bile produced by the liver.

adrenal glands glands that produce adrenalin, which prepares the body for stress by increasing heart rate and blood pressure. They also produce cortisone, which has a variety of metabolic effects.

allopathy treatment of disease by conventional means – i.e. with drugs having opposite effects to the symptoms (opposite of homoeopathy).

Alzheimer's disease serious disorder of the brain manifesting itself in premature senility. Named after the German neurologist Alois Alzheimer (1864–1915), who first identified it.

analeptic drug restores and invigorates.

anaphylaxis an extreme, often life-threatening reaction to an antigen, e.g. to a bee sting, due to hypersensitivity.

anaplasty medical name for plastic surgery.

anatomy Science of the bodily structure of animals and plants.

angioplasty surgical technique for restoring normal blood flow through an artery by means of laser therapy or insertion of a balloon into the narrowed section.

artery tubular thick-walled muscular vessel that conveys oxygenated blood from the heart, the largest being the aorta.

Asperger's syndrome mild variant of autism diagnosed in 1994. Sufferers may have extraordinary compensating talents, e.g. musical prodigy Joseph Erber (born 1984).

axilla anatomical name for the armpit.

biology the study of living organisms.

blood content in body varies slightly, but average man has 12 pts (5.6 litres) and woman 7 pts (3.3 litres), making the average 9 pints in general. An approximate calculation for adults is 60 millilitres per kilogram of body weight.

blood groups A, B, AB, O. Blood groups may also be divided into Rhesus negative and positive. The most common group is O, which is universally given, and AB can receive from any group.

blood pressure: readings systolic is highest blood pressure reading; diastolic is lowest. Abnormally high or low conditions are called hypertension and hypotension respectively.

body build classification system is called somatotype and consists of: ectomorph (tall), endomorph (fat), mesomorph (muscular).

bones consist of collagen, calcium phosphate and inorganic salts, mainly hydroxyapatite. Smallest is the stapes and the largest the femur. The only non-connected bone is the hyoid in the throat.

bradycardia abnormally slow heart action.

brain the brain contains 10,000 million nerve cells, each of which has a potential 25,000 inter-connections with other cells. Average weight of the brain is 3lb (1.4 kg). The left side is the rational side.

calcaneus heel bone.

cells the smallest cell in the human body is the male sperm, the largest is the female ovum.

central nervous system brain and spinal cord (vertebrates).

Chinese restaurant syndrome monosodium glutamate intolerance cholangiography X-ray examination of the bile ducts used to locate obstructions.

cholecystography X-ray examination of the gall bladder used to detect the presence of gall stones.

chromosomes 23 pairs in the human body, the female having two X sex chromosomes while the male has one XY pair. They carry the gene sequence and, therefore, full genetic blueprint.

collagen protein of great tensile strength present in bones, cartilage, tendons, ligaments and the skin.

colostrum mother's first breast-product after a birth before milk flow begins. Contains antibodies that bring important immunities.

comedo medical name for a blackhead.

conjunctivitis aka pink eye.

cornea convex transparent membrane that forms the forward covering of the eyeball; it is the only part of the body devoid of blood supply.

couéism form of auto-suggestion propagated by Emile Coué (1857–1926). A key phrase was: 'Every day, and in every way, I am becoming better and better.'

coxa (aka innominate bone) hip bone or joint (contrast ilium).

Crohn's disease chronic inflammatory disease of the intestines, especially the colon and ileum, causing ulcers and fistulae. Named after B B Crohn, US pathologist (1874–1983).

crural of the leg.

cubital of the forearm.

dentine calcified tissue of tooth.

diaphragm dome-shaped muscular partition that separates the abdominal and thoracic cavities.

disease: most widespread tooth and gum disease.

Down's syndrome: cause extra chromosome (three number 21s instead of the usual two, hence the medical name, Trisomy 21).

Economo's disease trypanosomiasis (sleeping sickness).

English disease aka bronchitis.

enuresis Involuntary urination.

epiglottis cartilaginous flap that covers the entrance to the larynx during swallowing, preventing food from entering the trachea.

epilepsy: categories petit mal, grand mal, psychomotor.

erysipelas aka St Anthony's Fire.

erythrocyte red blood cell containing the pigment haemoglobin. Transports oxygen and carbon dioxide to and from the tissues.

gall bladder muscular membranous sac; its function is to store and concentrate bile, a fluid that is received from the liver and is important in digestion. In humans, it is situated on the underside of the liver and is pear-shaped and expendable, with a capacity of about 1.7 fluid ounces (50 ml).

gland: largest the liver.

glandular fever viral disease causing swelling of the lymph glands and prolonged lassitude. Aka infectious mononucleosis.

Government Chief Medical Officer Professor Dame Sally Davies

Graves disease exophthalmic goitre with characteristic swelling of the neck and protrusion of the eyes, resulting from an overactive thyroid gland.

haemoglobin red oxygen-carrying protein containing iron and present in the red blood cells of vertebrates.

haemophilia male-only disease that prevents the blood from clotting. Women may be carriers. Aka Royal Disease.

hardest substance in body tooth enamel.

Harefield Britain's leading hospital for heart and heart-and-lung operations, situated 20 miles west of London.

hemicrania migraine.

hernia the projection of an organ through the lining of the cavity in which it is normally situated. The two most common forms of hernia are femoral (upper thigh) and inguinal (groin).

heroin: made from morphine, an opium derivative.

herpes zoster shingles, an acute painful inflammation of the nerve ganglia, with a skin eruption, often forming a girdle around the waist, and caused by the same virus as chickenpox.

homoeopathy treatment of disease by minute doses of drugs that in a healthy person would produce symptoms of the disease.

hormones: female sex oestrogen and progesterone.

hospice movement: founder Dame Cicely Saunders.

housemaid's knee inflammation and swelling of the bursa in front of the kneecap, often caused by continual kneeling on hard surfaces. Aka prepatellar bursitis.

humerus bone extending from the shoulder to the elbow.

humours obsolete name for the four chief fluids of the body, i.e. blood, phlegm, yellow bile and black bile, that were once thought to determine a person's physical and mental qualities. Aka cardinal humours.

Hurler's syndrome defect in metabolism resulting in mental retardation, a protruding abdomen and bone deformities, including an abnormally large head. Aka gargoylism.

hypermetropia the condition of having long sight.

ilium bone forming the upper part of each half of the human pelvis (contrast coxa).

inferiority complex named by Alfred Adler.

innominate bone (aka coxa) bone formed from the fusion of the ilium, ischium and pubis, aka the hip bone.

insulin: gland that produces pancreas (in cells called the islets of Langerhans).

interferon proteins made by cells in response to virus infection.

iridology diagnosis by examination of the iris of the eye (used mainly in alternative medicine).

iris the coloured muscular diaphragm that surrounds and controls the size of the pupil.

jaw bones maxilla (upper jaw), mandible (lower jaw).

keloid/cheloid overgrown scar tissue.

kidney organ that maintains water balance and expels metabolic wastes. The kidneys consist of two series of specialised tubules that empty into two collecting ducts, the Wolffian ducts. The two kidneys are positioned on the back wall of the abdomen.

kissing disease glandular fever.

kyphosis excessive outward curvature of the thoracic spine causing hunching of the back.

larynx cartilaginous and muscular hollow organ forming part of the air passage to the lungs. Aka Adam's apple, voice-box.

Lassa fever acute and often fatal febrile viral haemorrhagic disease of tropical Africa, named from the village in Nigeria where first reported.

Legionnaires' disease form of bacterial pneumonia first identified after an outbreak at an American Legion meeting in Philadelphia in 1976 and spread by water droplets through air-conditioning systems and similar devices.

leucocyte colourless amoeboid cell of blood and lymph, containing a nucleus and important in fighting disease. Aka white blood cell/white corpuscle.

leucoderma (aka vitiligo) skin condition characterized by loss of melanin pigmentation.

leucoma a white opacity in the cornea of the eye.

leucotomy surgical cutting of white nerve fibres within the brain, especially prefrontal lobotomy.

leukaemia malignant disease in which the bone marrow and other blood-forming organs produce too many leucocytes.

ligament short band of tough flexible fibrous connective tissue linking bones together.

ligature tie or bandage used in surgery for a bleeding artery.

lingua the tongue.

lipids organic compounds that are esters of fatty acids and are found in blood, cell membranes and elsewhere.

lithotomy surgical removal of a calculus (stony secretion) from the bladder or urinary tract.

lithotripsy removal of a calculus from the bladder or urinary tract by means of ultrasound techniques that shatter the stone so that fragments pass naturally from the body.

liver largest organ in the human body, composed of a spongy mass of wedge-shaped lobes that has numerous metabolic and secretory functions. It is tucked beneath the diaphragm, protected from damage by the lower ribs of the right side. Its average weight is 3 to 4 lb (1.36 to 1.81 kg).

liver: functions production of bile to emulsify fat in the bowel. Reception of all the products of food absorption and the subsequent release as energy sources. Carbohydrates are stored as glycogen, and the liver uses insulin from the pancreas to control the body's glucose level. Purification of blood. Production of proteins needed for blood clotting.

liver transplants: hospital Addenbrooke's Hospital near Cambridge was the pioneer.

lungs the 700 million air sacs are called alveoli, and the right lung is heavier than the left.

lunula crescent-shaped white area at the base of the fingernail.

Lyme disease form of arthritis caused by spirochaete bacteria transmitted by ticks. Named after a town in Connecticut, USA, where an outbreak occurred in 1975.

Mantoux test intradermal tuberculin test named after French physician Charles Mantoux 1877–1947.

mastoid process conical prominence on the temporal bone behind the ear, to which muscles are attached.

Ménière's syndrome inner ear disorder characterised by ringing in ear, dizziness and impaired hearing.

miner's disease pneumoconiosis (caused by inhalation of coal dust).

mnemonic for nerves in the superorbital tissue: Lazy French Tarts Lie Naked In Anticipation (Lacrimal, Frontal, Trochlear, Lateral, Nasociliary, Internal, Abduceris).

mons pubis rounded mass of fatty tissue lying over the joint of the pubic bones.

mons veneris rounded mass of fatty tissue on a woman's abdomen above the vulva (Latin: Mount of Venus).

Moorfields (London EC1) Britain's leading hospital specialising in eye injuries.

MRSA general term for a group of bacteria that are penicillin-resistant. It particularly attacks the infirm and is prevalent in hospital environments among patients with open wounds.

Munchausen's syndrome medical name for feigned symptoms brought on with a view to gaining admission into hospital.

Munchausen's syndrome by proxy mental condition in which a person seeks attention by inducing illness in another person, especially a child. Named after R E Raspe's literary hero.

muscae volitantes moving black specks seen before the eyes, caused by opaque fragments floating in the vitreous humour ('floaters') or a defect in the lens.

muscle: not attached at both ends tongue.

muscles: smile or frown debate although smiling is more beneficial to one's wellbeing, frowning uses more muscles.

myeloid tissue term for bone marrow, found in the spinal cord and elsewhere.

naevus birthmark in the form of a raised red patch on the skin.

nosology branch of medical science dealing with the classification of diseases.

obstetrics of or relating to childbirth and associated processes.

oedema condition characterised by an excess of watery fluid collecting in the cavities or tissues of the body. Aka dropsy.

oesophagus part of the alimentary canal between the pharynx and the stomach. Aka gullet.

olfactory of or relating to the sense of smell.

organs: largest the skin is the largest and heaviest organ of the human body, but the largest and heaviest organ within the human body is the liver.

Paget's cancer cancer of the nipple and surrounding tissue. Named after Sir James Paget (1814–99) the English surgeon and pathologist who described this disease.

Paget's disease chronic disease of the bones characterised by inflammation and deformation. Aka osteitis deformans.

pancreas gland secreting the hormone insulin, which regulates glucose levels in the body. Deficiency of insulin causes diabetes mellitus (sugar diabetes). The pancreas lies across the upper part of the abdomen, in front of the spine and on top of the aorta and the vena cava (the body's main artery and vein). The basic structures in the pancreas are the acini, collections of secreting cells round the blind end of a small duct. Among the acini are small groups of cells called the 'islets of Langerhans'. These constitute the whole 'other life' of the pancreas as an endocrine organ secreting the insulin required by the body to control its sugar level. The pancreas also has an exocrine gland which produces essential alkali in the form of sodium bicarbonate to neutralise the acidic content of the stomach.

pathology study of causes and nature of diseases.

phlebitis inflammation of a vein.

phlegm: medical name sputum.

plasma clear yellowish fluid portion of blood or lymph in which the corpuscles and cells are suspended.

prescription charge from 1 April 2013 £7.85p.

purkinje effect As light intensity decreases red objects are perceived to fade faster than blue objects of similar brightness.

radius outer and slightly shorter of the two bones of the forearm.

retina light-sensitive portion of the eyeball.

retrovir brand name of zidovudine (AZT), used in treating HIV and AIDS.

rubella German measles.

rubeola medical name for measles.
Scalene muscles a group of three pairs of muscles in the neck.
Schick test identifies susceptibility to diphtheria.
sclera the white part of the eye.
sex change operation: first George (Christine) Jorgensen (1952).
Siamese twins: called after most famous conjoined twins to survive into adulthood: Chang and Eng (1811–74), born in Siam.
singultus hiccup.
skin accounts for 16% of the body's weight and has an average surface area of 2,800 sq in (18,000 sq cm); as such, it is the largest and heaviest organ of the human body.
spleen main function is to act as a filter for the blood and to make antibodies. It lies just below the diaphragm at the top of the left-hand side of the abdomen. It is normally about 5 inches (13 cm) long and weighs about ½ lb (240 g) and lies along the line of the 10th rib.
Stockholm syndrome psychological term for process of bonding between hostage and captors.
Stoke Mandeville Britain's leading hospital for the treatment of spinal injuries.
stomach capacity about 2–2½ pints (0.94–1.18 litres).
stomatology study of mouth diseases.
strabismus medical name for a squint.
syncope technical name for a faint.
talipes club foot.
talus the ankle bone.
teeth By the age of 2–3 a child will usually have a complete set of 20 deciduous (milk) teeth. A full set of 32 permanent teeth develops after the age of six. The front four teeth in each jaw are called incisors, the next two are the canines (eyeteeth), the next four are premolars (the hindmost being the third molar or wisdom teeth), the outer teeth are called molars.
teeth: mnemonic 4 canines ('dogs' 4 letters)
8 incisors (8 letters in word)
8 premolars (8 letters in word)
12 molars (remaining teeth)
C is before I and M in alphabet and premolar implies that they come before molars.
tendon cord of strong fibrous tissue attaching a muscle to a bone.

testes two glands that produce sperms and the male hormone testosterone.
test tube baby: first Louise Brown in 1978 (doctors were Steptoe and Edwards).
thalassotherapy ancient medical treatment of lying in sea water.
thorax anatomical name for the chest.
thyroid gland situated in the neck in front of the windpipe. Controls the metabolism.
tincture medicinal extract in a solution of alcohol.
tongue medical name lingua. Studding the tongue are many small projections called papillae. Inside these are some 9,000 taste buds which respond to four tastes i.e. sweet, sour, salt and bitter.
Tourette's syndrome neurological disorder characterised by tics, involuntary vocalisation, and in some cases the compulsive utterance of obscenities. The syndrome is named after French neurologist Gilles de la Tourette.
trachea the windpipe.
trachoma contagious disease of the eye with inflamed granulation on the inner surface of the lids, caused by chlamydiae.
trench foot medical condition prevalent throughout the First World War caused by standing around in cold, wet and unsanitary conditions and in severe cases resulting in amputation of the feet.
trismus variety of tetanus with tonic spasms of the jaw muscles causing the mouth to remain tightly closed. Aka lockjaw.
ulna inner and longer of the two bones of the forearm.
urticaria hives or nettle rash.
varicella chickenpox.
variola smallpox.
vascular relating to blood vessels.
venereal disease: most common gonorrhea.
vitiligo (aka leucoderma) skin disease characterised by loss of melanin pigmentation.
vitamin term coined by Casimir Funk (1884–1967) in 1911 for the unidentified substances present in food that could prevent the diseases scurvy, beriberi and pellagra.
Wasserman test: used for testing for syphilis.
white death tuberculosis.
yellow fever tropical virus disease with fever and jaundice, transmitted by the mosquito and often fatal.

MILITARY

Operations: Military and Social

- Accolade Unfulfilled 1943 plan for capture of Rhodes and other Aegean islands.
- Acrobat Original name for Operation Torch and the name used in the 1943 film Tunisian Victory, it was the planned British operation to advance from Cyrenaica to Tripoli, 1941.
- Adlertag (Eagle Day) Start of main German air offensive on 13 August 1940, which led to the Adlerangriff (German plan for Battle of Britain).
- A Go Japanese plan for a counterattack against possible US recapture of the Marianas during 1944.
- Alaric First German codename for their possible military takeover in Italy.
- Allied Force Began on 24 March 1999 when United States military forces, acting with Nato allies, commenced air strikes against Serbian military targets in the former Yugoslavia. The multinational force was tasked by Nato to bring an end to crimes committed by the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia against ethnic Albanians in the southern province of Kosovo. On 20 June 1999 Operation Allied Force was officially terminated. This was in response to the departure of all FRY military and police forces from Kosovo in compliance with the Military Technical Agreement, which was signed by the Commander of KFOR and representatives of the FRY Government on 9 June 1940.
- Alpen Veilchen (Alpine Violet) Proposed plan for Italians to break out from Albania into Greece. Cancelled 19 January 1940.
- Anakim First Allied plan for amphibious reconquest of Burma, abandoned in 1943.
- Anton German occupation of Vichy France on 11 November 1942, first codenamed Attila.
- Anvil Original codename for Allied landing on the French coast between Toulon and Cannes, later changed to Dragoon.
- Aphrodite American scheme to load surplus bombers with explosives and fly them to the south coast of Britain, where the two-man crew would bail out and another plane would guide the plane to crash into a V-1 site. Joe Kennedy, elder brother of JFK, was blown up on a test run over Norfolk.
- Apostle I Allied return to Norway on 10 May 1945.
- Arcadia Codename for the conference between Churchill and F.D. Roosevelt in Washington, 22 December 1941–14 January 1942.
- Aufbau Ost Prior to Barbarossa, this was the German buildup in the east.
- Autumn Mist (Herbstnebel) Codename for the Ardennes Offensive (Battle of the Bulge) in 1944.
- Avalanche US and British forces landing in the Gulf of Salerno causing the Germans to withdraw to the Gustav Line across the peninsula north of Naples, 9–19 September 1943.
- Avonmouth Failed Allied expedition to Narvik May–June 1940.
- Axis (Achse) Originally called ‘Alaric’, the disarming of the Italian army after their surrender to the Germans on 8 September 1943.
- Babylon 7 June 1981, destruction of Osirak nuclear reactor in Iraq by Israeli F16s.
- Badr 6 October 1973, Arab assault in Yom Kippur War.
- Bagration Successful Soviet offensive in the central part of the German-occupied Russian Front, 23 June–29 August 1944.
- Barbarossa German invasion of the USSR on 22 June 1941, supported by Romanian troops.
- Battleaxe 15 June 1941, the first British offensive into ‘Hellfire’ (Halfaya) Pass, which failed to recapture Tobruk.
- Baytown British landing at Reggio, 3 September 1943, and advance into the south-west Italian mainland, reaching Auletta on 19 September and Potenza on 20 September.
- Bernhard Failed German plan to flood Britain with forged money during the Second World War, by means of an air drop, and thereby ruin the British economy.
- Bigot Security classification for Normandy landing planning documents.
- Birdcage Airborne leaflet drop on POW camps in the Far East announcing Japanese surrender.
- Blackbuck 1 1 May 1982, bombing of Port Stanley runway by a Vulcan bomber.
- Blackcock XII British Corps attack at Roermond, southeast Holland, 16–26 January 1945.
- Black (Schwarz) The German occupation of Italy in 1943.
- Blue Book Following an unexplained UFO sighting in Roswell, New Mexico, in 1947 the US Air Force set up a study group code-named Project Sign. Of the 147 reported sightings all but 12 were explained. A further rush of sightings prompted the set up of Project Grudge on 11 February 1949. The USAF attempted to explain every UFO sighting but of the 273 official sightings, 231 were classed as unidentified. In March 1952 Project Grudge went public as Project Blue Book and for the next 17 years remained the USAF’s official UFO Study Program. Investigations ceased in 1969 as the US government advised the USAF that the project was no longer justifiable.
- Bluecoat Normandy Operation of 30 July 1944, which concerned the initial British diversionary breakout from their American boundary, followed by the US 3rd Army, under Patton, breaking through the German defences at Avranches, the gateway from Normandy into Brittany.

The Victoria Cross

The VC was introduced at the behest of Queen Victoria on 29 January 1856 in order to reward acts of extreme courage during the Crimean War. It is the highest military decoration and has been awarded 1,356 times to 1,353 individual recipients. The first awards ceremony was held on 26 June 1857 when the Queen invested 62 of the 111 Crimean recipients in a ceremony in Hyde Park.

Three people have been awarded the VC and Bar, the bar representing a second award of the VC: British Royal Army Medical Corps doctors Noel Chavasse and Arthur Martin-Leake, for rescuing wounded under fire; and New Zealand infantryman Charles Upham, for two combat actions during the Second World War.

The largest number of VCs awarded for actions on a single day was 24 at the Second Relief of Lucknow and the largest number awarded in a single action was 11 at Rorke's Drift.

An Irishman, Surgeon General William Manley, remains the sole recipient of both the Victoria Cross and the Iron Cross. His VC was awarded for his actions during the Waikato-Hauhau Maori War, on 29 April 1864, while the Iron Cross was awarded for tending the wounded during the Franco-Prussian War of 1870–1.

New Zealand Flying Officer Lloyd Trigg is the only man ever awarded a VC on evidence provided solely by the enemy. The recommendation was made by the captain of the German U-boat U-468 sunk by Trigg's aircraft.

In 1921 the Victoria Cross was given to the American Unknown Soldier of the First World War.

Queen Victoria laid a Victoria Cross beneath the foundation stone of Netley military hospital in 1856. When the hospital was demolished in 1966, 'The Netley VC' was retrieved and is now on display in the Army Medical Services Museum, Mytchett, near Aldershot.

At time of writing (July 2013), there are only five living holders of the VC – three British (John Alexander Cruickshank, William Speakman, Johnson Beharry), one Australian (Keith Payne), and one Gurkha (Rambahadur Limbu). Since 2002, the annuity paid to them by the British government is £1,495 per year.

The decoration itself is a bronze cross pattée, bearing the crown of Saint Edward surmounted by a lion, with the inscription 'For Valour'. The ribbon is crimson.

British businessman Lord Ashcroft has amassed a collection of 162 VCs since 1986 and recently acquired the VC and Bar of Captain Noel Chavasse from St Peter's College, Oxford for almost £1.5 million. The collection is currently on display at the Imperial War Museum.

MUSIC: CLASSICAL

Opera: Précis of Plots

Aida (Verdi, 1871) Aida, a captive Ethiopian princess, is servant to the Egyptian princess Amneris. Both are in love with General Radamès, who loves Aida. Radamès goes to war against the Ethiopians, defeats them and is given Amneris's hand in marriage, but Radames is suspected of having betrayed his country in trying to help Aida and sentenced to death. Aida conceals herself in the tomb where both of them are buried alive, while above them, Amneris prays.

Albert Herring (Britten, 1946) Lady Billows, the self-appointed guardian of public morals in the small Suffolk town of Loxford, with the help of Florence Pike, who keeps a list of miscreants and misdemeanours, and a committee of local worthies is resolved to find a worthy candidate to occupy the position of May Queen. It is eventually decided that no girl is virtuous enough but that Albert Herring, the retarded, only son of Mrs Herring, who keeps the greengrocer's, should be made May King. Sid, the butcher's boy, suggests that Albert should break free from his mother's control, and with the help of Nancy, from the baker's, resolves to help things along. The crowning of the new May King is duly carried out, Sid, however, has laced Albert's lemonade with rum. After the ceremony Albert, now uninhibited, makes a break for freedom. The next morning his mother is distraught at his absence and is joined by others, lamenting what might well be his early death. Albert re-appears, however, free at last, thanks to Sid and Nancy.

The Barber of Seville (Rossini, 1816) Count Almaviva, aided by his barber Figaro, is pursuing Rosina. Her guardian, Bartolo, who wants to marry her himself, tries to stop them but is unsuccessful, and Rosina marries the count.

The Bartered Bride (Smetana, 1866) Marenka loves Jenik, whose parents want to marry her to the halfwit son of Micha. Jenik is offered money to give her up, and accepts on condition she marries Micha's eldest son. This turns out to be Jenik himself; Marenka can marry him after all.

Billy Budd (Britten, 1951) Set on HMS Indomitable in 1797, during the French wars, the drama involves the relationship between Edward Fairfax Vere and the innocent seaman Billy Budd who is in conflict with Claggart, the evil master-at-arms, who resolves to destroy him. Struck by Billy Budd, Claggart is killed and Captain Vere, who is aware of Billy Budd's innate goodness but compelled by duty to sentence him to death.

Bluebeard's Castle (Bartók, 1911) Newly married to Duke Bluebeard, Judith opens a series of doors, revealing, behind the seventh, Bluebeard's three former wives, representing the morning, noon and evening of his life: Judith represents night. Bluebeard dresses her in the crown and robes from the third door, the Treasury, and she passes with the others through the seventh door, leaving Bluebeard to solitude and the coming eternal darkness.

La Bohème (Puccini, 1896) Mimi, who is consumptive, falls in love with a Bohemian poet, Rodolfo, and for a while they live together, but constant quarrels drive them apart. Then Rodolfo's friends discover that Mimi is dying and bring her to him, but it is too late and she dies in his arms.

Carmen (Bizet, 1875) The soldier Don José deserts the army to follow the gypsy girl Carmen, who leaves him for the toreador Escamillo. Mad with jealousy, Don José follows her to the bullring and kills her.

Così fan tutte (Mozart, 1790) The sisters Fiordiligi and Dorabella swear to be faithful to their lovers Ferrando and Guglielmo, so to try their fidelity the latter pretend to go off to the wars. But they return in disguise and each proceeds to make advances to the other's girl, who both respond. The men then reveal their disguise, but forgive their wayward sweethearts, and both couples are reunited.

Cox and Box (Sullivan, 1866) Arthur Sullivan's first operetta deals with the comic activities of a landlord who lets the same room to two lodgers, alternating, unknown to them, by day and night.

Don Giovanni (Mozart, 1787) Foiled in his attempts to seduce Donna Anna, the libertine Don Giovanni (aka Don Juan) kills her father, the Commendatore. Anna and her fiancé Don Ottavio vow to avenge him. They are joined by Donna Elvira, another former victim of the Don. In a gesture of defiance, Don Giovanni has confronted a statue of the Commendatore and invited him to dinner. The Commendatore duly accepts, arrives at the Don's house and drags him down to hell.

Eugene Onegin (Tchaikovsky, 1879) Tatyana, young and open-hearted, falls in love with the worldly Eugene Onegin and confesses her feelings, but he rejects her. Years later they meet again and this time he falls in love with her, but by now she is married and, though still attracted to him, sends him away for ever.

Falstaff (Verdi, 1892) Shakespeare's fat knight, Sir John Falstaff, is simultaneously wooing two wives of Windsor, Mistress Ford and Mistress Page, who discover what he is up to and contrive to pay him back, but Falstaff eventually takes it in good part anqkld the opera finishes with a happy ending for a young couple involved in the plotting – Nannetta Ford and her lover, Fenton.

Faust (Gounod, 1859) Faust has been given back his youth by the devil, Mephistopheles, so he can pursue the beautiful Marguerite. They fall in love and she has a child, but Faust then deserts her. She kills the child and is condemned to death. Faust returns to save her, but he is too late, and she dies and is borne to heaven.

Fidelio (Beethoven, 1805) When Florestan is unjustly imprisoned, his wife Leonora disguises herself as a young man called Fidelio and gets a job inside the prison, from where she succeeds in getting him freed.

The Flying Dutchman (Wagner, 1843) A Dutch sea captain has been condemned by the Devil to sail the seas for ever, unless he can find a woman who will love him until death. Once in every seven years he is allowed to land in search of her. He meets Senta, who declares her love for him, but leaves her owing to a misunderstanding, whereupon she throws herself into the sea and drowns, thus freeing him.

Gloriana (Britten, 1953) The libretto was based on Lytton Strachey's Elizabeth and Essex and concerns the decline of Essex in the affections of Queen Elizabeth. The opening act tells of a fight between Essex and Lord Montjoy at the court of Elizabeth. They are rebuked, but the rebellious nature of Essex is recognised by the Queen. Essex is appointed Deputy of Ireland and given the charge of subduing Tyrone, but fails miserably. On his return to England the disgraced Essex rebels and is arrested as a traitor. At his trial at Whitehall, Essex is given a death sentence, which is eventually signed by Elizabeth after an injudicious word from Lady Rich. The final act depicts the Queen reflecting on her life to the audience.

Lakmé (Delibes, 1882) In British India the young English officer Gérard falls in love with Lakmé, daughter of the Brahmin priest Nilakantha, who harbours feelings of hatred towards the British. Nilakantha is angry at the pollution of his land by the intruder and sets his daughter to attract the man by her singing. This she does, and when Gérard, in the market-place, rushes forward to help her as she faints, Nilakantha stabs him. Gérard is tended in the forest in secret by Hadji, a servant loyal to Lakmé, who aids him in his task. She goes to bring water from the sacred spring to confirm their love, but Frédéric appears, reminding Gérard of his duty. He resolves to obey and Lakmé poisons herself, leaving Gérard, as she dies, to drink the sacred water that would have united them.

Lohengrin (Wagner, 1850) The heroine, Elsa, falsely accused, will lose her life if she cannot find a champion. When one appears (Lohengrin, a knight searching for the Holy Grail), he agrees to defend her so long as she never asks his name. Eventually they marry, but an enemy dupes her into asking her husband's name. Now she has broken her vow and he leaves her for ever.

Lucia di Lammermoor (Donizetti, 1835) Lucy Ashton is in love with Edgar, but is tricked by her brother into marrying someone else. On her wedding night she goes mad and kills her husband. When he learns of her subsequent death, Edgar kills himself.

Madame Butterfly (Puccini, 1904) The American naval Lieutenant Pinkerton has married the innocent Japanese girl Cio-Cio-San. He regards the arrangements as only temporary and leaves her when the time comes, but she loves him and longs for his return. When he does, with an American wife, Butterfly promises to give him their child and then kills herself.

The Magic Flute (Mozart, 1791) This is a contest between Good (the high priest Sarastro) and Evil (the Queen of the Night). Prince Tamino falls in love with the Queen of the Night's daughter, Pamina, and has to undergo many tests and temptations, helped by a gift of a magic flute, before he conquers Evil and wins the hand of his beloved.

Manon (Massenet, 1884) Manon Lescaut and the Chevalier Des Grieux fall in love and run away together, but she prefers luxury to poverty and leaves him for a rich man. She is eventually deported for being a prostitute. Des Grieux follows her, but she is overwhelmed by her suffering and dies in his arms.

The Marriage of Figaro (Mozart, 1786) Figaro, barber to the womanising Count Almaviva, is about to be married to Susanna, the countess's maid, but discovers the count has designs on her. Figaro, Susanna, the countess and her page Cherubino hatch a plot to unmask the count, and all ends happily with the wedding of Figaro and Susanna.

The Mastersingers of Nuremberg (Wagner, 1868) The Mastersingers of Nuremberg are to hold a song contest, the prize being the hand of Eva. The knight Walther arrives, falls in love with Eva and decides to compete, coached by Hans Sachs the cobbler. Although his rival Beckmesser does his best to discredit him, he wins both the contest and Eva.

Norma (Bellini, 1831) The Druid priestess Norma has had two children by the Roman general Pollione, who has now fallen in love with a younger priestess, Adalgisa. Norma incites a Gallo-Roman war, Pollione is captured and sentenced to death, and they both go to be sacrificed together.

Otello (Verdi, 1887) Otello, the Moor of Venice, is tricked by the evil Iago into believing his wife, Desdemona, has been unfaithful to him. In a fit of jealousy he kills her, learns the truth, then kills himself.

I Pagliacci (Leoncavallo, 1893) A troupe of strolling players enact a real-life drama. The clown, Canio, does not know that his wife, Nedda, is having an affair with Silvio, a villager, although he is suspicious. At that night's performance, in which Canio plays a jealous husband, reality gets the better of him, the play becomes a real quarrel, and he stabs both Nedda and Silvio to death.

The Pearl Fishers (Bizet, 1863) Pearl fishers Zurga and Nadir have long loved the priestess, Leila, but have vowed not to let this destroy their friendship. Then Leila arrives to conduct a religious ceremony, and she and Nadir confess their love. They are discovered and sentenced to death. Zurga helps them escape but loses his own life as a result.

Peter Grimes (Britten, 1945) The lone fisherman, Peter Grimes, is an outsider in the East Coast fishing community where he lives. Already under suspicion after the mysterious death of his young apprentice, when a second boy dies unaccountably, Grimes is forced to take to sea and drowns himself.

Rigoletto (Verdi, 1851) The hunchback jester Rigoletto has helped his master, the Duke of Mantua, to seduce the daughter of the courtier Monterone, who curses him. The duke believes that Rigoletto has a mistress (actually his daughter), Gilda, and seduces her. In revenge, Rigoletto plots to have the duke murdered, but the plot misfires and Gilda is killed instead. The curse has been fulfilled.

The Ring Cycle (Wagner, 1876) The Rhinegold: The magic Rhinegold is at the bottom of the River Rhine, guarded by the Rhinemaidens. Alberich, the wicked dwarf, steals it and makes a ring from it to become all-powerful. Meanwhile, the god Wotan is looking for money to pay for his castle of Valhalla and plots to steal the gold. He tricks Alberich into parting with it, but it is cursed and results in a death. The Valkyrie: Wotan has fathered nine warrior-maidens, the Valkyries; his favourite is Brünnhilde. He also has a son and a daughter, Siegmund and Sieglinde, who were separated at birth. In a storm, Siegmund takes shelter in a hut where Sieglinde lives with her husband Hunding. The two fall in love and run away but are pursued by Hunding, who kills Siegmund. Brünnhilde carries Siegmund off to Valhalla in defiance of her father, who condemns her to sleep in a ring of fire until a hero comes to rescue her. Siegfried: Sieglinde has died giving birth to a son, Siegfried, who has been brought up by the dwarf Mime in the hope that he will one day get the Ring back. With the help of Wotan and Brünnhilde, Siegfried is led to the magic rock where he awakes Brünnhilde and they fall in love. Twilight of the Gods: Siegfried has taken the Ring from the dragon that was guarding it and now gives it to Brünnhilde while he goes in search of further adventure. He reaches the Hall of the Gibichungs, who hope to marry him to their sister Gutrune. Although Brünnhilde comes with the Ring to rescue him, he is killed. Brünnhilde builds a funeral pyre for him and climbs on to it herself. The Rhinemaidens arrive in a flood and snatch back the Ring, while Valhalla is consumed in flames. It is the end of the gods.

Der Rosenkavalier (Strauss, 1911) The young Count Octavian is having an affair with an older woman, the Marschallin, although she knows it cannot last. Octavian is sent to bear a silver rose as a symbol of the forthcoming marriage of the beautiful young Sophie von Faninal to a much older man, Baron Ochs. The two young people fall in love, their elders realise that it is better to let them go, and Octavian and Sophie face a future together.

NB: The above is only a small selection of operas but offers a flavour of the moods and emotions that can be explored in others.

Ruslan and Lyudmila (Glinka, 1842) Svyetozar is hosting a wedding celebration for his daughter Lyudmila, who is betrothed to the knight Ruslan. The bard Bayan sings but foretells ill fortune for the newly-weds. A thunderclap followed by total darkness interrupts the festivities. Light returns but Lyudmila has disappeared.

Lyudmila's former suitors search in vain. Ruslan encounters the wise magician Finn, who tells him of Lyudmila's abduction by the evil dwarf Chernomor. Ruslan acquires a magic sword and challenges Chernomor to a duel. The dwarf casts a sleeping spell on Lyudmila before encountering Ruslan, who defeats him by cutting off his beard, the source of power. Ruslan awakens Lyudmila with a magic ring.

The Tales of Hoffmann (Offenbach, 1881) The poet Hoffmann relates the stories of the three loves of his life, all destroyed by the same evil genius. First, there is Olympia, who, he does not realize until too late, is only a mechanical doll. Then the courtesan Giulietta, who leaves him for another, and finally Antonia, a pure young girl who knows she will die if she tries to sing but is tricked into doing so. The story of loss is about to be repeated with the opera singer Stella, and Hoffmann is left alone to drown his sorrows in beer.

The Thieving Magpie (Rossini, 1817) Ninetta hopes to marry Giannetto, returning from the war. She tries to shelter her father Fernando Villabella, who has deserted from the army, and is troubled by the attentions of the mayor, Gottardo. A missing spoon and the evidence of Isacco, the pedlar, who has bought a piece of silver from Ninetta to raise money for her father, lead to her accusation and imprisonment. She is tried and found guilty, to be saved from death at the last minute by the discovery of the thief, the thieving magpie of the title.

Tosca (Puccini, 1900) The opera singer Floria Tosca is loved by the political agitator Cavaradossi and desired by the evil police chief Scarpia. Cavaradossi is arrested, but Scarpia promises Tosca he will free him if she agrees to give herself to him. She kills Scarpia, but he has tricked her and Cavaradossi is shot, whereupon Tosca throws herself to her death from the prison battlements.

La Traviata (The Fallen Woman) (Verdi, 1853) Violetta, a courtesan, has fallen in love with a young aristocrat, Alfredo, but Alfredo's father begs her to break off the relationship as it will bring disgrace to his family, and she goes back to her old life. Alfredo confronts and denounces her, but she is dying of consumption, and when, too late, he returns to her side, she dies in his arms.

Tristan und Isolde (Wagner, 1865) Isolde is to be married to King Mark of Cornwall and his nephew Tristan is sent to fetch her, but the two fall in love. After the wedding they meet, but they are discovered and Tristan is wounded. Isolde comes to him as he dies, then herself falls lifeless over his body.

Il Trovatore (The Troubadour) (Verdi, 1853) Leonora is being serenaded by a mysterious troubador, regarded as a rival by Count di Luna, who is in love with her. The troubador turns out to be Manrico, apparently the son of the gypsy Azucena. But Azucena explains that years ago, in revenge for the agony of seeing her mother burned to death, she threw the Count's abducted baby brother into the flames – but by mistake threw her own baby instead. Manrico and Leonora run away but are pursued by the Count, who imprisons Manrico. Leonora agrees to marry the Count as the price of Manrico's freedom, but then kills herself. The Count executes Manrico, then is told by Azucena that he has killed his own brother.

Turandot (Busoni, 1917) The cruel Chinese princess Turandot will marry only if a suitor prince can solve her three riddles. If he cannot, he will die. An unknown prince answers the riddles correctly but tells her that if she can discover his name by morning, he will agree to die. Turandot tortures the slave girl Liu, who knows the name but will not reveal it, and Liu eventually dies. The prince tells Turandot his name. It is 'Love,' and she accepts him as her husband.

Wozzeck (Berg, 1922) Wozzeck is shaving the Captain, who tells him to go slower and makes fun of him, particularly over the matter of his illegitimate child. Wozzeck's common-law wife, Marie, is seduced by a Drum Major. Wozzeck enters, suspicious of the earrings that the Drum Major has given, which she claims to have found in the street. In the guard-room Wozzeck fights with the boasting Drum Major. In the half-light of evening Marie and Wozzeck walk together along a forest path. He talks of fidelity and love and stabs her. Wozzeck drinks to forget, his blood-stained hands noticed by Margret, Marie's neighbour. Wozzeck returns to the forest path, looking for his knife. Stumbling against Marie's body, he finally goes mad, wading into the forest pool, where he drowns. The Doctor and the Captain pass by, unconcerned.

Not written to celebrate opening of Suez Canal

Story of Federico García Lorca and his lover, Catalan actress Margarita Xirgu

Dick Riddell, Bob Israel & Shalom Goldman helped with libretto

1st work written for the English Opera Group

Based on the play Alcestis by Euripides.

Adaptation of the poem The Gypsies by Alexander Pushkin

Contains song 'Rule, Britannia'

Chin's first opera in which she also contributed towards the libretto

Handel's first opera

Based on the play Alzire, ou les Américains by Voltaire.

First opera written for TV

Based on a story by Stephen Wadsworth

Composed in 1936 when Menotti was twenty-three.

Based on novel L'ami Fritz by Émile Eckmann & Pierre-Alexandre Chatrian.

Revised for La Scala production 12 February 1871 – its last performance

Based on the life of the French poet (1762-1794) executed during French Revolution.

Based on the poem Aniara by Harry Martinson

Jane Seymour/Anne Boleyn duet "Sul suo capo aggravì un Dio" operatic masterpiece

First performed after Dupont's death in a grandiose and exotically dark production

Premiere on 16 September was also the opening of the Metropolitan Opera House

The composer's sixth and last operatic collaboration with the librettist

Developed from a thirty-minute divertissement Strauss first performed in 1912.

English translation: Ariadne and Bluebeard

Unusual in that the title role of Arlecchino is primarily a speaking role

Gluck's own favourite among his works

The first English opera seria

Based on Shakespeare's Henry IV, Part 1 and Henry IV, Part 2.

Libretto differs from Sterbini's by emphasising the love story rather than the comedy

Based on Beaumarchais comedy

Notable for folksongs and Bohemian dance forms such as the polka and furiant

Constructed like a classical symphony in four 'movements'

Based on the play of the same title by Anton Chekhov

Prizewinner in Festival of Britain Competition 1951

Based on Shakespeare's Much Ado About Nothing.

Poly Henriot was the pseudonym of Leonhard Kohl von Kohlenegg

Pepusch merely provided incidental music to John Gay's ballad opera

Based on the comedy Belfagor of Ercole Luigi Morselli

Based on the life of Belisarius the 6th century Byzantine Empire

Opera bouffe parodying Helen's elopement with Paris, which set off the Trojan War

Aka Les cloches de Corneville, or in English as The Chimes of Normandy

Based on the memoirs of the Florentine sculptor Benvenuto Cellini

Originally entitled Berenice, regina d'Egitto (Berenice, Queen of Egypt)

Only men in the cast

Based on the Gerhart Hauptmann play of the same title

Based on short story Der blonde Eckbert by German Romantic writer Ludwig Tieck

*The original German titles for the opera cycle Light: The Seven Days of the Week (Licht: die sieben Tage der Woche) are Monday from Light (Montag aus Licht), Tuesday from Light (Dienstag aus Licht), Wednesday from Light (Mittwoch aus Licht), Thursday from Light (Donnerstag aus Licht), Friday from Light (Freitag aus Licht), Saturday from Light (Samstag aus Licht), Sunday from Light (Sonntag aus Licht).

Wednesday and Sunday were first produced after the composer's death. Light (Licht) consists of 29 hours of music and the theme is unification of religion, science and philosophy within a mythological setting.

Not only is each of the seven operas a self-sufficient work, but so are the individual acts, scenes, and, in some cases - part scenes.

Each day of the cycle is also assigned a principal colour, as well as one or more secondary colours as follows: Monday (dedicated to Eve – principal colour bright green and secondary colours opal and silver), Tuesday (principal colour red), Wednesday (principal colour bright yellow), Thursday (dedicated to Michael – principal colour bright blue), Friday (principal colour orange), Saturday (dedicated to Lucifer - principal colour black) and Sunday (principal colour gold).

NB: The theme tunes or signature tunes above are the ones the people themselves considered to be so, and not always the one most readily identifiable with the artist. For example, few would consider 'Yours' to be more identifiable with Vera Lynn than 'The White Cliffs of Dover'. Similarly, 'Take Me To Your Heart Again' is certainly not the most famous Edith Piaf song.

It is probably a good idea at this stage to lay to rest once and for all the most common source of frustration for quiz players on the topic of signature tunes, i.e. is Glenn Miller's signature tune 'In the Mood' or 'Moonlight Serenade'? The problem arises because 'In the Mood' was one of Glenn Miller's most popular tunes and was featured in both Sun Valley Serenade and The Glenn Miller Story; however, Glenn Miller himself composed 'Moonlight Serenade' and always considered this to be his signature tune. Joe Loss did in fact record 'In the Mood' and subsequently adopted it as his signature.

The featured artists in the original recording with their lyrics are as follows: (Paul Young) It's Christmas time, There's no need to be afraid. At Christmas time, We let in light and we banish shade (Boy George) And in our world of plenty We can spread a smile of joy, Throw your arms around the world at Christmas time (George Michael) But say a prayer, Pray for the other ones, At Christmas time it's hard (Simon Le Bon) But when you're having fun, There's a world outside your window (Sting) And it's a world of dread and fear, Where the only water flowing is (Bono) joins in) The bitter sting of fears, And the Christmas bells that are ringing, Are clanging chimes of doom (Bono) only) Well, tonight thank God it's them instead of you (All) And there won't be snow in Africa this Christmas time, The greatest gift they'll get this year is life, Where nothing ever grows, No rain or river flows, Do they know it's Christmas time at all? Feed the world, Let them know it's Christmas time, Feed the world, Do they know it's Christmas time at all? (Paul Young) Here's to you raise a glass for everyone, Here's to them underneath the burning sun, Do they know it's Christmas time at all? (All) chorus repeat.

The official BBC Children in Need Medley performed by Peter Kay's Animated All Star Band consisted of the following songs, in order: 'Can You Feel It' (The Jacksons), 'Don't Stop' (Fleetwood Mac/Status Quo), 'Jai Ho' (A R Rahman & The Pussycat Dolls), 'Tubthumping' (Chumbawamba), 'Never Forget' (Take That), 'Hey Jude' (The Beatles), 'One Day Like This' (Elbow).

NB: There are a number of points that should be borne in mind when studying the above tables.

First, it should be remembered that in many instances there would be more than one representation of a god for a particular subject. For example, as well as Aegir, both Njord and Vili are often described as Norse gods of the sea. In all cases I have listed the main god who is usually identified with the subject.

Second, there is often a transposition of gods in some mythologies, and in particular the Middle East should be treated with some care. Babylonian mythology is often called Assyrian, Akkadian or Persian, while Phoenician can also be called Hittite as well as Assyrian and Akkadian.

Third, where there is controversy over an entry or there is no god who represents a subject, the word ‘Uncertain’ has been entered; this does not mean, for instance, that there was no Egyptian god of love but merely that there is not a single god who unequivocally fits the criteria of being both universally accepted and identifiable.

Twelve Labours of Heracles

Killing of the Nemean lion Heracles beat the lion senseless and throttled it; he then skinned the lion with its own claws and donned the pelt to render himself invulnerable.

Killing of the Lernaean Hydra
Iolaus cauterised the neck of the Hydra to prevent the two new heads growing each time that Heracles chopped off one of its nine heads.

Capture of the Hind on Mt Ceryneia
Heracles chased the Hind for a year, for its golden horns and bronze hoofs. He blamed Eurystheus for its capture so as not to bring the wrath of Artemis on himself.

Capture of the Boar of Mt Erymanthus Heracles returned with the Boar to Tiryns, and Eurystheus hid in an urn at its sight.

Cleansing of the Augean stables
Heracles cleaned the stables, which had not been cleaned in 30 years, by diverting the rivers Alpheus and Peneus through them.

Killing of the Birds of Lake Stymphalos Heracles scared them from the trees with bronze castanets and shot them with arrows.

Capture of the Cretan Bull
Heracles captured the Bull and returned it to Greece.

Capture of the Mares of Diomedes
Heracles slew Diomedes, fed him to the Mares and tamed them.

Capture of the Girdle of Hippolyte Heracles slew the queen of the Amazons and took the Girdle for Eurystheus' daughter.

Capture of Geryon's Cattle
Heracles slew Geryon and returned to Greece with the Cattle.

Capture of the Apples of the Hesperides
Heracles slew Ladon, the dragon that guarded the tree tended by the Hesperides, and took the Golden Apples (later returned by Athene).

Capture of Cerberus
Heracles entered the underworld to capture the 3-headed dog.

General Information

Abderus Friend of Heracles in whose care Heracles left the mares of Diomedes. The horses ate him and Heracles founded a town in Thrace in his honour.

Abnoba The goddess of the hunt in the mythology of Gaul. Identified with the Roman Diana.

Achelous Greek river god, the son of Oceanus and Tethys.

Achilles Greek hero, born in Thessaly, son of Peleus and the goddess Thetis. When he was a baby his mother dipped him in the Styx, making him invulnerable save for his right heel, by which she held him.

Actaeon Greek hero, grandson of Cadmus, changed into a stag by Artemis and killed by his own hounds because he spied her bathing.

Admetus In Greek mythology the king of Pherae in Thessaly. Apollo served him for a year and introduced him to Alcestis.

Adonis Syrian god, the son of Myrrha and her father Cinyras. He was born from the bark of a tree and brought up by Persephone and forced to spend a third of his time with her and a third with Aphrodite. He was mortally wounded by a wild boar sent by a hostile god or goddess.

Aeacus Son of Zeus and Aegina and king of the Myrmidones. The Myrmidones were originally ants, transformed into men by Zeus at the request of Aeacus. He had two sons, Peleus and Telamon, by his wife Endeis and was also the father of Phocus by a Nereid. Aeacus was one of the three judges of the Underworld.

Aeëtes In Greek mythology, the king of Colchis and possessor of the Golden Fleece sought by Jason.

Aegeus Greek king of Athens and father of Theseus by Aethra, daughter of Pittheus, king of Troezen. Aethra brought Theseus up secretly at her father's court, during which time Aegeus married Medea. When Theseus finally returned to his father's court, Medea fled. Before Theseus went to slay the Minotaur he and Aegeus agreed that he would hoist a white sail when returning to Athens to signal his success. On returning, Theseus forgot to do this and Aegeus, seeing a black sail on his son's ship, supposed him dead and, in grief, threw himself into the sea, henceforth called the Aegean.

Aegisthus In Greek mythology the seducer of Clytemnestra, the wife of his cousin Agamemnon, whom the two lovers conspired to kill. Agamemnon's son Orestes avenged the assassination by killing Aegisthus and Clytemnestra.

Aeneas Trojan hero, son of Aphrodite and Anchises, bravest of the Trojans after Hector and, according to some Roman lines of mythology, the founder of Rome. Aeneas was the lover of Dido, queen of Carthage.

Aeneid Virgil's unfinished epic poem in 12 volumes recounting the deeds of Aeneas, supposed ancestor of Emperor Augustus of Rome. The epic begins after the fall of Troy and ends with the defeat of Turnus the Rutulian prince and the subsequent marriage of Aeneas and Lavinia, the Latin princess.

Aeolus Greek god of the winds and son of Poseidon who gave Odysseus a sack containing all the winds.

Aesculapius Roman god of medicine. Greek -counterpart is Asclepius.

Aesir Norse race of warlike gods, who lived in Asgard. They included Odin, Thor, Tyr, Baldur and Frigg (see Vanir).

Aetolus Conqueror of Aetolia. The son of Endymion, king of Elis, he was banished across the Corinthian Gulf after accidentally killing Apis in a chariot race.

Agamemnon Greek king of Argos, murdered by his wife Clytemnestra.

Aganippe Fountain at the foot of Mt Helicon, sacred to the Muses, who are sometimes called the Aganippides.

Ajax (the greater) Greek hero, a giant of a man, the son of Telamon. Killed himself in fury at not receiving Achilles's armour after his death.

Ajax (the lesser) Greek hero, son of Oileus. Raped King Priam's daughter Cassandra on the altar of Athene.

Alcestis Greek heroine who saved her husband Admetus by offering her own life.

Alcheringa According to Australian aboriginal mythology, the Golden Age when the first ancestors were created.

Alcides Another name for Heracles, whose grand-father was reputed to be Alcaeus.

Alcmene Wife of Amphitriton, son of Alcaeus. Alcmene mothered Heracles by Zeus in the guise of her husband. Married Rhadamanthus after Amphitriton's death.

Hindu myth and religion Of all the world's leading mythologies, by far the most complex and expansive are Hindu beliefs. Even the term 'mythology' does not sit easily with a body of culture that is still revered today. It is beyond the scope of this work to trace the roots of Hindu beliefs and philosophy with its many tributaries, which themselves form a whole, separate strata of mythology. Many of the gods have personifications under differing names, and others have re-incarnations (avatars), which may bring with them a whole new substrata of mythology. Hindu mythology does not lend itself to fall comfortably within the table of comparative gods, indeed, the choice of Indra as principal god, or king of the gods, can only be loosely adhered to as a comparative to Zeus or Jupiter. Hindu mythology can be further divided into pre-Vedic, late-Vedic, post-Vedic, pre-Aryan post-Aryan and Classical, all of which has its own version of the creation. In the late-Vedic period, c.1200 bc, Brahma might have been considered the most important Hindu god, but he was gradually eclipsed by Vishnu and S(h)iva. Strict adherence to the Veda would place Prajapati (Lord of Creatures) as the creator god. In another version, the Prajapatis are the 10 'mind-born' children of Brahma. The -traditional Trimurti of Brahma, Vishnu and S(h)iva, would be considered the most important Hindu gods, but it is true to say that Indra is the equivalent of Zeus in Greek mythology or Jupiter in Roman.

cavy any small South American rodent of the family Caviidae, especially of the genus Cavia.

cayman (caiman) reptile of the family Alligatoridae (alligators and caymans), inhabiting riverbanks of Central and South America.

centipede carnivorous arthropod, having a body of between 14 and 190 segments, each bearing one pair of legs. The common house centipede, order Scutigera, is 25 millimetres (1 inch) long with a black striped body and 15 pairs of legs. Class: Chilopoda.

chamois agile goat-antelope native to the mountains of Europe and Asia. Sp.: Rupicapra rupicapra.

cheese-fly small black fly that breeds in cheese. Sp.: Piophilidae casei.

cheetah fastest-running feline with a leopard-like spotted coat and non-retractable claws. Sp.: Acinonyx jubatus.

chigger tropical flea of which females burrow under people's skin, causing painful sores. Aka chigoe, sand flea and jigger. Sp.: Tunga penetrans.

chimpanzee tailless primate of the family Pongidae, inhabiting forests and savannahs of tropical west and central Africa. The two species are the common chimpanzee (Pan troglodytes) and the pygmy chimpanzee (Pan paniscus).

chinchilla small South American rodent of the family Chinchillidae, which is bred in captivity for its soft grey fur. Chinchillas resemble long-tailed rabbits, although their ears are smaller. Sp.: Chinchilla laniger.

Chinese water deer along with the musk deer, one of only two species of deer that do not have antlers. Sp.: Hydropotes inermis.

chipmunk North American ground squirrel having alternate light and dark stripes running down the body. Gen.: Tamias.

cicada any of 1,500 varieties of winged-insects of the order Homoptera. The dog-day cicada of the genus Tibicen, is typically 3 centimetres long with greenish head and wings, acting as a canopy over its abdomen and thorax. The so-called periodic cicadas of the genus Magicicada, including the 17-year and 13-year cicadas, are darker in colour and have red eyes.

clouded leopard large spotted arboreal cat of South-east Asia. Sp.: Neofelis nebulosa.

colugo see flying lemur.

coral any of a variety of invertebrate marine organisms of the phylum Cnidaria, class Anthozoa, characterised by having spikey, leathery or stonelike skeletons. Stony coral, of the order Madreporaria, form reefs and islands. Red coral, of the genus Corallium, also known as precious coral, is used to make ornaments and jewellery.

coyote aka prairie wolf. Predatory canine mammal of North America, smaller than the wolf. Sp.: Canis latrans.

crane-fly large two-winged flies with very long legs. Aka daddy-long-legs or leatherjacket. Family: Tipulidae.

crayfish small lobster-like freshwater crustacean. Aka spiny lobster. Gen.: Astacus.

cribo large, non-venomous American snake. Aka indigo snake or gopher snake. Sp.: Drymarchon corais.

crocodile any reptile of the family Crocodylidae, typically having a broad head, tapering snout, massive jaws, and a thick outer covering of boney scales. The salt water crocodile may grow up to 7 metres long and is the world's largest reptile. The sex of a crocodile is decided during incubation: a male is born if the egg is maintained at a constant 31.6 ° Celsius; hotter or colder and the sex is female. Gen.: Crocodylus.

crown of thorns starfish that feeds on coral polyps and has increasingly threatened Australia's Great Barrier Reef. The species can grow up to 50 centimetres, has numerous red spines and may have up to 19 arms. Sp.: Acanthaster planci.

dace freshwater fish related to the carp. Sp.: Leuciscus leuciscus.

death's-head hawk-moth Large dark hawk-moth with yellowish underwings and skull-like markings on the back of the thorax. Sp.: Acherontia atropos.

dragonfly predatory insect of the suborder Anisoptera, order Odonata, having a large head and eyes, long slender body and two pairs of iridescent wings, which may have a span in excess of 15 centimetres. Sp.: Libellula forensis. Alternative names of the dragonfly include devil's darning needle and devil's arrow.

duck-billed platypus amphibious egg-laying mammal of eastern Australia, having dense fur, a broad flat bill and tail and webbed feet. The platypus and echidna are the only two members of the order Monotremata, i.e. mammals that lay eggs. The male has a toxic horny spur on both hind legs, the venom of which is powerful enough to kill a dog and cause excruciating pain to humans. An excellent swimmer, the platypus has a buoyant body so always swims in a downward tract and is capable of being submerged for up to 10 minutes if resting. Sp.: Ornithorhynchus anatinus.

dugong large marine mammal of the order Sirenia, closely related to the manatee; the sole extant member of the family Dugongidae. The dugong is shorter than the manatee and darker skinned but has the same body shape. Manatees inhabit the waters of the Caribbean, South America and West Africa, while the dugongs are found in East African and Australian waters. Like the manatee, the dugong is also sometimes called a sea cow because of its grass-eating habits. Sightings of dugongs and manatees by early explorers gave rise to the mythology of mermaids and sirens. Sp.: Dugong dugon.

duiker mostly forest-dwelling African antelopes having a crest of long hair between their horns. Gen.: Cephalophus and Sylvicapra.

eagle ray large ray with long pointed pectoral fins. Family: Myliobatidae.

earth worm any of various species of ground worms of the phylum Annelida, class Oligochaeta, especially members of the genera Lumbricus, Allolobophora and Eisenia.

echidna egg-laying insectivorous mammals native to Australia and New Guinea, with a covering of spines, a long snout and long claws. Aka spiny anteater. Family: Tachyglossidae.

eel teleost fish having long, snake-like body, smooth slimy skin and reduced fins. Gen.: Anguilla.

elephant: African larger of the two species of elephant. Sp.: Loxodonta africana.

fallfish freshwater fish of North America resembling the chub. Sp.: Semotilus corporalis.

fallow deer small deer having a white-spotted reddish-brown coat in the summer. Sp.: Dama dama.

fennec smallest fox, native to North Africa and Arabia, having large pointed ears. Sp.: Vulpes zerda.

fer-de-lance large, highly venomous pit viper of tropical South America and the West Indies. Sp.: Bothrops atrox.

fly member of the insect order Diptera, containing over 85,000 species divided into the suborders Nematocera (midges, gnats, crane flies and mosquitoes), Brachycera (bee flies, robber flies and horse flies) and Cyclorrhapha (house flies, fruit flies, blow flies, and leafminers). Dipterans are distinguished from other insects (such as dragonflies and mayflies) by their wing structure, the so-called 'true' flies being characterised by the use of only one pair of wings for flight, the second pair becoming fixed and being used for balance. The smallest two-winged flies are midges, and the largest are robber flies of the family Asilidae, which can attain lengths of up to 8 centimetres.

flying fox fruitbats with fox-like heads, largest species with wingspan approaching 2 metres. Family: Pteropodidae.

flying lemur either of two lemur-like mammals of South-east Asia, having a membrane between the fore and hind limbs for gliding from tree to tree. Aka colugo. Gen.: Cynocephalus.

flying lizard long-tailed lizard of S.E. Asia with elongated ribs supporting membranes for gliding. Gen.: Draco.

flying squirrel any squirrel with skin joining the fore and hind limbs for gliding from tree to tree. Gen.: Aeromys, Belomys, Eupetdurus, Glaucomys, Hylopetes, Petaurista, Petinomys, Pteromys, Pteromyscus, Trogopterus.

fox various members of the dog family, Canidae, typically small in stature with a bushy tail known as a brush. They include the African Sand, Bat-eared, Bengal, Black, Blanford's, Brant, Chama, Corsac, Hoary, Indian, Kit, Pale, Rüppell's, Samson, Sand, Silver, Steppe, Swift and Tibetan Sand. Gen.: Vulpes, Dusicyon, Alopex, Otocyon.

frog several families of the order Anura, mainly insectivorous amphibians having a short, tailless body with long hind legs for hopping. The European common frog is Sp.: Rana temporaria.

furniture beetle beetle whose larvae bore into wood and are known as 'woodworm'. Sp.: Anobium punctatum.

galliwasp West Indian lizard. Sp.: Diploglossus monotropis.

garfish marine fish having long, beak-like jaws with sharp teeth. Aka needlefish. Family: Belonidae.

gavial (gharial) long-snouted reptile of the order Crocodylia, and the only species of the family Gavialidae. The gavial inhabits the rivers of northern India and grows to a length of up to 5 metres. Sp.: Gavialis gangeticus.

gazelle antelope of Asia or Africa. Gen.: Gazella, Antelope, Antidoreas, Procapra, Ammodoreas, Litocranius.

gecko nocturnal lizards found in warm climes, with adhesive feet for climbing purposes, the only lizards with voices. Family: Gekkonidae.

gelada brownish baboon with a bare red patch on its chest, native to Ethiopia. Sp.: Theropithecus gelada.

gemsbok large antelope of south-west and east Africa. Sp.: Oryx gazella.

gerbil various genera of mouse-like desert rodents. The species often kept as a pet is Meriones unguiculatus, the Mongolian gerbil.

narwhal small Arctic whale, the male of which has a long, straight, spirally twisted tusk developed from one of its teeth. Sp.: Monodon monoceros.

natterjack toad of western Eurasia with a bright yellow stripe down its back and moving by running not hopping. Sp.: Bufo calamita.

newt any of more than 40 species of tailed amphibian of the order Urodela and family Salamandridae. Aquatic newts have smooth moist skins, while terrestrial species have rough skin and are known as eft. British newts are of the genera Triturus (tritons), the most common being the smooth newt (Triturus vulgaris).

nilgai large short-horned Indian antelope. Sp.: Boselaphus tragocamelus.

Norway lobster small European lobster or scampi. Aka Dublin Bay prawn. Sp.: Nephrops norvegicus.

numbat small western Australian termite-eating marsupial with a bushy tail and black and white striped back. Sp.: Myrmecobius fasciatus.

nurse shark Atlantic and Caribbean shark of the family Orectolobidae. Yellow-brown or grey-brown in colour and growing up to 4.2 metres, they are the most common hazard to divers although rarely fatally as their teeth are relatively small. Sp.: Ginglymostoma cirratum.

ocelot medium-size cat native to the Americas, having a deep yellow or orange coat with black striped and spotted markings. Sp.: Felis pardalis.

octopus any cephalopod mollusc of the order Octopoda, varying in size from 1 centimetre to almost 6 metres, with an armspan of almost 9 metres. Octopuses (or octopi) have 8 tentacles and eject an inky fluid when attacked. The largest species is the North Pacific octopus (Octopus dofleini) and the smallest is the Californian octopus (Octopus micropyrsus).The common octopus (Octopus vulgaris) reaches an average size of 1 metre. The octopus has the most complex brain of any invertebrate, having both long-term and short-term memories.

opah large, rare, deep-sea fish having a silver-blue back with white spots and crimson fins. Aka moonfish. Sp.: Lampris guttatus.

opossum any mainly tree-living marsupial of the family Didelphidae, native to North and South America, and having a prehensile tail and hind feet with an opposable thumb.

orang-utan large, red, long-haired, tree-living ape native to Borneo and Sumatra. Aka wild man of the woods. Sp.: Pongo pygmaeus.

orfe freshwater cyprinid fish of Europe that occurs in two colour varieties i.e. golden and silver. Orfes are often called goldfish. Sp.: Idus idus.

oribi small African grazing antelope having reddish-fawn back and white underparts. Sp.: Ourebia ourebi.

oryx large African antelope having long straight nearly upright horns. Gen.: Oryx.

otter freshwater carnivorous mammals of Europe, Asia, Africa and the Americas, with smooth fur and webbed feet. Sub-family Lutrinae.

paddlefish primitive bony fish of the Mississippi and Yangtze rivers, leaden grey, with a long flat snout. Sp.: Polyodon spathula and Psephurus gladius paddymelon (pademelon) small wallaby of coastal scrubby regions of Australia. Gen.: Thylogale.

painted lady orange-red butterfly with black and white spots. Sp.: Cynthia cardui.

panda: giant large, rare, bear-like mammal native to certain mountain bamboo forests of China, having characteristic black and white markings. Sp.: Ailuropoda melanoleuca.

panda: red Himalayan raccoon-like mammal with reddish-brown fur and a long, bushy tail. Sp.: Ailurus fulgens.

pangolin various mammal species native to Asia and Africa covered with overlapping horny scales and having a small head with elongated snout and tongue, with which they feed on ants, and a tapering tail. Aka scaly anteater. Gen.: Manus.

peacock butterfly butterfly with eye-like markings on its wings. Sp.: Inachis io.

pearl-oyster any of various marine bivalve molluscs of the genus Pinctada, bearing pearls.

peccary three species of American, wild, pig-like mammals of the family Tayassuidae. Sp.: Tayassu tajacu, Tayassu pecari and Catagonus wagneri.

Père David’s deer large, slender-antlered deer, named after Father A David, French missionary and naturalist (d. 1900). Sp.: Elaphurus davidiensis.

phalanger any of various species of Australasian marsupial mammals of the family Phalangeridae, also known as possums on the Australian mainland and Tasmania.

plaice European flatfish having a brown back with orange spots and a white underside, much used for food. Sp.: Pleuronectes platessa.

polar bear white carnivorous bear of coastal regions of the North Pole. Sp.: Ursus maritimus.

polecat (European) small, brownish-black, fetid flesh-eating mammal of the weasel family. Sp.: Mustela putorius.

porpoise any of various marine cetacean mammals of the families Delphinidae and Phocoenidae, which are typically smaller than dolphins and with chubbier shape and blunter snout. Sp.: Phocoena phocoena.

possum any member of the Phalangeridae family of marsupial mammals native to Australasia. Possums are tree-dwellers. The brush-tailed possum (Trichosurus vulpecula) is the most common marsupial in Australia.

potto short-tailed prosimian primate, of the family Lorisidae, having vertebral spines protruding through its neck. The potto is often confused with the kinkajou, as it is a slow-moving, nocturnal, arboreal mammal.

prawn any of various marine decapod crustaceans of the genera Palaemon and Penaeus, similar to shrimps but having two pairs of pincers.

pterodactyl extinct flying reptile of the late Jurassic, having membranous wings supported on an elongated 4th digit. Gen.: Pterodactylus.

puma largest American feline mammal, resembling a lion. It is the best jumper of the cat family. Aka cougar or mountain lion. Sp.: Felis concolor.

pygmy white-toothed shrew smallest member of the mouse-like, long-snouted mammals of the family Soricidae. Sp.: Suncus etruseus.

quokka small marsupial resembling a wallaby, primarily inhabiting Rottnest Island off the coast of Perth, Western Australia. Sp.: Setonix brachyurus.

rabbit burrowing leporid mammal which is smaller than a hare and has much shorter ears. The European rabbit is Oryctolagus cuniculus.

raccoon omnivorous mammal of the genus Procyon occupying diverse habitats in North and South America. It has a pointed muzzle, long tail and greyish-black fur with black bands around the tail and across the face. The common raccoon of North America is Procyon lotor.

ratel see badger (honey).

red deer forest-dweller of Europe and western to central Asia. Males are called harts and females, hinds. Harts with 12 tines are known as 'Royal' and one with 14 tines is a 'Wilson'. Sp.: Cervus elaphus.

ring-tailed lemur rock-dwelling lemur with elongated hind legs and a long tail with brown and white ringed markings. Sp.: Lemur catta.

Rocky Mountain goat massive, yellowish-white goat-antelope inhabiting mountains in western North America. Sp.: Oreamnos americanus.

roe deer small, graceful woodland deer of Eurasia, the males having small antlers and a reddish-brown summer coat. Sp.: Capreolus capreolus.

sable marten of northern Asian and Japanese forests, with dark brown luxuriant fur. Sp.: Martes zibellina.

sabre-toothed tiger extinct, lion-size mammal of the cat family (only distantly related to the tiger) with long, curved, upper canine teeth. Aka sabre-toothed cat. Gen.: Smilodon.

salamander any tailed amphibian of the order Urodela that most commonly inhabit freshwater and damp woodlands. Salamanders resemble lizards but are related to newts in the family Salamandridae, and can be aquatic, semi-aquatic, or terrestrial. They are generally very small (10–15 centimetres) but giant salamanders may attain a length of up to 180 centimetres. The semi-aquatic Chinese giant salamander (Andrias davidianus) grows in excess of 1 metre but the largest salamander is the Japanese giant salamander (Andrias japonicus).

sand lizard small, green-grey-brown Eurasian lizard with long clawed digits. Sp.: Lacerta agilis.

scorpion arachnid of the order Scorpionida, having an elongated body and a segmented, upwardly curving tail that is tipped with a venomous stinger. During mating the male and female perform a courtship dance and after copulation the female often devours the male.

seal: eared carnivorous pinniped (paddle-footed) aquatic mammal of the family Otariidae, which comes to shore to breed. Eared seals swim by 'rowing' with their front flippers and can turn their hindflippers forward to walk on land.

seal: elephant large seal, the male having an inflatable snout. Aka sea elephant. Gen.: Mirounga.

seal: true carnivorous pinniped (paddle-footed) aquatic mammal of the family Phocidae, which comes to shore to breed. They are earless, swim with their hindflippers, and hump along on land, unable to use their hindflippers as support.

sea squirt any small primitive marine animal of the class Ascidiacea, having a sac-like body with openings through which water enters and leaves. Sea squirts are sedentary and sessile and can be found on coral reefs, pier pilings, ships' hulls, rocks and seashells. Peculiarly, they can be found on the backs of some species of crabs, while other species of crabs may dwell inside the cavities of a sea squirt.

serval slender feline mammal of the African savanna, having an orange-brown coat with black spots, large ears and long legs. Sp.: Felis serval.

shark any of the cartilaginous fish of the class Chondrichthyes with pointed snouts extending over a crescent-shaped mouth. Sharks do not have a swim bladder. There are more than 200 living species of shark including the hammerhead, mako, thresher, bull, bonnethead and Greenland. See also separate entries.

sheep any of various bovid mammals having ribbed horns and a narrow face. Domesticated breeds, genus Ovis, include Border Leicester, Cheviot, Clun Forest, Cobb 101, Cotswold, Dartmoor, Devon Longwool, Dorset Down, Dorset Horn, Exmoor Horned, Hampshire, Herdwick, Ile-de-France, Karakul, Kerry Hill, Leicester, Lincoln, The Lonk, Masham, Merino, Oxford, Rambouillet, Romney, Roscommon, Ryeland, Scottish Blackface, Shropshire, Southdown, Suffolk, Swaledale, Welsh Mountain, Wensleydale and Wiltshire Horned.

shrew small, mouse-like, long-snouted mammals of the order Insectivora, family Soricidae. The European common shrew is Sorex araneus. Aka shrewmouse.

shrew: elephant small, insect-eating mammals native to Africa, having a long snout and long hind limbs Family: Macroscelididae.

shrimp any of various marine decapod crustaceans of the genus Crangon, having a slender flattened body, long tail and a single pair of pincers. Although large shrimps in excess of 5 millimetres are sometimes called prawns, this is misleading as a prawn is a distinct species with two sets of pincers. The two most important shrimps are the common shrimp (Crangon vulgaris) and the edible shrimp (Peneus setiferus).

skunk American musteline mammals of the sub-family Mephitinae, typically having a black and white coat and bushy tail.They eject a foul-smelling fluid from the anal gland when attacked. The familiar striped skunk is Mephitis mephitis.

slender-tailed meerkat see suricate.

sloth shaggy-coated, arboreal edentate mammals of Central and South America that hang upside down by their arms. Three-toed sloths, genus Bradypus; two-toed sloths, genus Choloepus.

slow worm Eurasian legless lizard with brownish-grey, snake-like body. Sp.: Anguis fragilis.

snake (grass) non-venomous European snake having brownish-green body. Sp.: Natrix natrix.

snow leopard large, feline, mammal of mountainous regions of central Asia, having a long, pale brown coat marked with black rosettes. Aka ounce. Sp.: Panthera uncia.

solenodon rare, shrew-like, nocturnal mammal of the West Indies, having a long hairless tail and an elongated snout. Cuban species, Solenodon cubanus; Hispaniola species, Solenodon paradoxus.

spectacled bear solitary South American species of the family Ursidae and inhabiting mountainous terrain, which gives it an alternative name of Andean bear. It grows up to 180 centimetres long (6 feet) and has a dark brown coat, with whitish markings around its eyes and facial circumference. Sp.: Tremarctos ornatus.

sponge any member of primitive multicellular aquatic animals of the phylum Porifera, which have porous, baglike bodies with a skeleton of hard spicules or elastic fibres. The dried skeleton of sponges are procured for commercial purposes as bathroom sponges because of their ability to hold water.

squirrel (grey) grey-furred squirrel native to eastern North America but found worldwide. Sp.: Sciurus carolinensis.

starfish any echinoderm of the classes Asteroidea (sea stars) and Ophiuroidea (brittle stars), typically having a flat body and 5 tentacles, although some species may have many more.

stoat small, long-bodied carnivorous mammal of the weasel family having reddish-brown upper parts and a black-tipped tail and in northern areas turning white in winter, when it is known as ermine. Sp.: Mustela erminea.

sturgeon primitive bony fish of temperate waters of the northern hemisphere, valued as a source of caviar and isinglass. Lake sturgeons can live to well over 100 years old. Family: Acipenseridae.

sugar glider Australian possum that glides from tree to tree by means of a fold of skin that joins its front and hind legs. The sugar glider is also known as the flying possum or flying phalanger. Sp.: Petaurus breviceps.

suricate southern African mongoose which has a lemur-like face. Aka slender-tailed meerkat. Sp.: Suricata suricatta.

swallowtail butterfly member of the subfamily Papilioninae, order Lepidoptera. Swallowtails are found worldwide and are named for the tail-like extensions of their hindwings. Gen.: Papilio.

taipan large highly venomous snake of north-east Australia, dark brown with a creamy-coloured head. Sp.: Oxyuranus scutellatus.

tapeworm any of various parasitic flatworms of the order Cestoda, which attack the liver and digestive tract of vertebrates.

tapir four species of forest-dwelling perissodactyl mammals of South and Central America and South-east Asia, having an elongated snout, three-toed hind legs and four-toed forelegs. Genus Tapirus.

tarpon large, silvery, game fish of warm Atlantic waters, having a compressed, scaled body. Tarpon atlanticus is the best-known species.

Tasmanian devil small, ferocious, carnivorous marsupial having black fur with pale markings, strong jaws and short legs. Aka ursine dasyure. Sp.: Sarcophilus harrisi.

Tasmanian wolf see thylacine.

tayra large, arboreal, musteline mammal of Central and South America, having a dark brown body and paler head. Sp.: Eira barbata.

tededu see Malayan stink badger.

tenrec: tailless small mammal of Madagascar (but largest insectivore), resembling a hedgehog or shrew. Sp.: Tenrec ecaudatus.

termite whitish, ant-like insect of the order Isoptera. The two main species are 'ground' termites and 'drywood' termites. Termites feed on cellulose, which is found in wood and wood products. They are social insects, and a typical colony would include workers, soldiers, winged reproductives, and a king and queen. The alternative name for a termite is 'white ant', although there are subtle differences between the body shape of an ant and a termite. An ant has a tapered abdomen, while that of a termite is straight. The ant also has bent antennae whereas the termite's are straight. The winged reproductives are similar to flying ants, although their double wings are even in size while the ant's double wings are uneven in size.

thylacine presumed extinct, dog-like carnivorous marsupial of Tasmania, having greyish-brown fur with dark vertical stripes on the back. Aka Tasmanian wolf. Sp.: Thylacinus cynocephalus.

tick small parasitic arachnid of the families Ixodidae and Nuttalliellidae (hard ticks) and Argasidae (soft ticks). Ticks dwell on the skin of warm-blooded animals and feed on the blood and tissues of their hosts.

tiger large Asian feline mammal with yellowy coat and black stripes. Sp.: Panthera tigris.

tiger shark large voracious shark of the family Carcharhinidae. Possess a reputation as a man-eater, but although undoubtedly capable of eating almost anything, in actuality they swim away from divers. Tiger sharks grow up to a length of 7.3 metres and have commercial use as a source of leather and liver oil. Sp.: Galeocerdo cuvier.

timber rattlesnake heavy-bodied snake with a broad head that is distinct from its narrow neck. The rattlesnake inhabits the prairies of North America, where it feeds on a variety of small mammals, which are killed by its venomous bite. Humans are not under threat from rattlesnakes as 60 per cent of all bites are dry, and even venomous bites rarely cause more than temporary discomfort. The rattlesnake is generally golden-brown with black markings except for the head, which is plain brown, and its rattler, at the tip of its tail, which is dark black. Sp.: Crotalus horridus.

tokay large (35 cm) grey gecko with orange and deep blue spots, of South-east Asia. Sp.: Gekko gekko.

tortoise herbivorous chelonian reptile found in warm regions worldwide except Australia. Family: Testudinidae.

tree frog arboreal frog of the family Hylidae, with sucker-like pads to aid in climbing. Tree frogs are also known as tree toads.

triceratops rhinoceros-like herbivorous dinosaur of the Cretaceous period, up to 9 metres long, having three horns and a short armoured neck frill. Gen.: Triceratops.

turtle aquatic chelonian reptiles with a flattened shell and flipper-like limbs for swimming. Several families of the order Chelonia.

Tyrannosaurus rex 14 metres long, 6 metres tall, flesh-eating dinosaur with relatively small 2-fingered hands. Gen.: Tyrannosaurus.

unau aka Linné’s two-toed sloth. Sp.: Choloepus didactylus.

vervet small, yellowish-grey, African, long-tailed monkey. Sp.: Cercopithecus aethiops.

viscacha large South American burrowing rodent related to the chinchillas. Gen.: Lagidium and Lagostomus.

vole (field) small, rodent of the family Cricetidae with stocky body, short tail and small ears. Sp.: Microtus agrestis.

vole (water) large amphibious vole of Eurasian river banks. Sp.: Arvicola terrestris.

wallaby (hare) small rodent-like herbivorous marsupial of Australia and New Guinea, family Macropodidae. Gen.: Lagorchestes.

wallaby (rock) herbivorous marsupial of Australia and New Guinea, resembling a small kangaroo, of the family Macropodidae. Gen.: Protemnodon.

walrus large, tusked, aquatic mammal of the Arctic, a bottom feeder – mainly on molluscs – related to the eared seals. Its family, Odobenidae, has only one species: Odobenus rosmarus.

wapiti big North American deer, which is now considered as a larger race of the red deer. Sp.: Cervus canadensis.

warble fly any of various flies of the genus Hypoderma, whose larvae infest the skin of cattle and horses.

warthog African wild pig with a large head, warty lumps on its face and large curved tusks. Sp.: Phacochoerus aethiopicus.

wasp stinging insect of the order Hymenoptera, with black and yellow stripes and a very thin waist.

water moccasin (cottonmouth) poisonous, semi-aquatic pit viper of south-eastern USA. Sp.: Agkistrodon piscivorus.

water opossum semi-aquatic tropical American opossum with dark-banded grey fur. Aka yapok. Sp.: Chironectes minimus.

weasel (European common) small, brown and white carnivorous mammal with a slender body, related to the stoat. Gen.: Mustela nivalis.

whale any of the larger marine mammals of the order Cetacea, having a streamlined body and horizontal tail, and breathing air through a blowhole on the head. Gen.: Cetacea.

whale shark large, tropical whale-like shark feeding close to the surface, mainly on plankton. It is however the world’s largest living fish, attaining a maximum length of 16.9 metres. Sp.: Rhincodon typus.

white admiral mottled brown butterfly with a white splashed band down its wings. Sp.: Limenitis camilla.

wildcat wild cat of Eurasia and Africa with a grey and black coat and a bushy tail. Sp.: Felis silvestris.

wisent the European bison. Sp.: Bison bonasus.

witch North Atlantic flatfish resembling the lemon sole. Sp.: Glyptocephalus cynoglossus.

wobbegong (spotted) carpet shark of the family Orectolobidae, inhabiting Australian waters and having a richly patterned brown and white skin. Sp.: Orectolobus maculatus.

wolf (grey) wild, flesh-eating mammal of the northern hemisphere, ancestor of the domestic dog. Gen.: Canis lupus.

wolf-fish large, voracious blenny of the North Atlantic. Family: Anarhichadidae.

wolverine large, musteline mammal of northern forests of Eurasia and North America, a predator and scavenger, having dark very thick water-resistant fur. Aka glutton. Sp.: Gulo gulo.

wombat (common) Australian bear-like terrestrial marsupial with coarse dark hair and small ears. Sp.: Vombatus ursinus.

wombat (hairy nosed) two marsupial species of Queensland and central south Australia, with fine grizzled fur and longer ears than the common wombat. Sp.: Lasiorhinus krefftii and Lasiorhinus latifrons.

woodchuck reddish-brown and grey North American burrowing marmot. Aka groundhog. Sp.: Marmota monax.

woodlouse small, terrestrial, isopod crustacean of the order Oniscoidae, feeding on rotten wood and plant matter, some of them (pill bugs) able to roll into ball. Common woodlouse: Oniscus asellus.

yapok see water opossum.

yellowfin tuna fish of warm seas with yellowish fins, widely fished for food. Sp.: Thunnus albacares.

yellowtail game fish of coastal waters of southern California and Mexico, having a yellow tail fin. Sp.: Seriola dorsalis.

zebra (plains) African quadruped related to the ass and horse, with black and white stripes. Sp.: Equus burchelli.

zebu domestic humped ox of Asia and Africa. Sp.: Bos indicus.

zorilla flesh-eating African mammal of the weasel family, aka African polecat. Sp.: Ictonyx striatus.

Miscellaneous Information

abbranchiate having no gills.

amphibian: largest Japanese giant salamander.

anadromous of a fish (e.g. the salmon), swimming up a river from the sea to spawn.

anthrax fatal bacterial disease of sheep and cattle, transmissible to humans and affecting the skin and lungs; aka wool-sorters’ disease.

apatosaurus: aka Brontosaurus.

ape: smallest gibbon (apes have no tails).

artiodactyl any placental ungulate mammal whose hoofs have an even number of toes – e.g. pigs, sheep, camels, deer, cattle, antelope and hippopotamuses.

batrachian of or relating to frogs or toads.

butterfly: largest Queen Alexandra’s birdwing of Papua New Guinea has a wingspan of up to 25 centimetres (10 inches).

butterfly: tastes with back feet.

carnivore: largest the dinosaur Tyrannosaurus is the largest so far known; today the Kodiak bear is largest. The badger is the largest British carnivore.

carnivores: largest molars giant panda.

cat breeds: Abyssinian, Balinese, Birman, Bombay, Burmese, Burmilla, Chartreux, Cornish Rex, Cymric (tailless), Devon Rex, Donskoy, Havana Brown, Javanese, Korat, Manx (tailless), Minskin, Munchkin, Persian, Russian Blue, Siamese (blue, lilac and seal points), Turkish Van (white with patterned colour on head and tail).

catadromous of a fish (e.g. the eel), swimming down a river to the sea to spawn.

chelonian reptiles including turtles, terrapins and tortoises, having upper and lower shells of bony plates – the carapace and plastron – covered with horny scales.

cladistics method of classifying animals and plants on the basis of shared characteristics that indicate the relative recency of common ancestry.

class major taxonomic division of animals that contain one or more orders e.g. Amphibia, Mammalia and Reptilia. The class Mammalia includes the orders Carnivora, Primates and Rodentia.

crab: lives in cast-off mollusc shell hermit crab.

cricket: ears situated on front legs.

crops: damage boll weevil (cotton); Colorado beetle (potato); locust (most vegetation); phylloxera (vine).

daddy-long-legs: aka cranefly or harvestman (US); the larvae are called leatherjackets.

death-watch beetle the ticking is caused by knocking its head against wood.

dinosaur: longest Diplodocus (up to 30 metres).

dog breeds: Affenpinscher, Afghan, Airedale, Alaskan Malamute, Alsatian, Basenji (often called the barkless dog), Basset, Beagle, Bearded Collie, Bedlington Terrier, Bichon Frisé, Bloodhound, Borzoi, Boston Terrier, Boxer, Bull, Cairn Terrier, Chihuahua, Chow Chow (bluish tongue), Clumber Spaniel, Dachshund, Dalmatian, Dandy Dinmont, Doberman Pinscher, Fox Terrier, German Shepherd, Golden Retriever, Great Dane, Greyhound, Griffon, Irish Setter, Irish Wolfhound, Jack Russell, Kerry Blue, Labrador, Lhasa Apso, Mexican Hairless, Newfoundland, Norfolk Terrier, Papillon, Pekingese, Pointer, Pomeranian, Poodle, Pug, Rhodesian Ridgeback, Rottweiler, Saluki, Samoyed (white fluffy), Schnauzer, Sealyham, Shar Pei (wrinkled), Shih Tzu, Skye Terrier, St Bernard, Staffordshire Bull, Vizsla, Whippet, Yorkshire Terrier.

droppings deer – crotties, hare – currants, otter – spraints.

elephant: teeth number four.

family major taxonomic division of animals that contain one or more genera e.g. Canidae (dogs) and Felidae (cats). The family Canidae includes the genus Vulpes (foxes).

fish: fastest cosmopolitan sailfish.

fish: most poisonous stone fish.

fly: wings trues flies (including craneflies, gnat, mosquitos) have two; the four-winged caddis flies, dragonflies, etc., are not true flies.

genus major taxonomic division of animals that contain one or more species e.g. Vulpes (foxes). The genus Vulpes (foxes) includes the species Vulpes bengalensis (Bengal fox).

giant panda: related to raccoons (family Procyonidae).

glanders contagious and fatal disease of horses, mules and donkeys, caused by the bacterium Actinobacillus mallei and characterized by swellings below the jaw and mucous discharge from the nostrils.

hedgehog: fleas one hedgehog may have up to 500 fleas, but the hedgehog flea (Archaeopsylla erinacei) does not bite humans.

hinny offspring of a female donkey and a male horse.

horse: colours bay – brown with black mane and legs; chestnut – reddish-brown; dun – sandy with black mane; palomino – golden with pale mane; piebald – black and white; skewbald – brown and white; strawberry roan – chestnut and white.

insect: heaviest goliath beetle.

insects: segments head, abdomen, thorax (mnemonic: insects wear HATs).

invertebrate: largest giant squid.

kangaroo: name means 'I don't understand'.

kingdom any of the three groups into which natural objects may be divided i.e. animals, plants and minerals.

koala: name means 'no drink' (feeds on eucalyptus leaves).

lobster: colour Bluish but goes red when cooked.

louping-ill viral disease of animals, especially sheep, transmitted by ticks and causing staggering and jumping.

males give birth seahorse, from a pouch where the female deposits her eggs.

mallenders dry, scabby eruption behind a horse's knee.

metazoan any animal of the subkingdom Metazoa, having multicellular and differentiated tissues and comprising all animals except Protozoa and Parazoa (sponges).

mirror: response to the chimpanzee is the only animal, apart from humans, able to recognise itself in a mirror.

mule cross between a male horse and a female donkey or a female horse and male donkey.

murrain infectious disease of cattle caused by parasites.

ophidian reptile of the suborder Serpentes, comprising snakes.

order Major taxonomic division of animals that contain one or more families e.g. Carnivora, Primates and Rodentia. The order Carnivore includes the families Canidae (dogs) and Felidae (cats).

perissodactyl any placental ungulate mammal whose hoofs have an odd number of toes – e.g. horses, tapirs and rhinoceroses.

pets: legal age to buy in Britain 12 years old is the minimum legal age to purchase a pet.

phylum major taxonomic division of animals that contains one or more classes, e.g. Arthropoda and Chordata. The phylum Arthropoda includes the classes, Arachnids, Centipedes, Crustaceans and insects. The phylum Chordata includes the classes, Amphibia, Aves, Mammalia and Reptilia.

pinnipeds: definition carnivorous aquatic mammals with flippers for feet (name means wing-foot).

pismire Middle English name for an ant deriving from the smell of an anthill.

reproduces: young axolotl often reproduces before reaching adult stage itself.

rhinoceros: number of horns Indian and Javan, one; Black, Sumatran and White, two.

rodents: largest capybara (in world), beaver (in Europe), coypu (in UK).

scrapie fatal disease of sheep and goats, a spongiform encephalopathy producing degeneration of the central nervous system, caused by changes in prion proteins.

snake: heaviest South American anaconda.

spavin disease of a horse's hock with a hard bony swelling or excrescence.

species any of the taxonomic groups into which a genus is divided; e.g. the genus Vulpes (foxes) has many different species, such as Vulpes bengalensis (Bengal fox) and Vulpes pallida (pale fox). Species are denoted by two words, the first being the genus and the second the species.

strangles acute bacterial disease of horses caused by infection with Streptococcus equi, characterised by inflammation of the mucous membranes of the respiratory tract. Aka equine distemper.

sunburn: suffers from the pig is the only non-human animal to suffer from sunburn.

taxonomy the branch of biology concerned with the classification of organisms into groups based on similarities of structure, origin and type. Carolus Linnaeus (1707–78) was the first person to structure principles for defining genera and species of organisms and to create a uniform system for naming them. The seven tiers of the hierarchy are kingdom, phylum, class, order, family, genus and species. The first six ranks use a single word to describe their members, but the names of species are binomial. Various intermediary divisions of the seven main ranks have been necessitated by the continuing discovery of new species: the prefixes sub-, super- and infra- are often applied to create new categories, and further tiers are established by using headings such as tribe or cohort. All intermediary divisions use a single word to describe their members, but subspecies become trinomial. Conventionally, the names of superfamilies end in 'oidea', families in idae', subfamilies in 'inae' and tribes in 'ini'.

turning sickness affliction of wildebeest whereby loss of balance faculties causes a never-ending walking in circles until death; it happens when bot-flies lay eggs in their nose and larvae find their way into the brain.

twins: consistent production armadillos and salamanders always give birth to twins.

ungulates all mammals with hoofs; they are divided into odd-toed (perissodactyl) and even-toed (artiodactyl).

vision: rear-view giraffes have ability to see behind them without turning.

County Flowers

Plantlife International launched a County Flowers campaign in 2002 asking members of the public to nominate a wild flower emblem for their designated areas. The English Bluebell topped the poll but was so far ahead of the competition that it was excluded as a choice. In addition to the present counties of England, the poll also included the traditional counties of Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland, several of the old English counties plus some other important areas. A total of 50,000 people voted and the results were as follows.

ENGLAND

Bedfordshire: Bee orchid (Ophrys apifera). The mauve orchids mimic a bumblebee and are seen in disused quarries, on roadsides, even on waste ground in towns.

Berkshire: Summer snowflake (Leucojum aestivum). Because they grow beside the River Loddon, the tall-stemmed plants with drooping white flowers are known in the county as Loddon lilies.

Birmingham: Foxglove (Digitalis purpurea). Tall purple flowers found in parks and industrial wastelands. William Withering, the discoverer of the heart drug digitalis, which was derived from the foxglove, was chief physician of Birmingham General Hospital from 1775.

Bristol: Maltese cross (Lychnis chalcodonica). Introduced to Britain in the 16th century, the delicate red petals can be seen in waste ground and on roadsides. It is known as the Flower of Bristol.

Buckinghamshire: Chiltern gentian (Gentianella germanica). Grows on the chalk downs of Buckinghamshire and flowers in late summer.

Cambridgeshire: Pasqueflower (Pulsatilla vulgaris). Has been a famous Cambridgeshire flower since its discovery on the Gog Magog hills by John Ray in 1660. According to legend, the fluffy-stemmed purple plants grow on the graves of Viking warriors.

Cheshire: Cuckooflower (Cardamine pratensis). Also known as 'milkmaids'. It is a delicate flower of wet meadows and pond margins, befitting a county with more ponds than any other.

Cornwall: Cornish heath (Erica vagans). Lilac blooms are found on the Lizard moors (exclusively) in late summer.

Cumbria: Grass-of-Parnassus (Parnassia palustris). The tallish white-petalled flowers appear on the county arms. Legend has it that the cattle of the gods of Mount Parnassus fed on the plant, and so it was given honorary status as a grass.

Derbyshire: Jacob's ladder (Polemonium caeruleum). The bright blue flowers and delicate ladder-shaped leaves of the wild plant are common in the Peak District and Yorkshire Dales.

Devon: Primrose (Primula vulgaris). The yellowy-white flowers have a strong presence in Devon's high-banked scenic country lanes. Local papermakers used to present little bunches to their customers to provide a 'breath of Devon'.

Dorset: Dorset heath (Erica ciliaris). This tall crimson heather is a defining species of Dorset's heathland and bogs.

Durham: Spring gentian (Gentiana verna). Even if Upper Teesdale had no other plant, botanical die-hards would flock there to see this deep-blue five-petalled favourite.

Essex: Common poppy (Papaver rhoeas). The unmistakable blood-red flowers still adorn cornfields in the county, though they are just as common on disturbed ground, especially on the chalk.

Gloucestershire: Wild daffodil (Narcissus pseudonarcissus). The county's golden triangle around the villages of Newent and Dymock is famous for its wild daffodils or Lent lilies. A 10-mile footpath known as 'The Daffodil Way' runs through the heart of Gloucestershire.

Hampshire: Dog rose (Rosa canina). The lilac-petalled flower has long been the county's emblem.

Herefordshire: Mistletoe (Viscum album). In Hereford, mistletoe grows on apple trees and hawthorns, from which it can be harvested as a winter crop.

Hertfordshire: Pasqueflower (Pulsatilla vulgaris). To be seen in abundance on the limestone hillsides.

Huntingdonshire: Water violet (Hottonia palustris). The dainty five-petalled lilac flowers are hardier than they appear and can survive summer droughts.

Isle of Man: Fuchsia (Fuchsia magellanica). On the island this exotic plant with its red shrimp-like blossom grows unusually tall.

Isle of Wight: Pyramidal orchid (Anacamptis pyramidalis). The cone-shaped lilac plant abounds on the undercliff and across the island's hog's-back of chalk in June.

Isles of Scilly: Thrift (Armeria maritima). The lilac-coloured thrift can be seen on rocks and sea cliffs. The old threepenny bit used to have a depiction of thrift on the reverse.

Kent: Hop (Humulus lupulus). The pale green and white plants are unobtrusive climbers in hedgerows and thickets.

Lancashire: Red rose (Rosa species). The Red Rose county since the Middle Ages, when the House of Lancaster adopted the flower as its heraldic badge. The true red rose of Lancashire is supposedly the red rose of the Mediterranean (Rosa gallica).

Leeds: Bilberry (Vaccinium myrtillus). The bulbous purple berries are a symbol of the open air of the hills around Bradford and Leeds.

Leicestershire: Foxglove (Digitalis purpurea). The foxglove helps to define Leicestershire's uplands, the woods and bracken swards of Charnwood Forest, but is scarce in the agricultural east.

Lincolnshire: Common dog violet (Viola riviniana). Carpets the great limewoods of Bardney Forest near Lincoln. The term 'dog' denotes its lack of scent and is contrasted to 'sweet' violet.

Liverpool: Sea holly (Eryngium maritimum). Its powder-blue cone-shaped flowers emerge in July, protected by prickly, wax-covered leaves.

London: Rosebay willowherb (Epilobium angustifolium). The tall purple flowers mingle with buddleias and Michaelmas daisies on railway banks, walls and waste ground.

Manchester: Common cotton-grass (Eriophorum angustifolium). The white hairy plumes are an emblem of their boggy habitat and the wide open spaces.

Middlesex: Wood anemone (Anemone nemorosa). The long-stemmed pale-blue, white or pink unsymmetrical flowers are seen in woods and hedgebanks.

Newcastle upon Tyne: Monkeyflower (Mimulus guttatus). From midsummer, the banks and shingles of the Tyne are bright with the yellowy-orange, red-spotted 'monkey faces' more common in rural Northumberland.

Norfolk: Common poppy (Papaver rhoeas). Original choice was Alexanders (Smyrniolum olusatrum) but natives demanded a re-vote and out of five possible alternatives the poppy won. North Norfolk has long been known as 'poppyland'.

Northamptonshire: Cowslip (Primula veris). Frequently seen on road verges, quarries and railway banks, the tubular budded long-stemmed flowers adorned with beautiful orangey-yellow petals were chosen by three English counties.

Northumberland: Bloody crane's-bill (Geranium sanguineum). The vivid magenta flowers adorn coastal cliffs and dunes and spread inland on the rocks of the Whin Sill.

Nottingham: Nottingham catchfly (Silene nutans). The spider-like flowers were once seen on the walls of the castle but since renovation are not to be found anywhere in Nottingham.

Nottinghamshire: Autumn crocus (Crocus nudiflorus). The tightly petalled purple flowers used to adorn the meadows of the Trent and were sold at Nottingham market.

Oxfordshire: Fritillary (Fritillaria meleagris). Some of the best-known fritillary fields are in Oxfordshire, along the flood-meadows of the Thames, the purple bells bowing on their snakey stalks.

Rutland: Clustered bellflower (Campanula glomerata). The familiar rich-blue flowers of the southern limestone are scarce and therefore highly regarded.

Sheffield: Wood crane's-bill (Geranium sylvaticum). A much-loved flower of old hay-meadows and damp, open woods near Sheffield, with its distinctive flowers the colour of runny blue ink.

Shropshire: Round-leaved sundew (Drosera rotundifolia). This crimson-leaved carnivore, with glues and acids to trap and devour careless insects, is a bog plant.

Somerset: Cheddar pink (Dianthus gratianopolitanus). Discovered on 'Chidderoks' 300 years ago, it grows in several places in the Mendip Hills but nowhere more profusely than the original site at Cheddar Gorge.

Staffordshire: Heather (Calluna vulgaris). Traditionally a Scottish flower but Staffordshire is proud of its heather moors, blooming purple beyond the Potteries and manufacturing towns.

Suffolk: Oxlip (Primula elatior). The signature flower of well-established woods on the East Anglian boulder clay. The apricot scents of the drooping yellow blooms made this a popular choice.

Surrey: Cowslip (Primula veris). In Surrey, cowslips grow in contrasting places – dry chalk downs and damp meadows.

Sussex: Round-headed rampion (Phyteuma orbiculare). East and West Sussex are considered one county in the survey. Known as the Pride of Sussex, the sharp-blue flowers are common on the South Downs and bear resemblance to a many-tentacled jellyfish ready for its prey.

Warwickshire: Honeysuckle (Lonicera periclymenum). Honeysuckle is Shakespeare's 'woodbine', mentioned in A Midsummer Night's Dream, a play thought to have been set in the Forest of Arden.

Westmorland: Alpine forget-me-not (Myosotis alpestris). The blue flowers of this prettiest of forget-me-nots are confined in England to a few limestone hill-tops in the North Pennines.

Wiltshire: Burnt orchid (Orchis ustulata). This dwarf orchid belongs to the chalky core of Wiltshire, its white cone-shaped bloom turning pink and then dark red at the top.

Worcestershire: Cowslip (Primula veris). In parts of the county there are still small cowslip meadows hidden behind tall hedges. Locals call them 'cowslups'.

Yorkshire: Harebell (Campanula rotundifolia). It may appear surprising that the white rose was not chosen, but the blue and white blossom of the harebell matches the native folk for toughness and resilience, making it a perfect choice.

SCOTLAND

Aberdeenshire: Bearberry (Arctostaphylos uva-ursi). This red-berried trailing shrub is widespread at beautiful sites like the Muir of Dinnet.

Angus/Forfarshire: Alpine catchfly (Lychnis alpina). A single, remote hilltop of Angus boasts almost the whole British population of this pink alpine, although it is also seen in small areas of Cumbria.

Argyll: Foxglove (Digitalis purpurea). Seen on roadside banks in the mild, humid climate, foxgloves here look bigger and redder than those seen further south.

Ayrshire: Green-winged orchid (Orchis morio). Vary from pink-purple to almost white, the upper petals marked with dark veins and often suffused green. Unfortunately, although this beautiful flower is seen throughout the British Isles it is rare in Ayrshire.

Banffshire: Dark-red helleborine (Epipactis atrorubens). This rare and beautiful wild red orchid is a special plant of old Banff.

Berwickshire: Rock rose (Helianthemum nummularium). The five-petalled 'solflowers' form spectacular golden banks on some coastal cliffs in early summer.

Bute: Thrift (Armeria maritima). At its brightest and best on the rocky headlands and islands of the west coast.

Caitness: Scots primrose (Primula scotica). Scots primrose grows on promontories on the north coast including the most northerly point of mainland Britain, Dunnet Head. The rich purple flower is native to Orkney and Pentland Firth but is found nowhere else.

Clackmannanshire: Opposite-leaved golden saxifrage (Chrysosplenium oppositifolium). Creeping plant characteristic of the shaded, wooded glens.

Cromarty: Spring cinquefoil (Potentilla neumanniana). This pretty five-petalled golden trailing flower reaches its northern limit on the sea cliffs.

Dumfriesshire: Harebell (Campanula rotundifolia). The true bluebell of Scotland, aka the 'cuckoo's shoe'.

Dunbartonshire: Lesser water-plantain (Baldellia ranunculoides). This pale pink-flowered aquatic brightens a few bays and shores of Loch Lomond, Scotland's first National Park.

East Lothian and Haddingtonshire: Viper's bugloss (Echium vulgare). Rich blue and black flower found on dry banks and dunes.

Edinburgh: Sticky catchfly (Lychnis viscaria). The pale purple flower has grown on rocks in Holyrood Park for at least 400 years.

Fife: Coralroot orchid (Corallorhiza trifida). This pale yellow claw-fingered flower grows in quarries and disused railway lines.

Glasgow: Broom (Cytisus scoparius). The pale orange-brown vanilla-scented flowers of broom brighten many braes and railway lines.

Inverness-shire: Twinflower (Linnaea borealis). A shy species that creeps over the shady floor of mossy pinewoods, its drooping bell-shaped flowers hiding their inner beauty.

Kinross: Holy-grass (Hierochloe odorata). This delicate, scented grass grows on the banks of Loch Leven, the castle on a small island in the loch being the prison for a year of Mary, Queen of Scots.

Kirkcudbright: Bog rosemary (Andromeda polifolia). The delicate bulbous pink flowers are a particular feature of the much-reduced bogs of Galloway.

Lanarkshire: Dune helleborine (Epipactis leptochila). The county's coal 'blings' are home to two exotic orchids: the narrow-lipped or dune helleborine and Young's helleborine.

Moray: One-flowered wintergreen (Moneses uniflora). This star-shaped white plant needs mossy hollows in undisturbed pinewoods. Aka St Olaf's candle stick.

Nairn: Chickweed wintergreen (Trientalis europaea). This six-petalled white flower is not a true wintergreen but surprisingly, a relative of the primrose.

Orkney: Alpine bearberry (Arctostaphylos alpinus). The black berries amid the lightly veined leaves that turn red in autumn are in evidence on the path to the Old Man of Hoy rock stack.

Peebles: Cloudberry (Rubus chamaemorus). A miniature bramble of high places. The four-petalled, large white flowers with marmalade berries are hard to find but can be seen on the Pentland Hills.

Perthshire: Alpine gentian (Gentiana nivalis). This sweet 'gentian of the snows' is among the gems of Ben Lawers, the highest of the Perthshire hills.

Renfrewshire: Bogbean (Menyanthes trifoliata). A plant of dark, moorland waters, the bogbean's feathery flowers somewhat resemble an azalea.

Ross: Bog asphodel (Narthecium ossifragum). The golden spires of bog asphodel light up dark, peaty places after midsummer.

Roxburghshire: Maiden pink (Dianthus deltoides). Purple five-petalled scentless flower inhabiting dry banks and hill pastures.

Selkirkshire: Mountain pansy (Viola lutea). Largest of the native pansies, a flower of upland pastures, sheep and trout beck.

Shetland: Shetland mouse-ear (Cerastium nigrescens). This white ten-petalled flower is entirely confined to the island of Unst.

Stirlingshire: Scottish dock (Rumex aquaticus). Confined to the banks of Loch Lomond, the towering russet spires are sometimes called the Loch Lomond dock.

Sutherland: Grass-of-Parnassus (Parnassia palustris). Increasingly scarce elsewhere, this flower of wet flushes and hollows is still fairly common here.

West Lothian and Linlithgowshire: Common spotted orchid (Dactylorhiza fuchsii). The lilac spikes and red spotted leaves of this flower enliven many wild places in West Lothian.

Western Isles: Hebridean spotted orchid (Dactylorhiza fuchsii subspecies hebridensis). Believed to be a low-growing form of the much more widespread common spotted orchid, although more conical in shape and a richer lilac in colour.

Wigtownshire: Yellow iris (Iris pseudacorus). Known locally as 'segg' or 'sword-grass', a reference to the remarkable blade-like leaves. The flagging appearance belies a hardness demanded by its habitat of wet fields and marshes.

WALES

Anglesey/Sir Fon: Spotted rock rose (Tuberaria guttata). Yellow five-petalled flower with distinct crimson spots near the base of each petal. Predominant on Anglesey's Holy Island.

Brecknockshire/Sir Frycheiniog: Cuckooflower (Cardamine pratensis). The delicate tall-stemmed lilac flowers appear in the meadows of Brecknock when the cuckoo returns in mid-April.

Caernarvonshire/Sir Gaernarfon: Snowdon lily (Lloydia serotina). The pride of Wales, unlike most alpiners, blooms alone, and often out of reach, in rock crevices.

Cardiff/Caerdydd: Wild leek (Allium ampeloprasum). The lilac globes of the flowering wild leek were used to identify Welsh soldiers in battle against the English. The traditional emblem of Wales.

Cardiganshire/Ceredigion: Bog rosemary (Andromeda polifolia). A speciality of mid-west Wales, with delicate pink bells and rosemary-like foliage. Also chosen by Kirkcudbright.

Carmarthenshire/Sir Gaerfyrddin: Whorled caraway (Carum verticillatum). Found on rough pasture, its frothy blossom symbolises the battle between conservation and intensive agriculture.

Denbighshire/Sir Ddinbych: Limestone woundwort (Stachys alpina). Grows among rocks by roadsides and is seen only in Denbigh and Gloucestershire.

Flintshire/Sir Flint: Bell heather (Erica cinerea). Bell heather announces the brief blaze of colour that lights up the moors at the end of summer.

Glamorgan/Morgannwg: Yellow whitlow grass (Draba aizoides). Confined to cliffs and old walls on the Gower, this tiny cress flowers in the early spring.

Merioneth/Merionnydd: Welsh poppy (Meconopsis cambrica). The bright yellow Welsh poppy is a native of rocky gullies and stream sides in Merioneth.

Monmouthshire/Sir Fynwy: Foxglove (Digitalis purpurea). The foxglove is a common wayside flower in Gwent. Also chosen by Argyll, Birmingham and Leicestershire.

Montgomeryshire/Sir Drefaldwyn: Spiked speedwell (Veronica spicata). The tall, deep blue spikes of this rock plant are one of the celebrated rarities of Craig Breidden.

Pembrokeshire: Thrift (Armeria maritima). Thrift brightens up the county's coastline of headlands, rock arches and bays in May. Also chosen by the Isles of Scilly, Bute.

Radnorshire/Sir Faesyfed: Radnor lily (Gagea bohemica). Aka 'early-star-of-Bethlehem' and sometimes flowering as early as mid-winter.

NORTHERN IRELAND

Antrim: Harebell (Campanula rotundifolia). Known as the 'goblin's thimble' in Co. Antrim; legend has it that you pick it at your peril. Also chosen by Dumfriesshire and Yorkshire.

Armagh: Cowbane (Cicula virosa). As its name implies the plant is poisonous to cattle, and it is consequently slowly being eradicated.

Belfast: Gorse (Ulex europaeus). The bright yellow sweetly scented flowers are ever-present in heathland, waste ground, banks and coastal regions.

Derry: Purple saxifrage (Saxifraga oppositifolia). Inhabits cliff edges and rocks, and flowers early spring, often amid the lying snow.

Fermanagh: Globeflower (Trollius europaeus). The distinctive golden puffballs adorn the lake margins of west Fermanagh.

Tyrone: Bog rosemary (Andromeda polifolia). One of the special plants of the central Irish peat-bogs. Also chosen by Kirkcudbright and Cardiganshire.
